Ike Tells Nehru U.S. Is Seeking Laos Solution

Soviet Ambassador Meets With Herter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower has written India's Jawaharlal Nehru that the United States is seeking a peaceful solution in Laos which would guarantee the kingdom's independence against outside intervention, authoritative sources said Tuesday.

News of the President's letter to the Indian prime minister came shortly after Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov conferred on Laos for nearly 40 minutes with Secretary of State Christian Herter

Menshikov, whose government is aiding Communist-led forces in Laos, sought the interview. A State Department spokesman said that while no Russian note was presented, the ambassador discussed Laos from the Kremlin's viewpoint.

Both India and Russia have been seeking revival of the old three-power International Control Commission as one means of settling the Laotian civil war. India, Canada and Poland are members of the Commission, established in 1954 to police the Indochinese armistice.

Eisenhower's letter to Nehru may have been inspired by the fact that the Indian leader has taken the initiative in trying to get some sort of international body to begin work on a Laotian settlement.

The President reportedly reaffirmed U.S. determination to work for a peaceful solution under circumstances which would guarantee Laotian independence and sovereignty against intervention and aggression from any outside source.

Eisenhower also is believed to have reassured Nehru there is no truth to Communist charges the U.S. government is trying to establish a military base in Laos and pull the small kingdom into a Western defense alliance.

The letter coincided with stepped-up consultations between the United States and its allies in an effort to find a way to stabilize the Laotian situation.

Cuba Coast Defenders Grow Weary

HAVANA (AP)—The novelty of watching for an enemy that never comes seemed wearing thin among Cubans Tuesday. There were signs Fidel Castro may soon announce the strength of his people's army has frightened off American aggressors.

Cuban propaganda outlets continued to assert that the United States plans to invade this island nation before President Eisenhower turns over the White House to President-elect John F. Kennedy on Jan. 20.

Castro-controlled papers used big headlines to denounce U.S. Navy maneuvers in the Caribbean and a visit of the supercarrier Franklin D. Roosevelt to the U.S. base on Guantanamo Bay.

Revolucion charged that Americans have mined the bay.

That charge was denied by a U.S. Navy spokesman in Washington. He said travel through the base to Cuban docks at the head of the bay must remain unrestricted under terms of a 1903 treaty.

Guatemala Buildup Charged

The newspaper repeatedly cited alleged American-financed war preparations in Guatemala, 700 miles away across the Caribbean, as proof of Washington plans to attack.

But activity in Cuba's defense preparations, which have placed all Cuba under virtual martial law since Dec. 31, appeared to be dwindling.

Heavy rain and a cold north wind contributed to this.

Cuban labor organizations—in the forefront of the workers militia — arranged for a massive demonstration before the presidential palace Friday night.

It is logical to suppose Castro will address the mass meeting. Many believe he will choose that time to announce that the potential invaders have been scared off by Cuba's massive demonstration of armed strength.

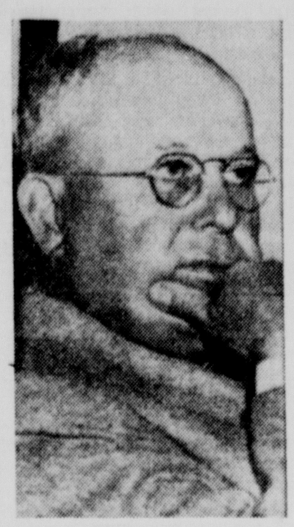

Where's Castro?

The whereabouts of the prime minister were undetermined. Some sources said he had left Havana—possibly for a closer look at the situation around Guantanamo Bay.

The Cuban News Agency said in a dispatch from San Juan, Puerto Rico, that more than 100 anti-Castro Cubans have taken refuge under the American flag at the Guantanamo base and some are being flown to Puerto Rico.

There were indications part of the thousands of militiamen Castro has called up since the year-end are returning to their jobs in the factories and on the farms.

More and more of Castro's regular army soldiers are appearing in Havana. Some are relieving militiamen.

Mansfield Acts To Halt Senate Rules Hassle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic leader Mike Mansfield moved late Tuesday to halt the Senate battle over filibuster rules on grounds that it might endanger enactment of the Kennedy legislative program.

Mansfield requested that the issue, aimed at tightening anti-filibuster rules, be sent to the Senate Rules Committee. He pledged that the group would bring back a recommended change later in the session.

The Senate finally recessed for the night, however, without reaching agreement on when to vote on Mansfield's proposals. Several attempts to fix a time ranging from Wednesday to Friday were blocked by individual objections.

Mansfield, newly - designated chairman of the Rules Committee called the current debate "petty, time consuming, emotion - filled and disruptive."

He urged the Senate to adopt his proposal and clear the decks for early action on President-elect John F. Kennedy's program. Otherwise, he said, "that program might be in danger.

Mansfield immediately ran into opposition from Republican and Democratic liberals, but received support from Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill.

Mansfield's move came after a week of inconclusive debate.

The senator said both he and Dirksen would support a plan to let three-fifths of all senators present and voting limit debate instead of the presently required two-thirds.

Mansfield also promised he would do everything possible to see that the Rules Committee reported a change — probably the three-fifths plan—as soon as possible.

But Sen. Jacob K Javits, R-N. Y., argued that such a proposal still would confront the Senate with a filibuster against the rules change, possibly such as the one on civil rights which tied up the chamber for weeks last year.

Fowler, Duke Get Kennedy Appointments

President-Elect Flies To Florida After Busy Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy Tuesday night appointed Washington attorney Henry H. Fowler as an undersecretary of the Treasury and diplomat Angier Biddle Duke as the State Department's chief of protocol.

The appointments were announced shortly before Kennedy flew to his pre-inaugural retreat at Palm Beach, Fla., after a furious round of conferences in New York and Washington. It was one of his busiest post-election days to date.

The president - elect also received a "highly informative" report on the space program and a task force recommendation that he broaden still further his plan for linking medical care for the aged to the Social Security system.

Kennedy tackled the balance of payments problem at a conference with Robert B. Anderson, outgoing Treasury secretary, Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla. They also discussed money problems involved in space projects.

Worked With TVA

Fowler, 52, will bring to his Treasury post a wealth of experience in government jobs. A native of Roanoke, Va., he is a former attorney for the Tennessee Valley Authority, a one - time head of the National Production Authority and, as a former defense mobilizer, was a member of the National Security Council.

Duke, 45, a career foreign service officer, is president of the Council on Inter - American Affairs and a member of the New York City Executive Committee for the United Nations. He has held State Department posts in Washington, Argentina and Spain.

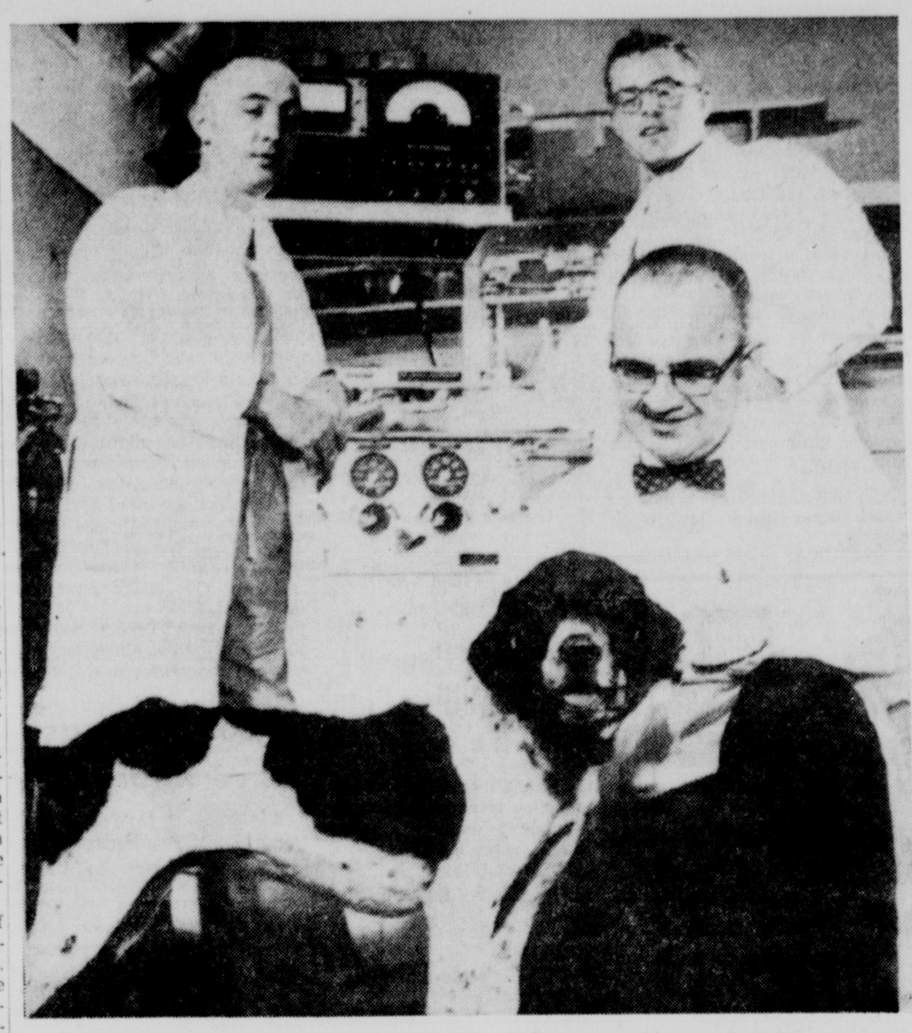

Kennedy also appointed Arthur Sylvester, Washington correspondent of the Newark, N.J., Evening News, as assistant secretary of defense for public affairs. John Moore of Philadelphia, vice president of the University of Pennsylvania, was named head of the General Services Administration, the government's housekeeping agency. Bernard L. Boutin, Laconia, N.H., unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor of New Hampshire last year, was appointed deputy administrator of the agency.

Would Expand Care

The medical care report was submitted to Kennedy by a task force headed by Dr. Wilber J. Cohen of the University of Michigan. It proposed an expanded health plan that would cover 14.5 million persons at an annual cost of about $1 billion.

The task force proposal would go considerably further than the bill sponsored by Kennedy in the Senate last year. But Dr. Cohen declared it did not represent a step toward "socialized medicine."

Kennedy said the space report, which will be made public on Wednesday, was a "highly informative working paper covering many aspects of this critically important field." He said it would be useful to him and Johnson in shaping their space program.

Haiti Closes Catholic Paper, Ousts Prelate

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The Haitian government, renewing its conflict with the Roman Catholic Church, Tuesday closed a church newspaper, deported the nation's highest ranking church authority, and ordered four other priests expelled.

Police put the Most Rev. Remy Augustin aboard an Argentina-bound plane after holding him under house arrest 14 hours.

Bishop Augustin, the second prelate to be expelled, had been arrested in bed and was not even allowed to take along a dental plate.

The government later issued a decree for expulsion of four priests rounded up earlier in the day. They are Fathers Paul Bellec, vicar general of the archbishopric; Francois le Nir, its general secretary; Jean Baptiste Bettebourg, rector of Saint Martial, Port au Prince's largest Catholic high school; and Emile Callec.

Bishop Augustin, Haitian-born, had been running church affairs in this French-speaking Negro republic since President Francois Duvalier expelled a French-born primate, Archbishop Francois Poirier.

Deportation of the archbishop seven weeks ago drew a sharp official protest from the Vatican and almost certainly exposed the Haitians involved to excommunication. Excommunication means denial of the church sacraments and loss of fellowship with other Catholics.

Duvalier is a Catholic. So are most other Haitians.

The government is still trying to crush a university student strike movement begun last fall in protest at the jailing of a student leader suspected of being a Communist. This strike was a factor in the action against both the church leaders.

Cops Will Gun For "Loiterers"

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Police have warned that they will go gunning for loiterers at the public square in downtown Hagerstown, starting at dusk Thursday.

Motorists traveling busy U. S. 40 through town will get a closeup view of the posse in action.

Police and the city engineering department decided on a course of action after local citizens petitioned the mayor and City Council about the problem.

Police will fire blanks from shotguns into the air in an attempt to chase thousands of starlings from buildings and overhead wires.

Eisenhower's Final Budget 'Non-Political'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's final federal budget, which goes to Congress on Monday, will be a balanced, non-political one, Republican congressional leaders said Tuesday.

But they added that some of the spending recommendations made to President-elect John F. Kennedy by his various "task forces" could throw the new budget into the red, if adopted.

The GOP leaders, speaking to newsmen after their final weekly meeting with Eisenhower, said also that the government will end up in the black during the current fiscal year—which the administration has been predicting all along.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the Senate and House GOP leaders, said the meeting of more than two hours with Eisenhower was devoted largely to the budget.

The budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1 is the one Eisenhower will send to Congress four days before he turns over the reins of government to Kennedy.

"It is a balanced budget. It is a constructive budget. This budget would be the same if Dwight Eisenhower were to continue in office," Dirksen said.

"It is not an expedient budget, not an opportunist budget, not a political budget. It is a forward-looking constructive governmental operation."

Dirksen said Eisenhower will again stress the necessity for living within revenues. The GOP leaders said the budget provides for projects that are necessary for the national well-being yet will "keep our fiscal house in order by living within our revenues."

Sleuth Fiction Writer Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Dashiell Hammett, 66, who deserted the ranks of private eyes to found the hard-boiled, wise-cracking school of American detective fiction, died Tuesday of a lung ailment.

He had been ill for four years and in a hospital for the last two months. He did little writing in recent years.

Hammett's best known works were "The Maltese Falcon" and "The Thin Man," in the early 1930s. Both were adapted to the movies, the latter in a memorable series that starred Myrna Loy and William Powell.

About 10 years ago, Hammett fell afoul of anti-Communist investigators. He was sent to prison for six months in 1951 for contempt, growing out of his refusal to tell where the Communist party got bail money for a quartet of fugitive party leaders.

Hammett at the time was chairman of the bail fund of the Civil Rights Congress—an outfit labeled Communist and subversive by the attorney general's office.

State Takes Case To High Court, Loses

Negroes Register After Judge Bars Closing Of School

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A Negro boy and girl became students at the University of Georgia Tuesday, crumbling a segregation wall that had been impregnable since founding of the school in 1785.

Charlayne A. Hunter, 18, and Hamilton E. Holmes, 19, paid their tuition fees to the university treasurer, J. D. Bolton, at Athens, Ga., and will enter classes Wednesday morning under protection of federal court orders.

They completed their registration three hours after Federal Dist. Judge William A. Bootle granted a temporary injunction at Macon, Ga., restraining Gov. Ernest Vandiver from cutting off funds under a state law and closing the school where the governor obtained his law degree.

The state received another telling blow late Tuesday afternoon when the U. S. Supreme Court unanimously refused to delay the admittance of the Negroes.

At Athens, Miss Hunter was assigned a room in Center Myers Hall under a university rule requiring freshman women to live on campus.

White Girls In Tears

A number of white girls left the dormitory in tears and walked around the building, weeping. One packed her suitcase and set it out on the sidewalk and another was seen carrying armloads of clothing from the dormitory.

There was no fanfare as the Negroes officially became students. Some 500 of the nearly 7,500 white boys and girls in attendance at Georgia stood quietly outside the treasurer's office as the fees were paid.

Bootle, 58, who precipitated near pandemonium in state political circles last Friday by ordering desegregation, enjoined both the governor and State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. from interfering with operation of the university.

Vandiver, 42, lashed back in a stinging telegram to Bootle protesting his order but saying "my respect for lawful processes and my oath as governor preclude any act of defiance on my part."

Miss Hunter and Holmes slipped into the administration building through a rear door to complete admission procedures. She will study journalism. He will continue premedical courses and plans to transfer later to the university Medical School at Augusta, Ga.

Bootle scheduled a hearing for Thursday at Macon on making the injunction permanent. Capitol sources speculated such an action would void the present state appropriations law which says tax funds can't be used to operate an integrated school.

Vandiver's Hands Tied

Vandiver's announcement Monday night that the university would be closed if the Negroes enrolled sent attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on their hurried mission to Macon, 100 miles south of Atlanta.

The governor's plan was to rush through the legislature a repeal of the appropriations law clause about cutting off funds. He emphasized he would not consider closing the school for more than a few days.

Miss Hunter and Holmes completed Monday all details of registration except payment of tuition fees, but didn't appear on the campus Tuesday morning. Classes proceeded and Vandiver withheld signing an order cutting off funds.

"I haven't signed the paper yet but I will as soon as they enter the classrooms," the governor said.

But that was before Bootle issued his restraining order shortly after noon. That brought Vandiver within the realm of legal contempt of a federal court if he lifted a hand.

Worker Killed By Tank Blast

BALTIMORE (AP)—One workman was killed and four others were injured Tuesday when an explosion shredded one of several underground storage tanks at the Leidy Chemical Corp.

The body of Richard Mason, 30, Negro, was uncovered more than an hour after the blast. It was found in the tank where he had been using sand-blasting equipment.

Four co-workers were admitted to nearby hospitals with minor head injuries.

According to police, William Bauer, 31, of Ferndale, was welding above Mason when a spark apparently came in contact with undetermined chemical vapors and touched off the blast.

Two of the other workers were hurled some 20 feet in the air along with debris and drums of acid.

McNamara Planning $1½ Million Trust

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators reported Tuesday that Robert S. McNamara, 44, millionaire designated as the new secretary of defense, proposes to put more than $1½ million into a trust outside his control while he holds office.

He proposed that way of handling the money he received last month for selling his 24,705 shares of stock in the Ford Motor Co. of which he was president when he was picked by President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Marylander, $8,000 In Phony Bills Seized

WASHINGTON (AP)—Morris E. Anglin Jr., 30, of Hyattsville, Md., was arrested in a nearby Virginia motel by Secret Service agents Tuesday and charged with passing counterfeit $20 bills.

The Secret Service said Anglin had $8,000 in phony bills on him when he was arrested.

Agents declined to identify the motel or a woman they said was with Anglin at the time of the arrest.

Former Pentagon Employe Indicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Arthur R. Roddey, 38 - year - old former Pentagon statistician was indicted under the federal espionage laws Friday on charges of stealing some 200 secret Defense Department documents dealing with missile warfare.

A federal grand jury at nearby Alexandria Va., handed down a 12 - count indictment charging Roddey with illegal possession of documents which "could be used to the advantage of a foreign nation."

However, Roddey was not charged with spying or turning over the documents to a foreign power.

Roddey was discharged from his job at the Defense Department last August. FBI agents discovered the missing papers, which bore security classifications ranging from top secret to confidential, in his Falls Church, Va., home last September.

Hemingway Clinic Patient Since Nov. 30

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Author Ernest Hemingway has been a patient at the Mayo Clinic here since Nov. 30, clinic spokesmen said in answer to a query Tuesday.

The spokesman said Hemingway would not permit the nature of his illness to be disclosed. He is expected to be released in 10 days to two weeks.

The bearded writer traveled here under an assumed name, it was learned.

Kennedy And Nixon Pay Tribute To Eisenhower

NEW YORK (AP) — John F. Kennedy, the man who won, and Richard M. Nixon, the man who lost, paid tribute Tuesday to the man whom they both wanted to succeed, President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

President-elect Kennedy paid tribute to "the grace and the courtesy with which power has been moved from the Eisenhower administration to the new Democratic administration."

Nixon, retiring Republican vice president, spoke of "the opportunity to be in the presence of and to work with and under a truly great man."

The occasion was a special NBC-TV program, "Tribute to a Patriot," a series of filmed tributes to the outgoing President.

Nixon originally had declined to take part in the program, on grounds he was previously committed at the time he was due to tape his tribute. He also contended that in deference to Kennedy he wanted to stay off television for the time being. He changed his mind, however, and told a New York audience on the program:

"I have seen President Eisenhower make many hard decisions—decisions that could have meant the difference, for example between war and peace for America—and they have been right.

"But the hardest decisions that any leader in a free country has to make are those in which he must decide between doing what is right, but possibly unpopular, and doing something that might be more popular from a personal standpoint."

Guatemala Troops Train For Guerrilla Warfare

GUATEMALA (AP) — Detachments of Guatemala's regular army are getting intensive guerrilla tactical training at Retalhuleu near the Pacific Coast of Guatemala, the Defense Minstry said Tuesday.

U. S. officers are at the Retalhuleu base in their normal roles as Guatemalan army advisors, Defense Minister Enrique Peralta Azurdia said.

He denied the base is being used to train guerrilla fighters against the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba.

"There are no aggressive intentions in connection with the activities at Retalhuleu," he said. "They are just routine activities by the Guatemalan army.

"In connection with the presence of U. S. officers, it should be remembered that American military and air missions are in Guatemala and normally give valuable advice to our army."

He was commenting on a New York Times dispatch saying the United States is supplying Guatemala with training personnel, material and other assistance in the preparation of a commando-type force for a possible clash with Cuba.

The State Department at Washington declined comment, but its press officer, Lincoln White, said: "The United States under the inter-American defense system is helping practically every Latin-American country excepting, of course, Cuba and the Dominican Republic."

SS Health Care Backed By Conference On Aging

WASHINGTON (AP)—Backers of medical care for the aged tied to the Social Security program won out by a slim margin Tuesday in preliminary voting at the White House conference on aging.

Seven discussion groups, considering the problem of financing health programs for the aged, voted 96-77 in favor of making use of the Social Security system. Each group voted separately.

Although the margin was narrow, the vote was considered particularly significant because of charges before the conference that it had been stacked by delegates opposed to the Social Security approach to medical care.

It appeared from the vote, too, that this majority view would be included as one of the policy statements that will come out of the four-day conference.

A final vote by the section charged with considering the problem of financing medical care is due Wednesday.

The action of the seven work groups was summed up by section chairman Charles I. Schottland of Brandeis University. He said:

1. Various approaches also were suggested for improving medical health services for the aged, including promotion of voluntary methods, private insurance and group insurance.

2. Extension of public assistance was advocated to help with health care for the needy.

3. There was general agreement on a need for more adequate provision of medical care for the aged. This requires a variety of approaches, including the promotion of various methods—savings, private insurance, group health programs.

The United States has won more Nobel Prizes than has any other country.

Paris-Algeria Peace Parley Expected Soon

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Peace negotiations between France and the Algerian rebel government are expected soon, high French officials said Tuesday.

These officials said secret contacts between envoys of the French government and the rebels may begin in a matter of weeks to be followed by full negotiations.

The move would follow the Sunday referendum that approved President Charles de Gaulle's handling of the thorny Algerian problem.

But there was no outward sign of a move by either camp.

De Gaulle went ahead in Paris with his plans for giving Algeria virtual self-government at home.

Rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas consulted his Cabinet in exile at Tunis. His spokesman said the referendum result was not on the agenda "because it does not really concern us."

But, behind the apparent indifference on both sides, there was a general feeling that things would soon be moving.

The French government apparently hopes that the rebels will agree to a compromise to end the six-year-old rebellion.

De Gaulle's plan is to establish an Algerian executive some time this spring as an intermediate step before a final vote on self-determination.

Baltimore Papers Plan $6 Million Plant

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore News - Post and Sunday American Tuesday announced completion of plans for a $6 million plant to house the newspapers.

J. D. Gortatowsky, chairman of the board of the Hearst Consolidated Corp., said the new plant "will utilize our present real property and additional land we have acquired since the announcement of our plans in 1958."

The construction is scheduled to start soon, with the new building to be completed in the spring of 1962.

State's Dignity At Stake So "Hot Dog" Must Go

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The question of what to do about the nickname of Lloyd Simpkins, the new secretary of state, was before the Maryland House of Delegates Tuesday.

Simpkins, who will be sworn into office Friday, has been known as "Hot Dog" to all and sundry even while serving as executive secretary to Gov. Tawes.

Simpkins picked up the nickname as a boy, when he sold hot dogs to baseball fans at games in Somerset County.

Del. Jerome Robinson, D-Balto 4th, thought a Salisbury Times editorial aptly described the situation and he read it to the House.

"It was not too incongruous to address a member of Maryland's House of Delegates as Hot Dog," read the editorial. "Everyone else did."

"And when, under his friend and neighbor Millard Tawes, he became administrative assistant to the governor, or as his fellow Somerset countians would say, assistant governor, the nickname was only slightly inappropriate and he was addressed 'Hot Dog' as frequently as he was 'Lloyd.'

"Now, at the age of 38 the nickname must be outgrown. It was not too inappropriate for a schoolboy, a graduate of the University of Maryland School of Agriculture, or the University's School of Law, a practicing attorney, astute politician, member of the House or even top aide to the governor of Maryland.

"But come Friday when he takes the oath of office, as far as we are concerned, it will be the Hon. Lloyd L. Simpkins, secretary of state of the Free State of Maryland.

"It's going to be hard for friends, Marylanders by the thousands, to start mistering Mr.Simpkins. And no doubt he will be a bit selfconscious about it.

"But he is a capable young man who has achieved high office in a remarkably few years and we say, congratulations, Mr. Simpkins, and we do mean you, 'Hot Dog'."

Alleged Spies Jailed In Cuba

HAVANA (UPI) — The Cuban government Tuesday sentenced three Americans to 10-year jail terms on charges of espionage and ordered a fourth departed.

The men convicted and sentenced were Edmund K. Taranske of New York City; Daniel L. Carswell, 42, East Chester, N.Y., and Eustice Dan Brunet, 34, of Baltimore. The fourth man, Mario Nordio, an Italian-born American from New York who was formerly a dance instructor at the Havana Riviera Hotel, was deported.

The group was arrested last Sept. 15 along with a U.S. Embassy secretary, Marjorie Lennox of San Francisco, and accused of "spying" on the activities of the Communist New China news agency, Hsinhua.

Prisoners' Pleas Have Informality

BALTIMORE (AP) — How informal can a prisoner's appeal get?

That was a likely question for U.S. District Court Clerk Wilfred W. Butschky to ask himself Tuesday, when his office received a couple of remarkable specimens.

One was scrawled on the back of an envelope, the other on the white side of an opened cigaret package.

The appeals were from two Washington Negroes each sentenced to six months imprisonment, Phillip D. Davis, 23, and Kiser Harris Jr., 24. When tried by U.S. Commissioner Samuel W. H. Meloy Jan. 4 in Upper Marlboro, they pleaded guilty to unlawfully entering Ft. Meade Dec. 23 for purposes of larceny.

Butschky said the notes did not meet all requirements but would be considered valid, anyway, and set for hearings before a federal judge.

Soldier Ordered Held For Car Theft

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Municipal Judge Forrest B. Wall Tuesday ordered Pvt. Robert G. McNeer, 18, a soldier stationed at Ft. Eustis, held for grand jury action on an auto theft charge.

McNeer was arrested by city police Monday shortly after his release by authorities in Maryland and his return to Ft. Eustis. He and another Ft. Eustis soldier, Pvt. Court D. Tennyson, were arrested by Maryland police Jan. 1 after a high speed chase on the Baltimore - Washington -Expressway during which police said they fired 17 shots at the car occupied by the pair.

Tennyson is held by federal authorities in Maryland on a charge of transporting a stolen vehicle across state lines.

The car was stolen here Jan. 1.

Controversial Fuel Study Bill Reintroduced

WASHINGTON (AP)—The controversial proposal for creation of a congressional Fuels Study Committee has been reintroduced in Congress.

Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd, West Virginia Democrats, along with 25 other senators, have introduced a resolution in the Senate calling for establishment of a Senate-House committee on a national fuels study.

Randolph told the Senate in submitting the proposal Monday that the resolution does not seek to legislate for or against any fuel or any segment of the economy. It would simply enable Congress to obtain information he said. Recommendations and findings would be submitted to congressional committees.

"It would be my hope," Randolph said, "that out of this data a national fuels policy might appropriately be formulated and considered for congressional enactment."

The proposed joint committee would report its findings not later than Jan. 1, 1963, then go out of existence.

Legislation to create a national Fuels Study Committee last year reached the House Rules Committee, where it failed to obtain clearance for House action by a tie vote of the committee.

Opponents contended it was sponsored primarily by coal interests and that it would be an opening move to obtain a policy under which consumers would be told what type of fuel they could use.

Intruder Knocks Out Mechanic, Rapes Wife

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 56-year-old mechanic and his wife awoke in their downtown Baltimore apartment early Tuesday to see a tall Negro standing at the foot of their bed.

As the mechanic got up from the bed, he was beaten unconscious with a frying pan. The intruder then raped the mechanic's 51-year-old wife and fell asleep on the bed.

He was still sleeping when police arrested him. The 29-year-old resident of suburban Glen Burnie was held without charge for questioning.

Police said the wife was so terrified she lay motionless for an hour after the attack until her husband regained consciousness. The husband was taken to City Hospitals with a possible skull fracture.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mrs. Arthur G. Thompkins has been named director of nursing at Union Memorial Hospital here.

Mrs. Thompson was chairman of the Department of Diploma and Associate Degree Programs of the Maryland League for Nursing from 1958-60, and formerly educational director of the hospital's School of Nursing.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A University Hospital spokesman Tuesday said the condition of Sen. Joseph A. Bertorelli, who suffered a stroke Saturday, is "improving, but still considered serious."

Bertorelli, 49, D-Balto 1st, was stricken after attending a luncheon with former mayor Thomas D'Alesandro Jr. and other Democratic leaders at a downtown Baltimore hotel.

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Hunting violations have cost 11 sportsmen $541.50 in forfeited collateral in Magistrate's Court here.

The charges involved shooting over bait, exceeding the bag limit, improper licenses and the shooting of canvasback ducks in closed season.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — A Baltimore County Republican group is urging that members of the County Council be elected by district instead of on a countywide basis.

Income-Boosting Bills Are Reviewed

A number of bills in the Senate and House at the General Assembly were discussed yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The commissioners will recommend passage of Senate Bill 72 which would provide that personal property taxes which are paid by utilities in the county where their home office is located will be paid within the county where the personal property is located.

This would affect the C&P Telephone Company, which pays personal property taxes in Baltimore City, and the Potomac Edison Company, which pays these taxes in Frederick County. Commissioner John T. Mason said that personal property of the two utilities in Allegany County is taxed in the two home office areas of Frederick and Baltimore City.

No mention was made as to the amount which would be realized by Allegany County if the measure is passed in the Legislature.

Another proposed piece of legislation would limit the amount a county could expend for public welfare to 10 cents per $100 of assessed property. Commissioner Mason said this would save the county approximately $40,000 annually.

Another Senate measure would eliminate the various counties from payment of the $180 annual fee for each inmate of a state training school. The commissioners, of course, are in favor of this measure.

Commissioner Mason said another bill which would provide for a survey by the State Department of Taxation and Assessment every two years, starting in 1962, to determine the relationship between assessed value of property and true market value in each of the counties has been proposed. This is also favored by the commissioners.

Snow Removal Work Praised By Firemen

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners received a letter of commendation yesterday from the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association for the snow removal work during the past month by the Allegany County Roads Department.

Cromwell C. Zembower, secretary of the association, said the snow removal by the county road crews assisted the various fire companies in maneuvering trucks in answering fire alarms.

Conference Is Planned

Gov. J. Millard Tawes yesterday informed John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, that he will meet with the county commissioners Thursday at 3:30 p. m. to discuss the Pinto bridge.

Rowan had written the governor recently asking for a meeting at which a proposed new bridge across the Potomac River at Pinto could be discussed.

Commissioner John T. Masson said he understands that the federal government would pay the bulk of any cost of a new bridge under the provision of providing access roads into a defense industry.

Bid For Two Trucks Accepted By Board

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday accepted the Light and Decker Company bid of $12,200 to provide two heavy duty trucks for the Roads Department.

Action was taken after Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, and Melvin Robinette, master mechanic, recommended the firm's International trucks be purchased. Skelly said the firm met all specifications and that the vehicles provided quick attachment of snow plows.

Only two bids were received for providing electric lighting in a room in the Court House basement which will be used by the County Planning Commission and County Sanitary Commission for meetings.

The bids will be checked for specifications by Commissioner John T. Mason, who is in charge of the county buildings. The bids were made by Sterling Electric Company and Queen City Electric Company.

Three Persons, Hurt In Crash, Improving

WESTERNPORT—Mrs. Marlene (DeVore) Jose, of 318 Maryland Avenue, yesterday was reported to be in "fair" condition at Miners Hospital where she and her two young daughters were admitted Saturday with injuries sustained in a one-car accident on the outskirts of Lonaconing on U. S. Route 36.

Her children, Nancy, aged four, was discharged Monday, and Denise Ann, aged six, is reported in "good" condition at the hospital.

The accident, which occurred at 12:25 p. m. Saturday, reportedly was caused when one of the girls distracted Mrs. Jose, who was driving the vehicle. The auto crashed into a utility pole.

Many Asiatics believe the horn of the Indian rhinoceros has wonderous powers for solving almost any problem, mental or physical.

Unusual Auto Case Heard By Judge Harris

A car that ran away driverless down a hill, around a curve and hit a parked auto figured in a court suit heard yesterday by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in his chambers in the Court House.

The case was a civil appeal entitled Charles Hout vs. Robert Sperry and Charles Winters. All the principals are from Frostburg.

Testimony showed that Winters moved Sperry's car to a parking place on Chestnut Street in Frostburg.

After standing still for two and one-half hours, the driverless car suddenly started drifting downhill, went around a curve and on to Linden Street.

There the Sperry vehicle crashed into the parked car owned by Hout.

The judge ruled that both defendants were liable and ordered them to pay $268 for repairing the car plus another $80 to compensate Hout for the loss of the vehicle during the time it was being repaired.

FCC Seeks Control Of Cable Systems

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communications Commission disclosed Monday it intends to ask congress for authority to exercise some degree of control over community TV antenna systems.

Chairman Frederick W. Ford made the announcement before an Eastern Regional Conference of the National Community Television Association, and expressed hope that those involved will study the plan earnestly.

Members of the association are the operators of tall receiving towers, located mostly in small or remote communities, which pick up programs from distant television stations and distribute them locally over closed wires.

Since the system does not use radio frequencies in the operation, the FCC repeatedly has ruled it has no jurisdiction over them.

However, Ford noted that in some of the 900 community antenna locations, disputes have arisen with local TV stations from the competive standpoint.

In many areas, differences have been resolved by including local station programs on the CATV distribution and by agreements not to bring in outside programs which duplicate what is available on the local stations.

The FCC chairman, who will be replaced by a democratic chairman, Newton N. Minow, said "it seems unnecessary" to empower the commission to license all community antenna systems, as has been proposed in Congress.

He said the FCC had approved proposed legislation which will be sent to Congress authorizing the commission to step in as an arbiter in those cases where a local station and a community antenna system are unable to work out arrangements for existing side by side.

Largest Mortgage

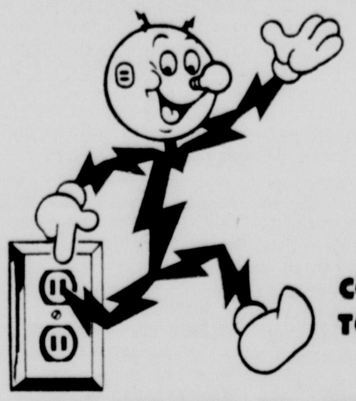

LONDON (UPI) — The largest mortgage ever granted on a single property, $70 million, was announced Tuesday for the $98 million Pan American Building in New York.

The building is being constructed by an Anglo-American Company. It is 59 stories high and is scheduled for completion the end of 1962.

Elementary Principals Have Dinner Meeting

The Elementary Principals' Association of Allegany County held a dinner meeting Monday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club. Among the guests who attended were Superintendent and Mrs. Ralph R. Webster; Morris W. Reynolds, newly appointed state supervisor of transportation; Mrs. Grace Dorsey, state supervisor of elementary education; Miss Mildred Willison, Miss Margaret Doak and Miss Elizabeth Flake, supervisors of elementary education in Allegany County.

Mrs. Dorsey spoke to the group on "Modern Issues in Elementary Education." Her four main points were the importance of elementary education due to the age of the children and the fact that all Americans attend grade school where attitudes and feelings are acquired that form a basis for life; schools are in a stage of transition; more people are taking a greater interest in schools of today, and newer methods of teaching. She discussed briefly departmentalization, ungraded primary school, team teaching and core teaching in the elementary school.

The committee in charge of the program consisted of Miss Sara Wright, chairman, Miss Kathryn Laughlin, Mrs. Elsie Roland, Miss Nellie Powell, Joseph Pellerzi and Miss Mary Longridge.

Mrs. Gertrude Collins, principal of Virginia Avenue School, conducted the business meeting which followed. The main discussion centered on recommendations for eliminating fund raising projects in the schools.

Bethel WSCS Plans Festivals

The WSCS of Bethel Methodist Church met recently at the church with Mrs. Kenneth Jewell presiding. Mrs. Robert Shoemaker read the secretary's report. Nineteen members answered roll call.

Renovation of the church sanctuary was discussed and the society pledged its support to the project. The next meeting will be held in February at the church or a member's home, depending on the progress of repair work.

It was announced that the study course, "Basic Christian Beliefs," will begin February 1 at 7:30 p. m. at the Centreville church. The course will be for an hour each night on six consecutive Wednesdays. Mrs. Charles Shinholt will be the teacher and all members of the circuit are urged to attend. Study books may be ordered now.

An invitation was extended to the society to participate in the World Day of Prayer services with Zion and Centenary churches. Fifteen sick calls were reported made by members.

Dates were set for the annual festivals. The first will be held June 17 and the second July 29.

Mrs. John S. Park conducted the devotional period. Mrs. Carl Howsare, pianist, accompanied singing of "Break Thou the Bread of Life," "Faith of our Fathers," and "Take My Life and Let it Be." Mrs. Shoemaker read the Scripture and Mrs. Carroll Anderson led the opening prayer. Mrs. Parks spoke on the theme, "Recalling Our Heritage—Expanding Our Horizons." Mrs. DeWayne Hite closed the meeting with a prayer.

Others attending were Mrs. William Jewell, Mrs. Denver Kimble, Mrs. Charles Zembower, Mrs. Lola Hite, Mrs. Walter Deffinbaugh, Mrs. Harold Welch, Mrs. Luther Hite, Mrs. Kenneth Zembower, Miss Ella Carlheim, Mrs. George Carlheim, Mrs. Howard Dickerhoof, Mrs. John Rose and a visitor, Mrs. Edward Koontz.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Luther Hite, Mrs. DeWayne Hite and Mrs. Shoemaker.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Don't Let Your Voice Give A Wrong Impression

Voice and ways of speaking can be very misleading. A young girl sounds boisterous when she's really covering up shyness. A business woman booms like a tyrant—only because she's always so hurried. A busy mother develops nagging, complaining tones that never quite leave her voice, even on social occasions. A rather positive person's voice is thin and anything but impressive.

No one even knows exactly what he sounds like — he can't hear his own voice as others hear it.

But that doesn't mean you can't find out quite a bit about your voice (send 10c in coin and self-addressed, stamped envelope for my booklet "Your Most Attractive Voice"). Meanwhile, try asking yourself these questions:

1. Do others always seem set to resist when you make a request? This negative response is a reaction to brusqueness, too positive tones, or nagging.

2. Is it difficult for you to gain the attention of a group? Perhaps you need to turn up your volume, not too loud, but enough to round out thin tones.

3. Do people sometimes say to you "Will you repeat that, more slowly?" "Not so loud", or I don't hear you"? These are plain-up warnings.

4. Have you ever been accused of sounding bossy, bored, or tired when you didn't feel that way?

Start right away (with the aid of "Your Most Attractive Voice") to correct these faults . . . and present a voice that impresses those around you with its, and your, charms.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago I started to date a pretty woman who was the bookkeeper where I worked. She told me her husband was nice, but not very lively. She also said he was not able to produce children and that she wanted a fling before they adopted a few.

In January of last year she became pregnant and confessed everything to her husband. I thought he'd come looking for me with a gun but instead he was happy as a clam. He thanked me. He said he could forgive his wife because every woman has a natural urge for motherhood.

A nine-pound boy was born in September and he handed out cigars. The girl has stopped seeing me and I'm just an outsider now. When I ask her if I can visit my son she tells me to leave her alone and to stay out of her life.

After all, I'm the baby's father and I ought to have some rights. Isn't there a law for people like me? Please print your answer.

—IGNORED DAD

DEAR IGNORED DAD: Of course there's a law for people like you—and it goes like this: When a married woman has a child her husband is the legal father.

Since you seem to be such a lover of children why not find a nice single girl and start over? The biggest favor you can do for that child is to drop out of sight—for good.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Whoever invented the line of baloney "work in a downtown office and get a husband" ought to be shot at sunrise.

I'm 30, attractive, a smart-dresser, good conversationalist and I've been trapped in this dreary office for nine years. There are plenty of men around but they're too young, too old or they have wives and families. The married gals here wouldn't think of introducing us single ones to anyone they know.

I don't bother to dress up for work any more. No one would notice if I wore a bikini. The pay here is good but I'm bored stiff with the work and all the people around me. What's the answer?

—RUTSVILLE

DEAR RUTSVILLE: Anyone who is "bored stiff" can't be doing a very good job. You're wasting your time and probably short-changing your employer. The only difference between Rutsville and Gravesville is the dimensions. Find another job.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband goes over to his sister's house two or three times a week. All they do is drink and argue. I used to go along but I just couldn't stand the fighting so now I stay home and he goes alone.

I know he gets mouthy when he drinks and some of the private things he has told his sister just burn me up. She throws them up to me later in subtle ways and I have to stand there and take it.

Why can't my husband stop going over there. The only break I get is when they have a serious fight and are mad at each other for a few weeks. Please help me.

—GRIPED

DEAR GRIPED: Your husband and his sister are a couple of sick cookies who are still operating at the adolescent level. They fight now just as they did when they were kids. Tell him to get outside help or you might give him to his sister for good.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Mayor Keech Told Legal Procedure Holds Up Industry

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday he was informed only legal procedures are holding up the location here of a ladies apparel industry which is to locate in the old State Armory, South Centre Street.

Mayor Keech said he inquired about the status of the industry which advertised for experienced sewing machine operators, as the result of questions asked of his office.

The Mayor and Council several weeks ago granted a tax exemption on the portion of the old Armory to be used and the Mayor added he was also interested from that point of view.

When interviews were conducted here at the Department of Employment Security, several hundred women applied for jobs with the new firm. It has not been announced how many will be employed.

Council Gets Painting Bids

Four firms submitted bids to the Mayor and Council Monday for the proposed painting of the City Hall and Court Room in the Public Safety Building.

Submitting bids were the Builders Paint and Supply Company, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, G. A. Largent Construction Company and Sweene Paint and Supply Company.

The bids were referred to Street Commissioner John J. Long and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum for study and recommendation.

In other similar action, four persons submitted bids for nine lots on Brown Avenue. Nuzum explained that there are approximately $800 in liens against the properties.

Bids were submitted by James Scarpelli, $450; Thomas Burton, secretary of the Sunset View Real Estate and Development Company, $1,050; Milton Sarver, $1,330, and John E. Powers, $675.

Burton's bid was accompanied by the stipulation that the amount left after the liens were satisfied would be the purchase price.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—My young friend Robert Wagner wasn't happy with some of his roles at 20th Century Fox and when he obtained his freedom I had a hunch he would operate in the open market. But before I could get my "hunch" in print, Bob up and signs with Sam Briskin for three pictures at Columbia, the first being "Sail a Crooked Ship."

In addition to being Bob's first movie on the lot, "Crooked Ship" is the initial Columbia production of Philip Barry who will also make "House of Many Rooms" and "The Widower."

Bob Wagner tells me, "Believe it or not, the title 'Crooked Ship' actually has a bearing on the story. It's about a young millionaire shanghaied aboard a boat which a gang of crooks intend to use in a bank robbery. It's a comedy—just what I've been looking for."

That very popular girl, Juliet Prowese, is busy rehearsing her dances for the inauguration gala—but not so busy she didn't get the call from producer-director George Sherman that he has set her for the femme lead in "The Jungle," James Michener's new book. In fact, Juliet is the first star set for the picture, that's how much Sherman liked her performance in his recently completed "Fiercest Heart."

In the Michener tale, Juliet plays a Polynesian girl who causes plenty of romantic trouble between an officer who returns to Guadalcanal after the war and his Bostonian wife who accompanies him. The location shots will be made in Acapulco, a wonderful place to be in February.

After that long drawn-out bitter fight to get free of his Warner contract and the popular "Maverick" series, I'm surprised that Jim Garner's first job is another TV show—and in just one chapter at that. Jim has signed to play himself in one of the "Angel" series titled "The French Lesson," that is, he plays a movie star who brushes up on his French taking lessons from Annie Farge, star of the series. It starts filming January 18th.

A job is a job I guess. But Garner's decision must seem strange to his former bosses at Warners who hoisted him to fame in what was TV's hottest series, "Maverick."

The L. A. Examiner's Vince Flaherty goes back to his native Washington to cover the Kennedy inauguration. How well I remember the first Eisenhower inauguration. I covered it with Vince.

I am the punctual type and Vince was in no hurry to get going from our hotel to the inaugural ceremony. I was sure we were going to miss it, but we finally got there and I needn't have worried about getting seats. Every policeman in Washington knew Flaherty and we were put ahead of all the crowds and had front seats. I didn't see Vince write a line—I worked like a slave. When the paper came out his story was right there and much, much better than any other. How he did it, I don't know.

The love scenes that Brett Halsey and Luciana Paluzzi are playing together in "Return to Peyton Place" have had an effect on them, and they confess they are trying to reconcile. They want to lead up to their return to marriage in the right way, so they have consulted with a marriage counselor, with the result that they appear to be more attached now than when they first met.

During the first two days of shooting, in which they play man and wife, Luciana and Brett didn't even speak except for their dialogue. Little by little they are now having lunch together every day.

If you find Jane Withers rummaging through a costume department looking for the clothes she wore as "Vashti," the oil rich matron in "Giant"—it's not just for sentimental reasons.

Jane has picked off a similar part in Joan Fontaine's GE Theatre TV show, "A Possibility of Oil" which Ida Lupino directs. "And Ida agrees with me that my part could be as lucky for me in TV as Vashti was for movies," Jane says. "I'd like very much to keep such a character going through a whole series," she went on. Are you listenin', producer Stanley Rubin?

The underlead of an ace at a suit contract is recognized as a bit of advanced strategy but, when a defender twice underplays an ace in a suit contract, it ranks as bridge news. It was done by Barbara Kachmar in the hand shown today, culled from the Women's Team of Four championship during the recently held Winter Nationals.

Returning to the bridge wars after a span of a great many years, Mrs. Kachmar first came into prominence when she was listed by Shepard Barclay among the top 10 for the year 1937. At that time she was operating under the caption of Barbara Cooke. Her partner was Roberta Erde in this year's Women's team, and together with Mrs. Howard Schenken and Sally Johnson they captured the event.

South opened with one spade and North appeared to be quite cautious in her response of one no trump, for a direct raise to two spades would have been quite acceptable, particularly with the doubleton in hearts. South, holding a singleton diamond, quite properly chose to take the one no trump out to two hearts. North returned to two spades and the bidding subsided.

Mrs. Kachmar, seated West, opened the seven of diamonds and the trick was taken in dummy with the ace. Declarer led the small spade, finessed the queen, and lost to West's king. The queen of diamonds was then led and ruffed by declarer, who played the king of hearts, won by Mrs. Kachmar with the ace.

She promptly shifted to the four of clubs. Declarer played low from dummy and the trick was won by East with the jack. A heart was returned, won by declarer who played a club and Mrs. Kachmar ducked. The eight was played from dummy, in the hope that it would drive out the ace, but it succeeded only in bringing forth the queen. East returned a club to West's ace and the defense took in all three clubs, a heart and two spades to register a one trick set.

Jaguar Attacks Man

SALTA, Argentina (UPI)—Lumber worker Sixto Ruiz defeated a jaguar who attacked him in bed, but he needed the help of his dog and a stout pickaxe.

Ruiz was asleep in his hut when the jaguar entered. He whistled for his dog, who worried the animal from behind while Ruiz struck at its head with the pick. The jaguar gave up after inflicting claw wounds so severe Ruiz had to be hospitalized.

61 FORD
...the only car
in its field
beautifully built to go...
miles between lubrications

30,000 is the most famous number of the year. It's every '61 Ford owner's license to save. How can Ford do it? Conventional chassis lubrication fittings have been replaced with metal plugs that help protect each lubrication point against abrasive mud, dirt and dust. And then, for only about $4 and about 20 minutes your Ford is ready for another 30,000! This is just one of the many ways the '61 Ford is built to take care of itself. Your Ford Dealer can show you more.

FORD DIVISION, Ford Motor Company

HERE'S HOW THE '61 FORD TAKES CARE OF ITSELF

Lubricates itself—You'll normally go 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications (which cost only about $4.00 and take about 20 minutes) because Ford has replaced conventional grease fittings with a sealed-in lubrication system.

Cleans its own oil—You'll go 4,000 miles between oil changes because Ford's Full-Flow oil filter gives you filtration through fibers . . . trapping more dirt than any other type of filter made.

Adjusts its own brakes—New Truck Size brakes adjust themselves—automatically.

Guards its own muffler—Ford mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.

Protects its own body—All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing the body panels beneath the doors.

Takes care of its own finish—Just wash and clean Ford's new Diamond Lustre Finish and it continues to glisten like new. It never needs waxing.

Only FORD is beautifully built to take care of itself

Conservation Program Opens In County Area

The 1961 Agricultural Conservation Program is now open, according to Bradye H. Dolly, chairman of the Allegany ASC County Committee, who said that farmers' requests for assistance will be accepted in the county office, 37 Washington Street.

In order to be eligible for the full extent of assistance, he urges farmers to stop by the local office before February 1.

Yesterday about 758 newsletters were being mailed to farmers of the county who are being asked to study over the available practices before coming to the office so they will know what practices fit their conservation needs.

Miss Elizabeth Hoover, manager of the office here, said the practices for the 1961 ACP in the county are as follows:

Seeding of grass and legumes for permanent cover in orchards and vineyards; seeding of permanent legumes and grass on land not now in suitable vegetative cover; application of liming material; contour stripcropping; planting of trees; improvement of established vegetative cover on permanent pasture.

Subsoiling; developing springs or seeps for livestock water; improvement of a stand of forest trees on farmland; constructing sod waterways; establishment of permanent vegetation to prevent erosion on open drainage ditches, gullies and diversion ditches.

Planting orchards on the contour; establishing diversion terraces; construction detention dams to prevent or heal gullies or to reduce or retard runoff; construction of installations to dispose of excess water; construction of open drainage ditches; tile drainage ditches and cover crop for winter protection.

Meter Installation Plan Progresses

The City Water Department yesterday reported progress is being made toward all-metered service.

James F. Twigg, chief clerk, said less than 50 of the some 10,000 customers are still on the flat rate payment plan and that some of them have made arrangements for securing meters.

January 1 was the deadline set for the conversion to metered water service in an ordinance adopted last July.

City Firemen Got 428 Calls In Past Year

During 1960 there were 428 fire calls answered by the Cumberland Fire Department—an average of 35 calls each month — according to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, who said there were no deaths caused by fires in the city during the calendar year.

In his annual report to the committee of statistics and origin of losses of the National Board of Fire Underwriters in New York, Chief Parker gave a breakdown of the various calls.

He said 105 fires were in residential areas including dwellings, apartments etc.; 41 in mercantile areas including restaurants, bars, repair shops, filling stations etc.; 24 in non-residential sections including office buildings, theaters, churches and schools.

The chief said there were 72 brush and grass fires; 74 false alarms; 73 other type fires including auto, lumber yards and outdoor machinery; 15 smoke scares; 22 first aid and emergency calls; one miscellaneous call and one call outside the city limits.

He pointed out that the annual report is one of a number of reports sent in each year. The largest number of calls in any one month was in April last year when 51 were answered and the lowest number was in July when 22 calls were checked.

Police Officials To Attend Meeting

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming and Chief B. Frank Gaffney will represent the Cumberland Police Department at a conference planned today at 1:45 p. m. in Pikesville under the auspices of the Maryland State Police.

Officials of police units, trial magistrates and the Department of Motor Vehicles have been invited to attend the meeting called to discuss the adoption of a uniform traffic ticket.

William F. Strong, head of the Maryland - District of Columbia AFL-CIO, said his group considers the legislation vital to Maryland workers.

Among bills scheduled for introduction in both houses Wednesday is a measure to outlaw pinball machines in Prince Georges County. Del. Carlton R. Sickles, D-Prince Georges is the sponsor.

Two Women's Groups Dressed Dolls Here

The United Lutheran Church Women of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and the Mapleside Homemakers Club together dressed 100 of the 300 dolls which were distributed in the Salvation Army's Christmas cheer program, according to Captain Fred Overton, commanding officer.

The Lutheran women dressed 75 dolls and the homemakers were responsible for 25 dolls. Captain Overton explained that the YMCA Ladies Auxiliary originally had planned to dress some of the dolls but the work could not be scheduled. The other 200 dolls were dressed by individual women volunteers.

Protestant Appeal Begins January 17

Mrs. Robert M. Young, this city, is a vice president of the Maryland Council of Churches which will support the annual United Protestant Appeal from January 17 to February 21.

The annual appeal is for $80,000 to supplement the budget and carry on the services of the Maryland Council of Churches. Nearly 2,000 Protestant and Orthodox churches of 23 denominations are served by the Maryland Council of Churches through its educational and service departments.

Pike Firemen, Ladies To Install Officers

Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company and its auxiliary will hold a joint installation of officers at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, January 28, at the hall of the Church of the Seven Dolors at Bean's Cove.

The installation originally was scheduled for the Moose Home but was moved to Bean's Cove because of a conflict in schedules.

Women of the church will serve ham and beef dinners. Reservations may be made before January 21 by calling Leo Ruppert, PA 4-1479, or James Michael, PA 2-4237.

Firemen To Meet

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the fire hall to act upon by-law changes for 1961.

Earl J. Delaney, Parsons; Laurel H. Clovis, Pennsboro; William J. Blackburn, Ravenswood; George B. Jordan, Ripley; Claude G. Pownall, Romney; Harold R. Wiles, Tunnelton.

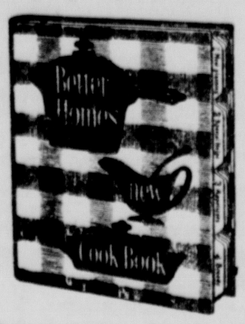

$1,897.70 Collected In Firemen's Drive

Volunteers of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company announced last night that $1,897.70 was collected during their 1960 fund raising campaign.

Residents of the Cresaptown area who still have contribution cards and want them collected are asked to contact the fire department.

Officers and members last night expressed appreciation for the generosity of the residents.

The Gold Problem And Our Reserves

One of the intriguing facets of international finance is the manner in which a country settles its debts. There is no international currency, but several monetary systems have gained the world's confidence and are accepted as freely as domestic moneys in most banking circles. The U. S. dollar and the British pound sterling are the most widely accepted currencies.

Dollars used in domestic trading cannot be redeemed for gold in the U. S., but Washington maintains gold reserves for a fraction of the issued currency. The U. S. dollar is refundable in gold, however, when held by a foreign creditor. Balance of payment deficits suffered by the United States in each of the last several years have reduced reserves to less than the nation's international debts, making the U. S. vulnerable to possible panic among foreign dollar holders.

But there is little likelihood of a run on Uncle Sam's treasury if for no other reason than that there is no other currency which could provide a substitute for the dollar in volume or in area of circulation. But the demands for gold in 1960 reached an estimated $4.3 billion record by creditors who hold several times that figure in dollars. At this rate, there is no more than four years' reserve of gold in U. S. vaults.

A study of gold reserves in the United States discloses that while government gold stocks are diminishing, the gold itself is not leaving these shores. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York now has almost as much gold in its vaults as the Treasury has in storage at Fort Knox.

In fact, the vaults of this one bank now contain more than half the gold reserves of the free world, although almost none of it belongs to the United States.

This fact in itself is reassuring to Americans concerned over the decline in gold stocks because it points up the confidence of the free nations in the ability of the U. S. government to remain not only financially stable but politically free.

These Days

How To Save Money

The export of dollars is still a problem with us. A professor who teaches in a university wrote to me that was all wet about how dollars are exported. He wrote that dollars are not actually sent abroad in a package or a suit-case or a black bag but that one goes to a bank in this country and makes the transfer. No dollars really change hands only bookkeeping credits.

A lot this naive professor knows. Imagine a dope importer going to a bank to get a letter of credit or to send a draft or some other commercial document! The FBI, the Secret Service, the Narcotics Bureau would have him in prison in no time. The import of heroin, cocaine, opium and marijuana is big business, involving hundreds of millions of dollars annually. The center of this business is in Naples. Lucky Luciano denies that he has anything to do with it, but it has increased since he has been exported to Italy. To legitimatize this kind of money, it is physically sent abroad, as is all tax evasion and tax avoidance money. One would not expect a professor to know about such ugly and miserable mundane doings.

If a real effort were made to go after those who have used tax havens, considerable American dollars could be brought home. Tax havens exist all over the world but Switzerland is the principal tax haven in the world. Many Americans have money there in numbered accounts. Swiss banks act like fences in this respect. The Swiss refuse to give our government any information on the subject. Their profit on this dirty money is so large that Switzerland protects these tax evaders who are actually thieves.

Perhaps the new Administration will pump up enough courage to go after these fellows. Again, the professor is wrong. In these cases, actual dollars are transported abroad because a bank transaction could involve the thief in a felony—even if he put his money in a Swiss bank in New York whose books could be seized for inspection by various agencies.

Another way to keep dollars from going out of the country is to eliminate, as far as is possible, the use of so-called civilian experts abroad by the Army. Men in the army ought to be found who in civilian life can do the work of these experts. Say that an interpreter is needed. Surely, out of our vast military force, interpreters in any language can be found.

As a soldier writes me:

"Those of us making a career of the military service expected to make sacrifices and we make plenty of them. We have acquired certain basic fighting skills, and we don't mind devoting a part of our time to maintaining these skills. But we have some intelligence, and we're making a professional career for ourselves. This means that we also are technicians and that we cannot spend all of our time (when there is no actual armed conflict) engaged in field exercises with a rifle in our hands . . .

"When our skills are not utilized as they should be, when highly paid civilians take our jobs away from us, and when public opinion holds that we are fit only for making senseless sacrifices, is it any wonder that we protest? We have intelligence enough to know that all of this is not in the true interest of national defense."

The civilians attached to the Army ought to be hired only if no one in uniform can do their work as well. If we are to have an efficient army in which officers and men re-enlist and make it a life career, there must be no competition between soldier and civilian within the Army. The unnecessary civilians ought to be brought back to the United States.

American tourists do not generally create too much good-will, anyhow. But that is not the point. They export dollars unnecessarily. In the case of tourists, of course, the professor is right. They buy letters of credit or get travellers' checks and they generally do not carry too many dollars with them. But in the settlement for these letters of credit and travellers' checks, the balance could go against us and the actual settlement might have to be made in gold—probably earmarked gold. Until the dollar is restored to sound value, it is not necessary to stimulate tourist activities.

How About Changing That Lock?

"Free University Of Cuba" Proposed With Refugees Working In Florida

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The USA now finds itself, relations severed with a nation it liberated, to which it gave highly favored sugar treatment and with whose people it enjoyed the friendliest relations.

In this unfortunate vacuum the most important thing for the American people to remember is that you can't win something by doing nothing, and we are not going to win back Cuba or the friendship of Latin America unless we act vigorously and with imagination to fill the vacuum.

Fortunately, the instrument is at hand with thousands of Cuban refugees in Florida to fill the vacuum. But unfortunately we are doing almost nothing about them. At first we let them scrounge out a living or half starve. Hospitable Floridians and Florida municipalities did their best, but the load was heavy.

Quite recently, and belatedly, President Eisenhower has advanced $1,000,000 to feed the refugees and has put Tracy Voorhees, who did a fine job handling Hungarian refugees, in charge. Voorhees has jumped in with characteristic dedication, but the job is a big one and he has little staff and diminishing money. He needs a lot of help. It's not his problem alone, it's our problem.

"Free University" In Florida

Here is one idea which might help the United States fill the tragic vacuum with Cuba:

Establish a "Free University of Cuba" on American soil, preferably in Florida, as a mecca of free democratic learning for students from all Latin America, plus North American students who want to know more about Latin America.

To operate the university, use the faculty from the University of Havana who have escaped from the dictatorial restriction of free teaching by Fidel Castro. These professors, some of the most respected in Latin America, are now acting as bellhops and waiters in Miami, glad to get any kind of work.

Let's put them to work in the field for which they are trained, to teach freedom, democracy, and friendship. And let's invite doubting students from other Latin countries to attend this proposed mecca of tolerance and understanding.

Most North Americans don't realize it, but the universities of Latin America have a sovereignty seldom violated by Latin governments. They are institutions of free thought, free research, whose students go out to challenge the government but the government never invades their territory. Such was the University of Havana when Castro was a student, but not under Fidel Castro as ruler of Cuba. He has stationed secret police inside the university in a manner little realized in the rest of Latin America, that is why many university professors have fled to Florida.

This gives the United States a golden opportunity to use these same professors in a new University of Cuba, completely free.

Distinguished Waiters

Here is the roll call of university professors, Cuban doctors, and jurists now doing their best to make a living in Florida:

Dr. Rogerio de la Torre, professor of law, University of Havana, now a bellboy at the Hotel Americana.

Dr. Jose Miro-Torra, professor of law, University of Havana—now a welder with the Superior Electric Company, Hollywood, Fla.

Justice Mario Dolz, noted Cuban jurist, now assistant bricklayer, Brickell Avenue and 14th Street, SW, Miami.

Justice Angel A. Fernandez-Marti, now a waiter at Fidesteak Ranch, 901 East Ft. Lauderdale Street, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Justice Michel Olivella Gonzales, waiter at Hialeah Ranch, 54th and 39th Streets, Hialeah.

Justice Jorge Ramos, now a distributor of phone directories, Miami.

Dr. Hector Rocamora, perhaps the most outstanding gynecologist in Cuba, now a clean-up man in the operating room of Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami.

Dr. Ramiro de la Riva, doing similar clean-up work in Jackson Hospital.

This is only a small fraction of the roll call.

Sometimes out of adversity come great achievements. The United States has suffered adversity in Cuba, some of our own fault, much of it not. But we can turn partial defeat into a great achievement if we use the Cuban patriots and men of ability who have sought our shores instead of wasting them as busboys, bellhops, and janitors.

For years the United States has neglected the Spanish language, Latin-American culture, the exchange of students and teachers with Latin America. Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas has been a voice in the wilderness demanding student exchange. He has made some progress, but not nearly enough.

Establishment of a "Free University of Cuba" with faculty both from Cuba and from other Latin American countries and North America, could show our critics that we are not what Fidel Castro says we are, and simultaneously serve as a great monument of friendship.

We can't fill the current vacuum with Cuba merely by sitting on the western side of the Gulf Stream moaning about the past. We have to move vigorously to build for the future.

McNamara Seeks Time For Defense Study

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The next Secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara, is anxiously mulling over the gruesome complexities of the defense budget, while Laos, Cuba, and the Congo all bubble away like so many witches' cauldrons. For these reasons, this is a good moment to recall a recent, key episode in the untold story of the Eisenhower administration.

The time was last July, shortly before the Republican National Convention, and not long before Nikita S. Khrushchev's frenzied, menacing visit to the United Nations. Khrushchev's behavior, plus the general tenor of Kremlin policy all over the world, had already caused the Soviet experts of the State Department and the C. I. A. to reach some highly unpalatable conclusions.

These conclusions, when presented to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, in turn caused Herter to request an audience with President Eisenhower. The audience was granted, and Herter and his chief Kremlinologist, Charles E. Bohlen, at once flew to Newport, where the President was enjoying a long golfing vacation.

In view of the irascibility and known prejudices of the President, what followed was an interesting proof of the cool courage which Secretary Herter conceals under his mild exterior.

In brief, Herter and Bohlen warned the President that Khrushchev was showing every sign that he no longer took the United States seriously. They further warned that if Khrushchev no longer regarded the United States as a serious opponent, it was necessary to expect all sorts of arrogant and aggressive Soviet moves in the near future, on the pattern of the arrogant, current intervention in Laos.

Herter then asked the President to announce a massive increase in the defense budget, as the only way of proving that the United States government still meant business in its role as leader of the cause of freedom. No request was less likely to please Eisenhower. Yet the President approved Herter's recommendation, albeit with some reluctance. This great decision was very nearly announced, without further ado, before Herter flew back to Washington. At the last minute, however, the announcement was put off, in order to permit the proposed defense increase to be planned in detail. And this was highly unfortunate, for the end of that week brought the President the sharp shock of the famous Fifth Avenue compact between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

At Newport, Herter had quite naturally been careful to say that he had no doubt Pentagon spending was sufficient for practical defense purposes, and only insufficient for the political purpose of impressing the Soviets. But now, on Fifth Avenue, the Vice President and the man the President likes least in the Republican party, Gov. Rockefeller, had publicly agreed that the Eisenhower defense programs were sadly inadequate from every point of view.

The fit of rage which this produced at Newport is already a matter of semi-public record. What is not on the record, however, is the more significant fact that the angry President thereupon reversed the decision he had taken in response to Herter's bold request.

Perhaps Eisenhower's anger simply reinforced his natural reluctance to make the defense increase that Herter had pressed for. Perhaps he now refused to take this action, under seeming pressure from Nixon and Rockefeller, which he had previously decided to take of his own free will. In any case, there was no further question of the massive defense increase intended to ward off the Soviets, which had been so nearly announced to the country and the world only a few days earlier.

The question remains, whether the critical situations in Laos and elsewhere are directly attributable to this self-reversal by the President. This question cannot, of course, be answered with finality without access to the Kremlin archives. But one can at least say that the President's official advisors gave a warning and offered a remedy. And one can also say that after the remedy was not adopted, the warning was all too ample and quickly substantiated.

This is why the story of the President's self-reversal is now worth recalling. The point is that Secretary - designate McNamara has asked President-elect Kennedy for time—quite a lot of time in the range of several months—to assess the competing claims of the jungle of defense projects for which he will soon be responsible.

The energy, courage, and intelligence of McNamara's initial attack on his gigantic task have greatly impressed everyone within range. His request for time, before he recommends increases (and decreases) of effort, is entirely understandable. But the need to show Khrushchev and the Kremlin that the U. S. now means business and is in deadly earnest, is even more pressing than it was last summer. Hence President-elect Kennedy is now studying ways and means to meet this primary need, while also meeting McNamara's need for time.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NO MORE DRUDGERY — The poultry farm of W. T. Frye near Peoria, Ill., is an example of modern "push button" farming. With the aid of an agricultural engineer from the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station at Urbana, H. B. Puckett, Farmer Frye has taken the drudgery out of raising chickens which used to make it almost impossible for a poultry raiser to get even a day off from his demanding flocks.

Conveyors like those in factories take the food from eight bulk storage bins, mix the four basic rations, and deliver 1,200 pounds of feed per hour a distance of 390 feet to maintain a 24-hour-a-day automatic service to the 14,000 turkeys and 29,000 broilers that Frye raises and processes annually.

Such a system makes it less important than ever to "keep 'em down on the farm," in so far as large numbers of agricultural workers are concerned, because Farmer Frye and one part-time worker can do it all. Frye reports that turning the dials and punching the buttons gets wearisome at times, however.

Take "slopping the pigs," which used to be a chore that would drive almost anyone from the farm. Recently a large delegation of farmers gathered at the place of Richard Ware, one mile south of Lindon, Ind., to see his modern "automated" hog enterprise of about 1,600 pigs per year, with its new central farrowing house and conveyor-sped feeding troughs.

The prize may go to William and Erland Rothenberger, whose 326-acre farm northwest of Frankfort, Ind., is a showplace with a brand new push-button setup for taking feed from the silos with huge corkscrews and conveyors. Gone is the backbreaking work of feeding and fattening 250 steers so that the Rothenbergers also can raise 1,500 hogs much the same way "in their spare time."

The completely mechanized feed processing system on the farm includes corn picker-sheller, heated air for drying, converted ear corn storage on a farm grinding and mixing setup.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture is devoting its current handbook to "automated farming," and predicts tomorrow's farmer will be a highly trained specialist who will sit up late planning his new stratagems and sleeping late while the machinery does the work!

The only trouble? You probably gussed it: as with industry, they now wonder if things will get too monotonous to keep 'em down on the farm.

Some Extrauterine Babies Can Survive

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A New Guinea woman gave birth to a baby and, a week later, showed signs that a twin may have been left behind. Two days later she arrived at the Goroka Native hospital where examination confirmed the suspicion. The twin was not in the uterus but in the abdominal cavity and operation was required to deliver this second infant.

Ectopic pregnancies, with the fetus in the abdomen, are unusual as 95 per cent of extrauterine pregnancies are located in a tube. The vast majority of ova die or must be removed within a few weeks. But abdominal pregnancies may be commoner than we have believed, using the experience of obstetricians at the University College hospital in Jamaica as a criterion.

In more than 9,000 deliveries done in their obstetrical ward during the last six years, there were 10 abdominal pregnancies. This might not be unusual except for the fact that all of these women had been pregnant for at least 20 weeks.

The fertilized ovum is not at home in this area and, as a result, usually creates enough trouble to warrant an emergenccy operation earlier than 20 weeks. But only two of the women in this group had noted slight pain and one mentioned uterine bleeding.

The physicians were able to detect a live baby in five of the mothers. Surgery was postponed so long as the mother's condition remained good and the child showed no signs of distress. In time, all five women were delivered of live babies via surgery.

Jamaica appears to be the mecca for extrauterine pregnancies. The obstetricians at the hospital in question had been trained in other parts of the world and never had encountered this problem before. They learned the hard way how to handle these cases.

TOMORROW: Multiple origins of colds.

Try And Stop Me

A motorcycle cop stopped a car and pulled out his summons book. "I clocked you at 65, Mister," he said. The lady in the back seat cackled gleefully, "Just you give him a ticket, Officer. Serves him right. I've told him for years he's a reckless, terrible driver."

"Your wife?" inquired the cop. The driver nodded glumly. The cop snapped his summons book shut and murmured sympathetically, "Drive on, brother."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The most dangerous part of flying is the first 180 seconds on takeoff, and the final 180 seconds on landing. If the machine is going to fail, it will usually do it on takeoff; if a man is going to fail, it customarily happens as he comes in for a landing. The jet and the Constellation that collided at Staten Island were within 19 miles of their respective airports; a few minutes away.

Both had been in holding patterns. A holding pattern is an imaginary race track near an airport. It is about six miles long, and at the turns, two miles wide. It can be high in the sky, or low. The weather can be foul, so bad that the pilot cannot see beyond his windshield, but he will remain in the holding pattern with the aid of radio bearings coming up to him from radio beacons below.

Airplanes are ordered into holding patterns when traffic is too heavy for an airport. In the New York area, there are five big airports within 20 miles of Bowery Bay: La Guardia, Idlewild, Newark, Floyd Bennett and Teterboro. Each of these needs lots of sky space for holding patterns when the weather is bad.

On the day of the big accident, the sky was leaden and snow flurries were carried on a wind approaching 50 miles per hour out of the southwest. All the big airports had planes in holding patterns. From my home at Sea Bright, N. J. I have seen planes stacked over Ambrose Lightship every few thousand feet.

They fly slowly to conserve fuel, and they move up and down their racetracks, waiting for the word to come in. Ground control usually calls the lowest plane in first, then orders each of the other planes to some down 2,000 feet. It's like pulling the bottom dish out of a stack of dinner plates.

Sam Stoia drew two pencilled racetracks on the New York chart as he and George Tamalis and Lewis Dymond and I discussed the crash. One was between Arthur Hill, Linden, N. J. and Rahway. Here, the big Constellation held at 5,000 feet. It was seven miles south of Newark Airport, although its terminal was LaGuardia. It was 096 degrees from a radio called Solberg, and 066 from another one called Yardley.

The pilot appeared to hold his pattern well. From time to time, he heard LaGuardia and they would be ready to take him in within a few minutes. Unknown to him, a DC-8 jet was in a holding pattern 14 miles southeast, almost ready to run an imaginary race track called Preston. The jet had been asked by Ground Control to drop from 14,000 feet to 5,000 enroute between Robbinsville, N. J. and Preston. The pilot agreed.

Preston lies between Cliffwood Beach and Englishtown. The pilot set a course of 050 out of Robbinsville. As he ran northeast, Ground Control turned him over to Idlewild Approach. So far as is known, Idlewild and the jet did not contact each other.

The jet moved slowly, about 180 knots with some flaps. The pilot wasn't worried. All he had to do was stay on Robbinsville's 050 until he intercepted Colt's Neck Radio on a bearing of 346 degrees. When he had them lined up, he would begin his racecourse. Even if he was slightly off his pattern, he knew there was a buffer area of safety around it, roughly 19 miles by 8 miles.

He moved straight on past the Colt's Neck beam, still on 050, as the Constellation received orders from LaGuardia to come out of the Linden pattern and head southeast until it intercepted Robbinsville radio. Then it was to turn left on 050 and head into LaGuardia.

The jet was also on 050, but it was supposed to be making ovals over New Jersey. The jet and the Connie were both at 5,000 feet. The jet pilot had one radio out of business, but this would not hurt him. He had more than enough other sets to handle any situation. Also, if Idlewild wanted to identify him, all they had to do was ask the jet to turn on its transponder, which will give any plane a double blip on a ground radar set momentarily. No one at Idlewild asked.

The DC-8 went on past the Colt's Neck bearing as though it had not received the proper heading signal, and moved across Raritan Bay to a point between Great Kills and Miller Field, Staten Island. There, out of the snow came the broadside vision of a Constellation making a left turn onto the same heading at the same altitude.

The four of us at lunch agreed that the DC-8 pilot tried to turn out of the way at the last second, lost one engine in the belly of the Connie, which fell in two big parts, and then the jet, as though all on the flight deck were dead, continued straight on 050 for eleven more miles, past Fort Wadsworth, across the Narrows, and deep into Flatbush, in Brooklyn, before it crashed.

That gave everyone aboard exactly three and a half minutes to say a final prayer . . .

Gov. Barron Asks Sales Tax Hike In W. Va.

Fund Would Aid State's Jobless

By CARLO J. SALZANO
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov.-elect W. W. Barron asked the West Virginia Legislature Tuesday night, on the eve of the opening of its 55th session, to enact immediately a temporary increase in the state consumer sales tax.

The money would go into a "crash" program of public works projects to put more of the state's jobless to work. The consumer sales tax rate would be hiked from 2 per cent to 3 per cent on all purchases over $1. Barron asked that it be made effective Sunday, the day before he takes office as the state's 26th governor, with an "absolute" expiration date of Aug. 31.

Barron made his announcement in a brief radio - television address in which he also stated his "strong opposition" to pay increases at this time for elected state officials.

He indicated the new presiding officers of the Legislature, House Speaker Julius Singleton and Senate President Howard Carson — who will be formally installed Wednesday — are in agreement with him on the need for immediate aid to the unemployed. They were with him at the time of the speech.

Barron said he will have later proposals for long - range remedies to the state's economic conditions, but that the situation is so acute that it cannot wait for action on this program or aid programs promised by President-elect John F. Kennedy.

As for the salary hikes which Barron had indicated he favored previously, he said:

"In view of the intense difficulties of the day, with many thousands of our people out of work...it is my considered opinion that pay raises now for top officials of our government would be unwise."

The legislature convenes at noon Wednesday and Singleton and Carson will be formally elected shortly thereafter as new presiding officers as one of the first items of business.

The two chambers will meet in joint session at about 1:15 p.m. to hear the final state-of-the-state message of outgoing Gov. Cecil H. Underwood.

New Church Being Built Near Grantsville

Pictured above is the new Maranatha Assembly of God Church, at Grantsville where Rev. William Ferguson is the pastor. The new church is being built along Route 417. The structure is 40 by 72 feet with a concrete block basement and brick veneer. The basement, when completed will have 14 classrooms and two assembly rooms. The main floor will be 40 by 50 feet seating 275 with a nursery, vestible cloak room and pastors study. The church has been holding meetings in a store room in Grantsville. All volunteer help is being done by Midlothian, Lonaconing, Central Assembly of Cumberland, Oakland and Grantsville members.

Lawyers Outnumber Others In W. Va. Legislature Which Convenes Its Fifty-Fifth Session Today

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Legislature, which convenes in its 55th session Wednesday, has 119 native West Virginians among its 132 members in the Senate and House of Delegates.

Nine delegates and four senators were born in other states, all but one of them from adjoining states. The exception is Del. Mino D'Aurora, D-Brooke, who is a native of Italy.

Facts and figures on the membership of the two chambers, compiled by House Parliamentarian Oschel C. Parsons, also show the average age of senators is 50 while among the delegates, it is 45.

The youngest senator is Arch W. Riley, D-Ohio, who at 30 will be judiciary chairman. The oldest is Dallas Wolfe, R-Preston, who is 65. Senate President Howard Carson, D-Fayette, is 50, hitting the average.

In the House, Del. Kenneth Auvil, D-Barbour, at 25 is the youngest member and Del. T. E. Holderby, R-Cabell, at 81 is the oldest. House Speaker Julius Singleton, D-Monongalia, at 39 is six years under the average age of delegates.

Twenty-nine of the 32 senators are married. There's only one bachelor—Sen. Charles A. Millar, D-Mineral — and two widowers.

In the House, there are six single members, 91 who are married, one a widow and three widowers. Of the four lady members, Del. Callie Tsapis, D-Hancock, is not married. The bachelors are Dels. John A. Amick, D-Kanawha; John L. Bailey, D-Lewis; Earl B. Hager, D-Logan; Robert F. McCarthy, D-Marshall and William McCoy Jr., D-Pendleton.

Sen. Ward Wylie, D-Wyoming, ranks first in the length of legislative service in the Senate with 20 years. Sen. Jackie McKowen, D-Wayne, is second with 18 years and Sens. Ted Bowers, R-Wetzel, and Glenn Taylor, D-Mingo, are tied for third with 16 years each.

In the House, Del. Nell Walker, D-Fayette, ranks first having been elected last November to her 12th two-year term. Dels. Herbert Schupbach, D-Wetzel, and Spencer K. Creel, R-Wood, are tied for second, each serving his 11th term.

Fifty - seven House members have had prior service in the House of Delegates, 48 of them in the 54th legislature. There are 43 with no prior service.

The Senate has four members with no prior legislative service —Sens. Paul Kaufman, D-Kanawha; R. E. Barnett, D-Mercer; William R. Sharpe, D-Lewis, and Millar.

Lawyers outnumber all other professions in the legislature. There are 12 in the Senate and 28 in the House. Teaching and school administration is second with four in the Senate and 10 in the House.

Methodists have a wide lead in church affiliations with 14 members in the Senate and 34 in the House. Baptists are second with 24 in the House and 2 in the Senate.

Liquor Study Report In W. Va. Is Incomplete

State Revenues Being Analyzed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A legislative committee set up three months ago to report on financial aspects of legalizing liquor by the drink in West Virginia reported Tuesday it did not have time to make an adequate study.

The group, a subcommittee of the legislative interim committees, had been directed to study liquor revenues legalized under West Virginia's present state monopoly system, plus the effects legalized over-the-bar sales might have.

The 10 - member committee was headed by outgoing Sen. Herbert Traubert, D-Brooke, who introduced the resolution under which it was created at last October's special session.

At its first meeting Oct. 31 it directed legislative auditor C. H. Koontz to compile figures, including reports from other states, especially those that changed from state monopoly to liquor-by-the-drink.

At the committee's last meeting Dec. 10, Koontz reported that his findings to that point were inconclusive.

Reporting for the subcommittee Monday, Koontz told the interim committee that the subcommittee, after going into the matter in detail, felt it had not had sufficient time to consider the material "and make an intelligent report" to the Legislature.

Commissioners Hope To Hold Taxes In Line

Garrett Board Preparing Levy

OAKLAND — Garrett County Commissioners are busy at work on the 1961 levy which must be completed by next Sunday, at which time it will be known whether the tax rate is the same as last year — $2.35.

Carl Schell, president of the group, has reported there is no indication of any increase in the rate.

There has been a hike of about one million dollars in the assessable basis, bringing it close to $40 million dollars. The assessable basis last year was $38,045,952.

The increase comes from new properties placed on the tax books within the past year and from discovering various properties that had escaped taxation in past years. There has also been action on the part of the supervisors of assessments to make the tax structure more equitable for all persons.

Last year the Commissioners tacked a 35-cent increase on the rate. It was the first time since 1946 that the levy had been other than $2. The rate was set at $2.30 on each $100 with a special levy for fire departments of five cents on each $100. The latter was to raise some $20,000 which had to be paid to fire departments as the result of a special law passed at the 1959 session of the Legislature.

Many departments were asking for some increases in their budgets, but the increase in taxable basis was expected to take care of most of any increases granted.

Enters Hospital

LONACONING — Timothy Doolan, US Navy, Norfolk, Va., was admitted to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, Saturday evening for an injured right leg. He was taken by ambulance.

Homemakers Plan Industrial Tour

ECKHART—Plans will be made for a trip to a local industrial plant at the meeting of the Eckhart Homemakers Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Eckhart Methodist Church. A magazine exchanging program will also be instituted and any member desiring to participate is asked to bring a magazine to trade.

An attendance award for the year will be discussed at this meeting. To be eligible for the award attendance at this meeting will be necessary. Each person has been asked to bring a prospective member to the club.

New Year books will be available. Miss Mary Wise, county home demonstration agent will attend the meeting.

Ellerslie WSCS To Aid Mission

ELLERSLIE—Womans Society of World Service met Friday evening in the Evangelical United Brethren church basement. Mrs. Amy Miller and Mrs. Tenney were in charge of devotions. A playlet "A Changing World" was presented by Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Tenney.

Class sisters were revealed and new ones given for the coming year. Members were urged to save pennies for the Kentucky Mountain Mission dinner to be held in February. Fourteen members were present. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Tenney and Mrs. Elsie Whitford.

School Worker Injured In Fall

FROSTBURG — Paul Hager, RD 3, a temporary employe at Beall High School, suffered a possible leg fracture Monday in a fall down outside steps leading to the school's boiler room.

The accident occurred about 1:30 a.m. but Hager was not found until 6 a.m.

Thomas Rank, head custodian, and William Kroll discovered him in the boiler room when they reported for work. Hager was taken to Miners Hospital.

Trial Date Set For Supt. Fair

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Kanawha County Intermediate Court Judge William Thompson Monday set Jan. 30 as the trial date for State Police Supt. Hazen Fair.

Fair pleaded innocent previously to charges of giving false testimony last fall during a grand jury investigation into fund shortages in the motor vehicles inspection division of the Department of Public Safety.

A civilian employe allegedly embezzled money from the department, and there was conflicting testimony on the question of whether Fair had promised immunity from prosecution if she would return the funds.

Fair's trial will come about two weeks after he leaves state employment. He will be succeeded Jan. 16 by former superintendent W. E. Burchett of Huntington, Gov.-elect W. W. Barron's choice for the post.

NCAA Hands Out One-Year Penalties To Three Colleges

Tarheels Are Barred From Tournaments

Loyola Of South And Arizona Also Put On Probation

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The powerful National Collegiate Athletic Association Council handed out one-year penalties to three institutions Tuesday for violations of rules in connection with recruiting and paying athletes.

The University of North Carolina and Loyola University of New Orleans were put on probation for one year and their basketball teams were barred from competing in the national collegiate championships or any of the other tournaments that co-operate with the NCAA enforcement program.

The University of Arizona was placed on probation but no additional sanctions were imposed—a lighter penalty given in recognition of the co-operation of the Arizona administration in the investigation and its elimination of certain illegal practices even before they were reported to the NCAA.

Given Verbal Slap

North Carolina also received a strong verbal slap for slipshod accounting methods that made it impossible to determine whether more serious rules violations had taken place.

These three penalties, coming just after Oklahoma, Southern California and Tulsa had been removed from probation, brought to 58 the number of cases in which the NCAA has imposed penalties since its enforcement program began in 1952.

The committee on infractions, which makes the preliminary investigation of reported rules violations, has looked into a total of 268 cases and has dropped 151 of them.

North Carolina was found guilty of providing excessive entertainment for prospective basketball players. In particular, the council ruled that Coach Frank McGuire and a semi-official talent scout in New York, Harry Gotkin, has picked up entertainment bills that appeared too big and had failed to account in detail for the expenditures.

Boosters Paid Players

These accounting practices came in for special scrutiny, al-

Unbeaten Martinsburg At Allegany Tonight

Bulldogs Stopped South High Rebels, Boast 5-0 Record

Martinsburg High School's undefeated Bulldogs, who cracked South Hagerstown's nine - game victory streak last Friday, are scheduled to come here tonight to engage Allegany High School's Campers in the opener of a home-and-home series at 8 o'clock.

This game was scheduled twice last month but on both occasions was postponed by Martinsburg because of icy highways which made travel hazardous.

Coach George Whitacre's Bulldogs have won five games in a row and head the Cumberland Valley Athletic League race with a 2-0 record. Monday night Martinsburg defeated Mel Henry's North Hagerstown quint, 46-42, after having previously beaten Waynesboro 64-59, Fort Hill 66-51, Shepherdstown, 75-37, and last but not least the South High Rebels, 45-41.

Martinsburg won the C.V.A.L. title last season with an 8-2 record and split even with the Campers who lost at Martinsburg, 61-60, and won here by the score of 62-59.

Prior to last night's game with Beall, the Campers owned a 5-1 record and the only loss came at the hands of South Hagerstown in a 70-64 overtime battle here December 28. Coach Chet Payne's quint had scored wins over Piedmont, the Alumni, Keyser, Altoona Catholic and Mt. Savage.

Tonight's game might prove as interesting as the South High-Allegany battle.

Fort Ashby plays at Keyser in a P. V. C. engagement tonight while Franklin's Panthers tackle Harman High School at the latter place.

Cards Sign Pair

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday signed right-handed pitcher Al Cicotte and outfielder Don Landrum, both of whom were outstanding last season in the International League.

Cicotte had a sparking 1.79 earned run average and 16-7 won-lost record at Toronto. Landrum, 24, a left-handed hitter, came to the Cards late in the season for five players and showed good promise. For Buffalo, he batted .292 with 18 home runs, 75 runs batted in and 35 doubles.

Frostburg State Will Raise Funds For Hall Of Fame

FROSTBURG—To raise money for the James Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, members of the Physical Education Club of Frostburg State Teachers College will play the game in its original form during half time of the regular game scheduled for this evening.

Wearing uniforms as were worn when basketball made its debut on the American scene and playing according to the original rules, the teams will endeavor to make the contrast of the game, then and now, as pronounced as possible.

Anyone who would like to donate a sum or make a pledge toward the fund raising project may do so by calling Dr. Harold J. Cordts at the college. Joseph Loveless, a member of the physical education club, is in charge of collecting pledges.

Schoeppner Agrees To Fight Johnson

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Paul Sullivan, chairman of the National Boxing Association's World Championships Committee, said Tuesday night that Erich Schoeppner and Harold Johnson have agreed to fight for the world light-heavyweight championship.

Sullivan, a member of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, said he received telegrams from Andy Niederreiter, New York, American representative for Schoeppner, and Pat Olivieri, Philadelphia, Johnson's manager, and both agreed to the bout.

Both fighters had been given until Jan. 10 by Sullivan's six-man NBA committee to reach a decision.

Sherman Named Giants' Coach

NEW YORK (UPI)—Allie Sherman, once such a skinny runt he was told to "get lost" when he tried out for his high school football team in Brooklyn, Tuesday was named head coach of the New York Giants.

Sherman, Giants' backfield coach for five seasons under Steve Owen and for the past two years under Jim Lee Howell, signed a three-year contract at an estimated $25,000 salary. Howell retired as head coach at the close of the past season to take a job as director of player personnel in the New York organization.

Hary Case May Parallel That Of Jim Thorpe

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—An Olympic official said Tuesday Armin Hary, German Olympic sprint champion suspended for padding his expense account, would be barred from future games and might be forced to give up the gold medals he won at Rome.

Not so said Kurt Buelow, chairman of the German committee that found Hary guilty of the charges last Saturday and suspended him from amateur athletics for a year.

In the hearing against him in Germany, Hary admitted that he received $54.26 above expenses in two pre-Olympic meets last spring.

He was suspended for one year.

Should he be forced to give up his two gold medals, Hary's case would parallel that of Jim Thorpe, the United States winner of the 1912 decathlon at the Stockholm games. Thorpe won the 10-event crown that year and was hailed by the Swedish king as the greatest athlete of his time. Later he was forced to return the trophies when it was discovered he played briefly in a professional baseball league the previous summer.

Philadelphia Seeks AFL Berth, Loop May Expand To 10 Teams

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harry Wismer, chairman of the expansion committee of the American Football League, announced Tuesday that a group from Philadelphia is seeking a league franchise for the 1962 season.

Wismer said the Philadelphia group "has plenty of money and plenty of know-how."

Wismer, also president of the New York Titans of the AFL, said he will present the facts he has learned on the Philadelphia franchise bid to the meeting of the American Football League which opens in Houston, Tex., on Thursday.

At that time, Wismer said he will recommend that the AFL be expanded to 10 teams for 1962 with the admission of Philadelphia to the Eastern Division and Chicago to the Western Division. Later, he predicted that the league will expand to 12 teams for the 1963 season.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Jack Curtice of Stanford Tuesday was elected president of the American Football Coaches Association. He succeeds Charles (Rip) Engle of Penn State.

Coppin College Plays Bobcats At Frostburg

Coppin State Teachers College of Baltimore will make its first appearance in a basketball game at Frostburg tonight against Frostburg State Teachers College and the home team will be seeking revenge for an earlier 54-51 defeat suffered in the first game of the campaign in the Monumental City.

This will be the ninth game of the season for Coach Ron Van Ryswyk's Bobcats who have won three and lost five.

Frostburg State has split even in six games at home and has dropped two decisions on the road.

The Bobcats will play their eighth home game Saturday night when they meet the Rams of Shepherd College.

Tonight's game is set for 8 o'clock.

To Broadcast Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Broadcasting Company said Tuesday it would carry the radio version of the March 13 bout between Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Ingemar Johansson. ABC also broadcast the first two meetings between the two.

Colonials Host West Virginia

Mountaineers Seek 10th Win Thursday

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia University's sophomore - laden basketball team, riding the crest of a seven game winning streak, meets George Washington in Washington Thursday night and may need every offensive weapon it can muster.

The Mountaineers dropped a 97-93 decision to the Colonials in Uline Arena last year as little Jon Feldman hit for 42 points.

The Colonials have been having troubles this year while losing five games against three wins. But Feldman is back and the Colonials are always tough on their home court.

West Virginia is 9-2 on the season and is averaging slightly over 86 points a game as Coach George King seems finally to have found the right combination — with a balanced scoring attack and a strong bench.

1961 MERCURY MONTEREY 2-DOOR HARDTOP

TRADITIONAL MERCURY COMFORT Only Mercury has Cushion-Link Ride (standard on Monterey and Meteor 800)—a unique suspension system that absorbs jolts and jars that come through to you in other cars. It "gives" backward and forward as well as up and down. And Mercury has a longer wheelbase (120 inches) and greater weight (up to 241 pounds heavier) than other cars in its price range. Result: you enjoy a smooth, solid, steady big-car ride you'd expect to pay much more for. There's plenty of stretch-out room in Mercury, too—even more rear seat hip, shoulder and head room than in last year's spacious Mercury. Wider doors and more trunk space, too.

TRADITIONAL MERCURY VALUE There's extra value in Mercury's engine choice—all the way from the Super-Economy "6" (Mercury's first "6") to the powerful Marauder V-8's. And even the top-performing V-8's deliver up to 15% better gas mileage. There's extra value in Mercury's seven self-servicing features. From self-lubricating chassis to self-adjusting brakes, they save you money every mile you drive. Everywhere you look, the 1961 Mercury offers you traditional Mercury values. Now, for the price most people pay for a new car, you can own a Mercury. Take your pick of Mercury's three great series and drive it today!

B.F. GOODRICH PUTS A GUARANTEE BETWEEN YOU AND ROAD HAZARDS!

New B. F. Goodrich guarantee gives full allowance for all unused tread on damaged tires—for as long as 3 years on some tires! Here's how the guarantee works: B.F.Goodrich, of course, stands behind the materials and workmanship of all its tires for the entire life of the tread. But there are normal driving hazards on the road that can damage any tire . . . no matter how well it's made. ■ Suddenly, your car runs over a broken bottle, piece of sharp steel or rock. This could mean a cut, a rip or a break in the fabric that could damage your BFG tire beyond repair. ■ Now you don't have to take a loss on that tire. Take it to any B.F.Goodrich dealer with your warranty certificate, issued at time of sale. He'll check the tire's tread wear and apply the value of the remaining tread against the cost of a replacement—at current retail list prices. You pay only for the tread already used. ■ To get all the facts in this nationwide, written guarantee now on all new BFG tires, see your B.F.Goodrich dealer. Depending on the type of tire purchased, the protection of this guarantee lasts from 12 to 36 months.

Fort Hill Stops Bruce, 61-54; Allegany Wins, 52-48

Valley Quint Loses, 63-44, To Mt. Savage

Bulldogs' 7-Game Win Streak Ends On Home Court

WMI STANDINGS

Fort Hill	2	0
Allegany	2	0
Mt. Savage	1	1
Bruce	1	1
Beall	0	2
Valley	0	2

By TED TROXELL

Fort Hill's Sentinels, on the rebound from the dismal 1959-60 season when they won only one game in varsity competition, upset previously unbeaten Bruce last night, 61-54, to remain tied for the lead of the WMI League with the Allegany Campers, who scored an uphill 52-48 triumph over Beall.

In the other league encounter last night, Mt. Savage used a red-hot final period surge to defeat Valley's hapless Black Knights, 63-44.

The Sentinels stopped Bruce High's winning streak at seven games, catching the Bulldogs at the close of the second quarter after trailing throughout the first two periods by as much as eight points.

Glen Shipway knotted the score for the first time at 32-all with a field goal and after Bill Wiltison put Bruce in front once more with a pair of fouls, George Twigg knotted the count at 34-34 as the half ended.

Win third Straight

Jim Rice scored two quick goals as the third quarter started to give Fort Hill a 38-34 edge and the visiting Sentinels, coached by Jimmy Eckard, were never again headed. The Hilltoppers built the lead to 49-40 at the close of the third stanza and hung on to register their third straight victory.

Shipway paced the Fort Hill attack with 18 points, Rice collected 17, and Twigg chipped in with 14. Bruce's best bets were Earl Riggleman with 19 tallies and Wiltison with 16.

Wiltison fouled out with 32 seconds to play in the game and Fort Hill's Ronnie Manges exited two seconds later on personals.

Allegany kept intact its amazing record of not having lost to Beall at home in 32 years, although the Mountaineers looked as if they might turn the trick last night.

Beall Hangs In

Wayne Shook's field goal gave the Campers a permanent lead at 4-3 early in the opening period, but the Frostburg quint stayed in contention throughout.

With 2:12 remaining in the contest, Jim Evans connected on a jumper to pull Beall within four points, 48-44, but fielders by Jerry Pentoney and Mervin Pope all but put the game out of the Mounties' reach with 1:06 left.

The first half ended with Allegany driving in front, 22-14, as the Campers scored most of their points by driving through Beall's vulnerable two-three-one for layups.

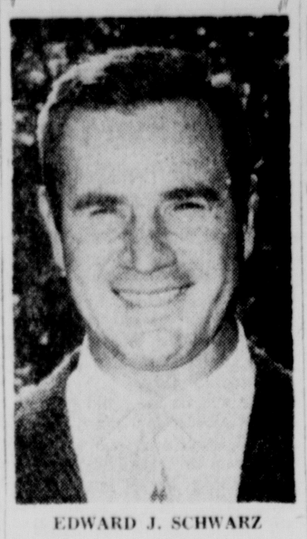

Pope, who fouled out with 59 seconds left, finished with 15 points to take scoring honors for the winners, while Bob Gaffney was right behind with 14. Evans and Andy Dunn, with 18 and 12 tallies, respectively, paced Beall. Allegany's overall shooting mark was .355—22 field goals in 62 attempts, while the visitors hit on 48 of 56 for a .321 percentage.

Indians Score First

Mt. Savage High's Indians captured their initial WMI victory at Lonaconing, marking the first time since the Indians entered the circuit that they have been able to win on the Valley boards.

The Indians jumped off to a quick lead and held it until the third quarter when Valley rallied to pull ahead 33-32. The lead seesawed back and forth until Bobby Robertson put Mt. Savage in front once again at 40-39 with a field goal, and the Indians steadily increased the margin the rest of the game.

EDWARD J. SCHWARZ

Dapper Dans Will Honor Ed Schwarz

Will Get Special Achievement Award

The Dapper Dan Club will honor Allegany High School's football coach, Edward J. Schwarz at its annual sports celebrity dinner January 29 for the benefit of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Schwarz will receive the organization's special achievement award for the showing his Alco eleven made this past fall, winning 10 straight games for the team's best record in the history of the West Side School.

A native of Erie, Pa., Schwarz has been Allegany's grid coach for three seasons during which his teams have compiled a 25-5-0 record. In 1958 the Campers had a 7-3 mark, and in 1959 the Allegany eleven made it 8-2 for the season. The team has a 12-game winning streak going since late in 1959.

The hard-working Camper coach will become the sixth person to win the achievement award since it was inaugurated by the Dapper Dan Club in 1952. Last year's winners were Allegany High's retired basketball coach, Walter L. "Bill" Bowers, and Johnny Meyers, Valley High cage mentor at Lonaconing.

Schwarz, who also serves as Allegany track coach, came here from Dover, Del. He played football at the University of Maryland for four years. He is the father of two daughters and is married to the former Miss Jeanne Schaffer, a graduate of Terra Alta, W. Va., High School.

The annual dinner will be held at St. Mary's Church Hall.

Molinas Was Fired To Preserve Public Confidence In Game

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Maurice Podoloff of the National Basketball Association testified Tuesday that he had "had to fire" player Jack Molinas for betting on games in order to preserve public confidence in the integrity of professional basketball.

Testimony wound up Tuesday in the trial of Molinas' suit against Podoloff and the NBA, in which the former Fort Wayne Pistons player is seeking reinstatement plus $3 million in damages.

Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who is hearing the case in federal court without a jury, announced at the end of Tuesday's session that he will render his decision Wednesday. Earlier in the day, Kaufman denied a defense motion to dismiss the case on the grounds that Molinas had failed to prove his case.

Celtics Win, 118-98

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The Boston Celtics, paced by Tom Heinsohn's 25 points, rolled easily past the Detroit Pistons, 118-98, in the first game of a National Basketball Association double-header at Kiel Auditorium Tuesday night.

LaSalle Raps Hyndman By 84-45 Score

Explorers Notch 8th Straight Win

All five LaSalle starters hit in double figures last night as the Explorers rolled to their eighth straight win, a convincing 84-45 triumph over Hyndman at SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium.

The victory was the ninth of the campaign for the Explorers, whose only loss came in their second game against Central Catholic High of Pittsburgh.

A free throw by Gary Blake put LaSalle in front for good at 5-4. The Irish led by only six points, 17-11, at the end of the first period, but they exploded for 26 points in the second quarter while holding the Pennsylvanians to a mere seven.

Phil Barbe led the Explorers' balanced scoring attack with 17 points, while Mike Long added 14, Blake and John Sloan hit for 13 apiece, and Carroll Wilt collected 10. Jim Arnold caged 16 and Vohn Lehman tallied 14 for the Hornets, who by losing dropped into the .500 class with a 4-4 record.

Coach George Geatz used 12 players in the rout, and all but three of them broke into the scoring column as LaSalle racked up 36 field goals and converted 12 of 19 tries at the free throw line.

Reject Proposal

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—A proposal to announce scoring after each round in the Gene Fullmer-Sugar Ray Robinson middleweight title fight scheduled for Las Vegas Feb. 25 was voted down Tuesday by the Nevada Athletic Commission.

Chairman Dr. Joseph Elia of Reno favored the proposal, which he said he had the backing of the National Boxing Association. Other members said it was too risky.

"I don't care about the NBA," John Gammick of Elko said. "I vote no unless we contact both camps and they agree with the rule."

Norwood Resigns As Coach At WVSD, Rubiano Successor

Malcolm Norwood, head basketball coach at the West Virginia School for the Deaf at Romney, for more than seven years, has resigned to accept a position in the Captioned Films for the Deaf Department of the United States Office of Education, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Norwood's resignation was effective December 19.

This season the West Virginia School had won two and lost two under Norwood making his record at the school 69 wins and 84 losses.

Al Rubiano, who came to the Romney school in 1959 and since then has served as junior high basketball coach and varsity track coach, is Norwood's successor, and made his debut as varsity cage mentor last night.

Rubiano is a graduate of the New York School for the Deaf, White Plains, and Gallaudet College, Washington, D. C.

Vikings Clobber Mathias For 9th Straight, 106-46

Elk Garden Belts Franklin; Jackets, Ridgeley Winners

Petersburg High School, the only undefeated scholastic team in the tri-state area, extended its winning streak to nine games and made its Potomac Valley Conference record 7-0 by clobbering Mathias High School last night at Petersburg by the score of 106 to 46.

Coach Carroll Michael's Vikings scored a total of 44 field goals and 11 of the 12 players who saw action scored two or more points. Mathias was limited to 16 goals and suffered its sixth loss in seven conference starts.

Lewis Alt and Ernie Nelson led the Petersburg attack with 23 and 20 points, respectively. Harold Michael tossed in 15 points and Roby collected 14. Lowell Mathias was high for the losers with 13 tallies.

Elks Win 6th Straight

Coach Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garden High floormen stayed right on the heels of the leaders by posting their 7th win in eight P.V.C. outings as they turned back the Franklin Panthers at Franklin, 79-45. The victory was the sixth in a row for the Elks.

Bill Paugh and Don Shillingburg with 20 and 17 points, respectively, sparked the winners while Charles Moyers topped the Panthers with 18 tallies.

Elk Garden outscored Franklin 36 to 19 in field goals and held the long end of a 33-21 score at halftime.

Jackets Top Romney

Moorefield High School's Yellowjackets remained in contention in the P.V.C. race by registering its fifth win in six starts at the expense of the Romney Vikings in an 80-52 contest at Moorefield.

Doug Yankey's 24 points spark Coach LaMar Sager's quint in scoring while Johnny Blue, Romney center, collected 28 points on 10 field goals and 8-12 fouls.

Terry Mezzatesta of Romney, made a quick exit, fouling out in the first quarter after committing five personals and one technical foul. Yankey went out on fouls in the final period.

Ridgeley Trims Lions

At Ridgeley, Coach Tom O'Connor's Blackhawks handed the Piedmont High School Lions a 50-42 setback. A year ago on the same court Piedmont won by the score of 10-7.

Del Schoonover and Frank Lambert slammed in 16 points each to lead the Ridgeley assault as the Hawks notched their fourth P.V.C. win against five losses.

Dallas-Fort Worth Franchise Is Sold To Ray Johnston

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Owners of the Dallas-Fort Worth baseball franchise in the American Association, discouraged at failure to reach the major leagues, sold the club Tuesday to a man who thinks he may turn the trick.

The purchaser is Ray Johnston, 45, manager of the Indianapolis club in the American Association.

The sale was announced by the present owners, Amon Carter Jr., president of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, and J. W. Bateson, Dallas contractor.

Bateson refused to reveal the amount.

Johnston at the press conference announced his resignation as Indianapolis general manager.

The new owner said he does not represent a syndicate, although indicating that various understandings leave the situation "flexible."

He said he purchased the club because "we want to get into the major leagues as soon as possible and with the fewest obstacles," not identifying who he meant by "we."

Parsons Stops Southern 79-61

Highlanders Win Streak Is Snapped

OAKLAND—Parsons, W. Va., High's Panthers snapped a four-game winning streak for the Southern High Highlanders here last night as the Oakland cagers bowed, 79-61.

Parsons held a slim 17-16 lead at the close of the first quarter but hit for 25 points in the second stanza to lead 42-27 at halftime and were never in danger the remainder of the game.

Alkire and Oaster each scored 20 points for the visitors while Ronnie Colaw was high man for Southern with 15. Southern now is 4-3 for the season.

Southern High's Jayvees took the measure of the Parsons Junior Varsity, 55-23, in the preliminary game as Andy Loar showed the way for the winners with 19 points. The lineups:

Stocks Battle For Small Gain In Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks emerged the victors in a fierce battle Tuesday that threatened to turn into a losing proposition by the final bell.

The gain was a small one, however, centering heavily in the rail group and to a lesser extent among the steels, foods and drug shares.

Volume was heavy, rising to 4,840,000 shares from 4,210,000 the day before. The ticker ran late on several occasions, during the first hour when 1,040,000 shares were traded and at the close when profit-taking endangered many good gains.

A 2-for-1 stock split announced near the close by Procter & Gamble helped the Dow-Jones industrial average post a 1.30 gain to 625.72 as traders boosted the highs.

stock 4¼ points. Aided by Dupont, up 3½, this helped to counteract losses in Westinghouse, General Electric and Eastman Kodak.

The rail average, meanwhile, turned in another sterling performance, rising 1.37 to 138.78. C&O gained 1⅜ following news that a big Swiss bank has again recommended that B&O shareholders accept Chessie's exchange offer. Atlantic Coast Line rose 2 points and Southern Railway 1⅜.

The utilities picked up 0.34 to 101.74 with Peoples Gas and Houston Light & Power the strong spots.

The market was very broad with 1,281 issues crossing the tape. There were 677 gainers and 393 losers. New lows ran to 5 on Tuesday against none Monday while 66 issues touched new highs.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear daughter, sister, wife and mother, Wanda Lee Zembower, who died 3 years ago Jan. 11, 1958.

In our home she is fondly remembered, Sweet memories cling to her name, Those who loved her in life sincerely Still love her in death just the same.

Jack Meyer Signs

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Right-hander Jack Meyer, who "horse played" himself into a 15-day salary fine which brought on his threat to quit baseball last May, signed his 1961 contract with the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday.

Meyer, 28, had a 3-1 record when he injured his back in a hotel room scuffle with a teammate in Pittsburgh which he described as "horse play."

France's longest dwelling is an apartment house stretching 1,837 feet in a Paris suburb. The serpentine building has some 1,500 occupants. Its curved form leaves lawn space for children to play.

Jack Meyer Signs

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Right-hander Jack Meyer, who "horse played" himself into a 15-day salary fine which brought on his threat to quit baseball last May, signed his 1961 contract with the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday.

Meyer, 28, had a 3-1 record when he injured his back in a hotel room scuffle with a teammate in Pittsburgh which he described as "horse play."

France's longest dwelling is an apartment house stretching 1,837 feet in a Paris suburb. The serpentine building has some 1,500 occupants. Its curved form leaves lawn space for children to play.

Gray Appeal Argued Before High Court

Two Previous Cases Reversed

For the third time in as many years the Maryland Court of Appeals yesterday heard argument seeking reversal of the armed robbery conviction of Raymond John Anthony Gray, who was a former Cumberlander living in Baltimore at the time of his arrest in 1958.

At the third trial last April 1, an Allegany County Circuit Court jury deliberated about 30 minutes and then found Gray guilty of the armed robbery of William J. Cover, 1404 Virginia Avenue, on Shades Lane on September 11, 1958. After that verdict, Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris immediately imposed a maximum 10-year sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary upon Gray.

Twice before Judge Harris had sentenced Gray to 10 years in the Maryland Penitentary and each time the Court of Appeals reversed the conviction and ordered a new trial.

The first was a non-jury affair before Judge Harris on October 17, 1958. The second was a jury trial on May 13, 1959. Gray was back in Allegany County Circuit Court again on March 8, 1960, but he collapsed before the trial because of a weakened condition brought on by a recent gall bladder operation. The next day he was back in court and his attorneys, Harold M. Naughton and Earl E. Manges, pleaded him guilty to receiving stolen goods.

A short time later, Judge Harris called the attorneys back into court. He informed them then that he could not accept a plea of guilty to receiving stolen goods because the May 1959 jury had found Gray guilty of that count in the criminal information.

In the argument before the Court of Appeals yesterday, Gray's attorneys contended the Circuit Court here had acted improperly denied his request that the case be sent to another court for trial and alleged there was no testimony linking him with the scene of the crime except the uncorroborated testimony of a self-confessed accomplice.

The state moved for dismissal of Gray's appeal on the grounds it did not include all of the material necessary to a consideration of the question.

Teacher Pay Plan Outlined

Mrs. Fred L. Bull of Baltimore County, center, legislation chairman of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, chats with Mrs. Benjamin R. Lewis, president of the Allegany County Council of PTA and Harry Hendrickson, Baltimore, a representative of the Maryland State Teachers Association, before a meeting of the county council last night at Beall Elementary School in Frostburg. Mrs. Bull and Mr. Hendrickson attended the meeting to explain provisions of a proposal for teachers' salaries and other aids to education sponsored jointly by their two groups.

Plan To Tax Savings, Loan Units Proposed

Funds Would Go To Subdivisions

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Another taxing proposal recognizing the growing financial plight of local subdivisions was thrown into the Maryland Legislature Tuesday.

Del. Alexander Stark, D-Balto 5th, called for taxation of savings and loan companies with deposits of more than $1 million.

Stark said he sought the new tax both as a means of raising revenue for Baltimore City and other metropolitan areas as well as to end what he thinks is discrimination.

Gov. Tawes, in his opening message to the legislature last Wednesday, said the increasing needs of Maryland's subdivisions for money posed one of the most pressing problems of the times.

He subsequently endorsed a uniform state tax of six cents on a pack of cigarettes with half of the income being given to the subdivisions.

No Strings Attached

The counties will be able to use their share as they choose.

The governor still plans to propose further taxation to provide the counties and Baltimore City with more money for public schools and welfare.

Stark's bill would impose a tax of 10 cents per $100 on the average annual deposits of more than $1 million in savings and loan companies.

He figures Baltimore City alone would pick up $1 million.

The tax on savings and loans would be the same as paid now by mutual savings banks. Stark said he feels the savings and loan companies are in competition with the banks and so should be taxed the same.

"Particularly when the city and counties need the money," he added.

A commission which has recommended the first regulation by the state of savings and loan companies also proposed a tax. It would be one cent per $100 on all deposits.

Tawes Endorses

Tawes has endorsed the commission report in general although the specific legislation has not yet been drawn.

It was a slow day for action in the legislature beyond the introduction of bills.

The House and Senate judiciary committees agreed to hold a joint hearing Feb. 2 on the touchy subject of prohibiting hotels and restaurants from refusing to serve Negroes.

The House Judiciary Committee also named a subcommittee to work on a bill that would disqualify prisoners in State institutions from collecting workmen's compensation for injuries.

In the Senate, the judiciary committee approved a bill to pave the way for setting up eye banks and similar medical resources in Maryland.

The measure would enable a person desiring to leave his body or any of its organs to such a facility after death to do so by filling out a notarizing form.

The form, if left with a doctor, would be sufficient authority for him to remove an eye cornea or other organ and preserve it for transplanting to a living person.

Hearings Set

Dr. Russell V. Fisher, State medical examiner, said present law makes it difficult to carry out such procedures because of possible objections from next of kin.

Even though permission from the next of kin might be obtained, he added, this sometimes takes longer than the desirable time lapse for removal and transplanting of tissue.

The Senate and House judiciary committees announced joint hearings will be held Jan. 24-25 on legislation to increase unemployment compensation benefits but tighten the requirements for applicants.

William L. Wilson Jr., representing the Baltimore Association of Commerce, says the legislation is one of the most important

22 County Musicians Named To All-State Units

Twenty-two Allegany County vocal and instrumental musicians will participate in a concert Friday night at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington as one of the features of the four-day eastern conference of the Music Educators National Conference.

Sixteen of the students, representing five of the eight senior high schools in Allegany County, will participate with the All-Maryland High School Chorus. The chorus will be under the direction of Miss Margaret Hillis. Students were selected by the audition method with Charles Sager of Frostburg State Teachers College and L. J. Hahn, supervisor of music education in the county public schools, adjudicating.

The singers, who will leave by B&O train this afternoon for Washington, include Ruth Alexander, Patricia Linaburg, Charles Mooney, Mary Susan Smith and Sheila Umberger, all Allegany; Lynn Horner and Jeanine Richardson, both Beall; Patrick McCarty, Kathryn Riley and Nancy Whitworth, all Bruce; Charles Brown, Henry Fehlman, Dave Norris and Cynthia Siehler, all Fort Hill, and Richard Duckworth and Robert Mitchell, both Valley.

Four instrumental musicians will perform with the All-Maryland Band and two others with the All-State orchestra. The band members are Linda Gipe, flute, and Judy Friedman, clarinet, both Allegany, and Patrick Shannon, tenor saxophone, and Ronald Burkey, bass, both Fort Hill. Representing Allegany High School in the All-State Orchestra will be Harley Winer, violin, and Elmer Beachley, clarinet.

Allegany County music educators who will attend the convention include Mr. Hahn, Miss Dorothy Willison, Allegany; Miss Annetta Yates and Harold Hanson, both Fort Hill; Miss Carol Miller, Mt. Savage, and Mrs. Doris Peyton, Valley, all vocal music teachers; Miss Dolores Rowley, Cresaptown; Mrs. Sally Wheeler, Oldtown, and Monroe Harris, Flintstone, instrumental and vocal teachers, and Miss Anita Dickens, elementary resource music teacher.

On Saturday evening, the conference delegates will spend the evening at the National Gallery of Art to hear music by the University of Maryland Madrigal Singers and the Bucknell (Pa.) University Brass Choir.

The following evening the Washington and Cathedral choral societies will present Haydn's "The Seasons" at the National Cathedral.

Concluding the convention Monday evening, there will be a concert by the All-Eastern Band, Orchestra and Chorus, sponsored by the National Interscholastic Music Activities Commission.

Eckhart School Teacher Retires On January 31

Mrs. Ina Watson, 155 Ormond Street, Frostburg, who has taught at Eckhart School for 21 of her 29 years as a teacher, informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday that she is retiring effective January 31.

Mrs. Watson wrote the commissioners for a form which she might use in applying for the $40 supplemental pension which the county provides.

The retiring teacher, who holds a bachelor of science degree in elementary education from Frostburg State Teachers College, began her teaching career in West Annapolis in 1917. After that one year in Anne Arundel County, she returned here and taught two years at Maryland Avenue School and one year at Union Street before stopping her teaching career in 1922 for 14 years.

She resumed teaching in the 1936-37 school year at Swain, then was on the faculty at Eckhart for the first time from 1937 until 1946. After three years at Beall Elementary School, Mrs. Watson returned to Eckhart School in the fall of 1949 and remained there ever since.

New Polaris Scores Again With ABL Help

Second-Stage Motor Made At Local Plant

An Allegany Ballistics Laboratory rocket motor yesterday helped the Navy achieve its third successful firing of the advanced, longer-range Polaris missile at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The 31-foot missile hurled a heavily instrumented dummy warhead 1,600 miles over the Atlantic Ocean in about 15 minutes. The Navy said preliminary indications were that the firing was "a complete success."

United Press International said the orange-nosed missile, designed for launching from submarines rose from a land-based launching pad at 12:14 p.m., leaving a brilliant white contrail.

Less than a minute later, an abrupt break in the contrail marked the separation of the ABL second stage. The upper section, made of a glass filament-resin material to lessen weight, soared the remainder of the distance to the ocean target in less than 15 minutes.

John E. Mellin, project engineer of the Polaris Development Department at ABL, was at Cape Canaveral to help install the second-stage motor.

ABL, the Navy-owned rocket research laboratory near Pinto which is operated by Hercules Powder Company, has contributed a second-stage motor for all three advanced design Polaris missiles fired since November 10. All three firings have been successful.

The motor uses a new, more powerful type of solid propellant cased in Spiralloy—a combination of glass filaments and resin which has the highest strength-to-weight ratio of all known materials. The rocket case is manufactured at the Hercules plant in Rocky Hill, N. J.

Development work is being done to provide an even greater increase in the Polaris missile's range.

Fire Company Training Representatives Listed

Allegany and Garrett counties are included in a listing of training representatives serving Maryland volunteer fire departments which appears in the January issue of the bulletin of the Fire Service Extension at the University of Maryland.

A training representative serves as liaison between his fire company and the Extension. Information regarding developments in firemen's training activities and information of value to Maryland firemen is channeled directly to the representative.

It is his responsibility to see that this information is made available to all members of his fire company. The representative is also responsible for coordinating requests for firemen's training classes.

Allegany County representatives include: Harry M. DeHaven, Baltimore Pike; James Lamberson, Barton; Fred D. Purnell, Bedford Road; Calvin R. Ayers, Bowling Green; Leo C. Emerick, Bowman's Addition; J. Francis Fatkins, Clarysville.

Harry W. Martz, Corriganville; Assistant Chief Robert C. Long, Cumberland; Joseph Wenrich, Cresaptown; Lawrence F. Kyle, Flintstone; William R. Vogtman, Frostburg; Ralph Delligattie, LaVale; Kenneth E. Wilcox, Luke.

R. Homer Ambrose, McCoole; Harry Devlin, Midland; Raymond P. Kamauf, Shaft, William Mayles, Westernport; and Theodore Combs, Piedmont.

Garrett County representatives include: Chief Orlando W. Hetrick, Accident; Charles Pattison, Bloomington; Carl W. Thrasher, Deer Park; Clyde A. Vansickle, Friendsville; Delmer Martin, Kitzmiller and Chief Harold L. Schell, Oakland.

Course Urged For Sanitary Commissioners

A special course of instruction for the men who will serve on sanitary commissions in Maryland is being suggested by Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Mr. Clark has set forth his views in a letter he sent yesterday to Louis Schmidt, who is attorney to the State Department of Health.

The county attorney pointed out that a number of other counties like Allegany are just getting sanitary commissions activated. He believes a one-day course of instruction would be helpful to all of the commissioners.

He listed four main subjects to be considered in such a one-day course. They are:

1. Organization of commission and procedures; 2. jurisdiction of commission and its work; 3. financing methods and 4. legal problems involved in the establishment and conduct of the commission.

Mr. Clark thinks the course should be conducted by the State Department of Health at the earliest opportunity.

Frostburg Collects 100 Pints Of Blood

Three Are Named To 4-Gallon Club

Three persons became members of the Four-Gallon Club. They are John Leo Dean, 107 Maple Street; Aaron W. Bean, RFD 1, Box 9, Frostburg; and Donald Lloyd, 89 Hill Street.

Three others joined the Three-Gallon Club as each gave the 24th pint of blood. They include Thomas Hutchison, 131 West College Avenue; Mrs. Viola Buckalew, 4 Standish Street; and Harry K. Elliott, 195 West Main Street.

Four joined the Two-Gallon Club, including Richard E. Farrell, RFD 2, Box 1-A, Frostburg; George W. Buckalew, 33 Hill Street; Mrs. Beulah Wolford, RFD 2, Box 297, Frostburg; and Alexander Ganyu, 5 Blair Street.

The Gallon Club added Joe E. Coakley, 14 West Main Street, Hohn W. Logue, 147 Bowery Street, and Henry L. Ranck, 132 McCulloh Street, to its roster.

There were 129 scheduled to give blood at Frostburg yesterday, but only 81 kept their appointments. A total of 24 volunteer walk-ins were registered. Twenty gave blood as replacements and seven canceled their visits. Six persons were rejected for disabilities and two gave blood for the first time.

Physicians on duty yesterday included Dr. Frank T. Harrat, Dr. W. O. McLane, Dr. John B. Davis, Dr. H. C. Diehl, and Dr. Martin M. Rothstein.

The next visit of the bloodmobile to Frostburg is planned in April.

Demolition Plan Adopted For Dwellings

Plans to condemn and order the demolition of five dwellings located at 510-516 Hill Street were made yesterday in City Hall as representatives of city and county officials met with the owner of the property.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech, head of the City Health Board, presided at the session, when reports on the condition of the properties were presented.

After hearing reports that the properties are not repairable and are a menace to the safety and health of the community, Mayor Keech recommended against a time extension after the five-day notice period expires.

Carl E. Wilson, 236 Miller Street, Turtle Creek, Pa., owner of the properties, attended with Charles O. Cook, this city.

Mr. Wilson said he purchased the properties nearly four years ago and questioned why they had not been torn down if they were condemned in 1947.

He admitted the condition of the properties but said the people are "not mine but Cumberland's," saying, "I inherited this mess and want it understood it does not reflect on my character."

He apparently referred to a statement by J. Byron Dowling, Health Department sanitarian, that new housing regulations here make the property owner responsible not only for the upkeep of dwellings but also the actions of tenants.

Mayor Keech said he had heard promises from the property owner in 1958 that repairs would be made. He suggested that efforts be made to find quarters for tenants after reporting he favored immediate demolition of the properties.

Mr. Cook said that if the health board would allow it, he and Mr. Wilson would repair one unit which could be inspected to indicate what could be done.

Fire Chief Virgil Parker reported the properties have been a source of trouble for 15 years and the Fire Department inspector, John E. Trost, said that if the buildings are allowed to stand the Fire Department cannot be responsible.

There are 10 apartments in the five dwellings which provide quarters for 48 persons, including 31 children.

Beall Proposes Monument To Washington

Sen. J. Glenn Beall yesterday introduced a bill in the Senate calling for erection of a monument to George Washington on the site of old Fort Cumberland.

The bill is identical to one introduced by Sen. Beall in the 86th Congress. That one died in committee, but Sen. Beall hopes the 87th Congress will pass the new measure.

Noting that the history of Fort Cumberland is interwoven with the life history of the first President, the Senator said:

"It was while Washington was stationed at Fort Cumberland that he ran for his first elective office, member of the Virginia House of Burgesses.

"It had been requested that Fort Cumberland be reconstructed as a historical park. Instead, I think that a suitable statue of Washington on this site would serve the same purpose and would be less expensive.

"It is my understanding that Allegany County, which owns the land, would provide a suitable base for the statue."

Washington came here as a young man of 22 during the French and Indian War (1753-55) to serve as a militia officer under General Edward Braddock.

Van Horn Paroled

BALTIMORE (AP) — Robert Jett Van Horn, sentenced to 10 years imprisonment in the slaying of his wife in 1957, has been paroled from the Maryland Penitentiary.

The Department of Parole and Probation announced Tuesday the 57-year-old former lumber company president was among 67 persons paroled from state prisons last month.

Van Horn left the penitentiary Dec. 5 after serving a third of his sentence. He will be on parole until the sentence ends in 1967. Van Horn is formerly of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Mrs. Bernice W. F. Van Horn, Baltimore County society matron, was found beaten to death June 1, 1957. Van Horn was convicted of manslaughter in December of that year.

A dispute involving Mrs. Van Horn's $800,000 estate was settled out of court in 1959 and Van Horn got none of the money.

Coach Asked To Speak

Charles Lattimer, football coach at Fort Hill High School has been invited to be guest speaker at the weekly dinner meeting of the Bedford Road Optimist Club today at 6:30 p. m. at McGee's Restaurant.

Judge Cobey Reverses Case

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey yesterday reversed a decision of Frostburg Trial Magistrate Frank R. Kelly and awarded Alva Lewis, 315 East Main Street, Frostburg, a $34.20 verdict in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Lewis had filed the suit for $38 last August 1 against Thomas Newman, Mt. Savage. Mr. Newman had obtained automobile insurance from another company and did not notify Mr. Lewis that he was not accepting the policy from him.

John C. Sullivan, Mr. Lewis' attorney, argued that Mr. Newman had a duty to notify Mr. Lewis of the non-acceptance of the policy. The $34.20 represented a six-month premium on the policy. Magistrate Kelly had found for Mr. Newman and Mr. Lewis appealed the decision of September 10.

Juvenile Charge Filed By Trooper

An 18-year-old Romney youth held for the theft of money from a business establishment in that Hampshire County community was arrested on a charge filed by Sgt. Charles S. Burke, head of the Romney detachment of West Virginia State Police.

The Cumberland News in last Friday's edition incorrectly stated that the charge was filed by Mr. and Mrs. John S. Williams of Romney.

Swimming Course For Youngsters Scheduled At 'Y'

A swimming class for youngsters from five to eight years of age will begin on Monday, January 23 at 4 p. m. at Central YMCA.

The course will be taught every Monday and Tuesday from 4 to 5 p. m. January 23 through February 14, a total of eight one-hour classes.

The class is limited to 20 enrollees and all fees are payable in advance. Two instructors will conduct each class and parents are invited to watch from the pool bleachers.

Robert M. Williams, general secretary at the Y, will assist with the new classes.

Hospital Alumni To Meet Today

The Sacred Heart Hospital Alumni Association will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the Bellevue Street Nurses Home. Mrs. Catherine Murray will preside.

Officers will be installed and yearly reports will be given. A talk and demonstration on the use of humidifiers in oxygen therapy will be given by Gene L. Gauch and Carl Winters.

All graduate nurses are urged to attend. A social hour will follow.

Condemnation Seeks Tract For College

A condemnation suit has been filed by the State Board of Education in Allegany County Circuit Court over four lots on Park Avenue in Frostburg which are needed for the expansion of Frostburg State Teachers College.

This property is improved by two gasoline pumps and a small one-story frame building used in connection with a gasoline station business. This business was operated jointly by Emerson E. Thomas and Ralph W. Thomas, until the latter died in January 1943.

As a consequence of Ralph Thomas' death without leaving a will, this condemnation suit is brought against the known heirs of Ralph, the known heirs of his father, John Morgan Thomas and any unknown heirs of the latter.

The State Board of Education contends that it is unable to make any agreement to purchase their respective rights in the property because the demands made by the defendants are considered excessive and unreasonable by the board.

A legal notice will be published warning non-resident defendants and any unknown defendants to appear in court here on or before March 17 to show cause why their property should not be condemned.

Keech And Ullery To Represent City At Conference

Mayor J. Edwin Keech and City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery will attend a meeting sponsored by the Maryland Municipal League in Annapolis January 17 at 7 p. m.

It will be a joint meeting of the League's Council, of which Mayor Keech is a vice president, and the unit's legislative committee, of which Mr. Ullery is a member.

The League's legislative program and policies will be discussed at the session.

Optimists Meet Today

The Optimist Club of Cumberland will meet today at 6:15 p. m. in Central YMCA for their weekly dinner program.

Job Steward Course Begins

A training course for Ridgeley and Cumberland shop stewards of Local 307, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Union, AFL-CIO, has been instituted here.

The Short Course in Steward Training is being co-sponsored by Local 307 and the Labor Education Service of West Virginia University.

Classes began January 6 in the Allegany Labor Temple with 20 Local 307 stewards attending. The last of the eight sessions will be held April 21.

Stanley M. Hostler, a member of the staff of the W.V.U. Extension Division, is instructor.

Plans for the training are under the direction of George W. Lucas, business agent, who with Fred Sullivan, Darrell Diehl and Charles Finkenbinder comprise the Local 307 steward training committee.

Miss Edna Appel, 306 Pulaski Street, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon after she sustained a fractured left knee when she fell in the yard at her home, attaches said.

Ridgeley Fire Unit Officers Installed

First Permit For New House In 1961 Issued

Winter weather is not conducive to new construction, and only two building permits have been issued in the first 10 days of the new year by James G. Stevenson, clerk to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Yesterday's permit was the first for a new dwelling in 1961. Lewis M. Twigg, 74, Eleanor Street, LaVale, got the permit to build a 36.4 by 26.4 foot frame dwelling for $10,000 on Eleanor Street in Election District 29.

The first permit issued this month was for a $200 garage to be built in Election District 5.

Castro Soon May Say U.S. "Scared Off"

Cuba Coast Defenders Grow Weary

HAVANA (AP)—The novelty of watching for an enemy that never comes seemed wearing thin among Cubans Tuesday. There were signs Fidel Castro may soon announce the strength of his people's army has frightened off American aggressors.

Cuban propaganda outlets continued to assert that the United States plans to invade this island nation before President Eisenhower turns over the White House to President-elect John F. Kennedy on Jan. 20.

Castro-controlled papers used big headlines to denounce U.S. Navy maneuvers in the Caribbean and a visit of the supercarrier Franklin D. Roosevelt to the U.S. base on Guantanamo Bay.

Revolucion charged that Americans have mined the bay.

That charge was denied by a U.S. Navy spokesman in Washington. He said travel through the base to Cuban docks at the head of the bay must remain unrestricted under terms of a 1903 treaty.

Guatemala Buildup Charged

The newspaper repeatedly cited alleged American-financed war preparations in Guatemala, 700 miles away across the Caribbean, as proof of Washington plans to attack.

But activity in Cuba's defense preparations, which have placed all Cuba under virtual martial law since Dec. 31, appeared to be dwindling.

Heavy rain and a cold north wind contributed to this.

Cuban labor organizations—in the forefront of the workers militia — arranged for a massive demonstration before the presidential palace Friday night.

It is logical to suppose Castro will address the mass meeting. Many believe he will choose that time to announce that the potential invaders have been scared off by Cuba's massive demonstration of armed strength.

Where's Castro?

The whereabouts of the prime minister were undetermined. Some sources said he had left Havana—possibly for a closer look at the situation around Guantanamo Bay.

The Cuban News Agency said in a dispatch from San Juan, Puerto Rico, that more than 100 anti-Castro Cubans have taken refuge under the American flag at the Guantanamo base and some are being flown to Puerto Rico.

There were indications part of the thousands of militiamen Castro has called up since the year-end are returning to their jobs in the factories and on the farms.

More and more of Castro's regular army soldiers are appearing in Havana. Some are relieving militiamen.

Ike Tells Nehru U.S. Is Seeking Laos Solution

Soviet Ambassador Meets With Herter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower has written India's Jawaharlal Nehru that the United States is seeking a peaceful solution in Laos which would guarantee the kingdom's independence against outside intervention, authoritative sources said Tuesday.

News of the President's letter to the Indian prime minister came shortly after Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov conferred on Laos for nearly 40 minutes with Secretary of State Christian Herter.

Menshikov, whose government is aiding Communist-led forces in Laos, sought the interview. A State Department spokesman said that while no Russian note was presented, the ambassador discussed Laos from the Kremlin's viewpoint.

Both India and Russia have been seeking revival of the old three-power International Control Commission as one means of settling the Laotian civil war. India, Canada and Poland are members of the Commission, established in 1954 to police the Indochinese armistice.

Eisenhower's letter to Nehru may have been inspired by the fact that the Indian leader has taken the initiative in trying to get some sort of international body to begin work on a Laotian settlement.

The President reportedly reaffirmed U.S. determination to work for a peaceful solution under circumstances which would guarantee Laotian independence and sovereignty against intervention and aggression from any outside source.

Eisenhower also is believed to have reassured Nehru there is no truth to Communist charges the U.S. government is trying to establish a military base in Laos and pull the small kingdom into a Western defense alliance.

The letter coincided with stepped-up consultations between the United States and its allies in an effort to find a way to stabilize the Laotian situation.

Worker Killed By Tank Blast

BALTIMORE (AP)—One workman was killed and four others were injured Tuesday when an explosion shredded one of several underground storage tanks at the Leidy Chemical Corp.

The body of Richard Mason, 30, Negro, was uncovered more than an hour after the blast. It was found in the tank where he had been using sand-blasting equipment.

Four co-workers were admitted to nearby hospitals with minor head injuries.

According to police, William Bauer, 31, of Ferndale, was welding above Mason when a spark apparently came in contact with undetermined chemical vapors and touched off the blast.

Two of the other workers were hurled some 20 feet in the air along with debris and drums of acid.

Mansfield Acts To Halt Senate Rules Hassle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic leader Mike Mansfield moved late Tuesday to halt the Senate battle over filibuster rules on grounds that it might endanger enactment of the Kennedy legislative program.

Mansfield requested that the issue, aimed at tightening anti-filibuster rules, be sent to the Senate Rules Committee. He pledged that the group would bring back a recommended change later in the session.

The Senate finally recessed for the night, however, without reaching agreement on when to vote on Mansfield's proposals. Several attempts to fix a time ranging from Wednesday to Friday were blocked by individual objections.

Mansfield, newly - designated chairman of the Rules Committee called the current debate "petty, time consuming, emotion - filled and disruptive."

He urged the Senate to adopt his proposal and clear the decks for early action on President-elect John F. Kennedy's program. Otherwise, he said, "that program might be in danger."

Mansfield immediately ran into opposition from Republican and Democratic liberals, but received support from Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill.

Mansfield's move came after a week of inconclusive debate.

The senator said both he and Dirksen would support a plan to let three-fifths of all senators present and voting limit debate instead of the presently required two-thirds.

Mansfield also promised he would do everything possible to see that the Rules Committee reported a change — probably the three-fifths plan—as soon as possible.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., argued that such a proposal still would confront the Senate with a filibuster against the rules change, possibly such as the one on civil rights which tied up the chamber for weeks last year.

McNamara Planning $1½ Million Trust

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators reported Tuesday that Robert S. McNamara, 44, millionaire designated as the new secretary of defense, proposes to put more than $1½ million into a trust outside his control while he holds office.

He proposed that way of handling the money he received last month for selling his 24,705 shares of stock in the Ford Motor Co. of which he was president when he was picked by President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Marylander, $8,000 In Phony Bills Seized

WASHINGTON (AP)—Morris E. Anglin Jr., 30, of Hyattsville, Md., was arrested in a nearby Virginia motel by Secret Service agents Tuesday and charged with passing counterfeit $20 bills.

The Secret Service said Anglin had $8,000 in phony bills on him when he was arrested.

Agents declined to identify the motel or a woman they said was with Anglin at the time of the arrest.

Guatemala Troops Train For Guerrilla Warfare

GUATEMALA (AP) — Detachments of Guatemala's regular army are getting intensive guerrilla tactical training at Retalhuleu near the Pacific Coast of Guatemala, the Defense Minstry said Tuesday.

U. S. officers are at the Retalhuleu base in their normal roles as Guatemalan army advisors, Defense Minister Enrique Peralta Azurdia said.

He denied the base is being used to train guerrilla fighters against the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba.

"There are no aggressive intentions in connection with the activities at Retalhuleu," he said. "They are just routine activities by the Guatemalan army.

"In connection with the presence of U. S. officers, it should be remembered that American military and air missions are in Guatemala and normally give valuable advice to our army."

He was commenting on a New York Times dispatch saying the United States is supplying Guatemala with training personnel, material and other assistance in the preparation of a commando-type force for a possible clash with Cuba.

The State Department at Washington declined comment, but its press officer, Lincoln White, said: "The United States under the inter-American defense system is helping practically every Latin-American country excepting, of course, Cuba and the Dominican Republic."

Fowler, Duke Get Kennedy Appointments

President-Elect Flies To Florida After Busy Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy Tuesday night appointed Washington attorney Henry H. Fowler as an undersecretary of the Treasury and diplomat Angier Biddle Duke as the State Department's chief of protocol.

The appointments were announced shortly before Kennedy flew to his pre-inaugural retreat at Palm Beach, Fla., after a furious round of conferences in New York and Washington. It was one of his busiest post-election days to date.

The president - elect also received a "highly informative" report on the space program and a task force recommendation that he broaden still further his plan for linking medical care for the aged to the Social Security system.

Kennedy tackled the balance of payments problem at a conference with Robert B. Anderson, outgoing Treasury secretary, Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla. They also discussed money problems involved in space projects.

Worked With TVA

Fowler, 52, will bring to his Treasury post a wealth of experience in government jobs. A native of Roanoke, Va., he is a former attorney for the Tennessee Valley Authority, a one - time head of the National Production Authority and, as a former defense mobilizer, was a member of the National Security Council.

Duke, 45, a career foreign service officer, is president of the Council on Inter - American Affairs and a member of the New York City Executive Committee for the United Nations. He has held State Department posts in Washington, Argentina and Spain.

Kennedy also appointed Arthur Sylvester, Washington correspondent of the Newark, N.J., Evening News, as assistant secretary of defense for public affairs. John Moore of Philadelphia, vice president of the University of Pennsylvania, was named head of the General Services Administration, the government's housekeeping agency. Bernard L. Boutin, Laconia, N.H., unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor of New Hampshire last year, was appointed deputy administrator of the agency.

Would Expand Care

The medical care report was submitted to Kennedy by a task force headed by Dr. Wilber J. Cohen of the University of Michigan. It proposed an expanded health plan that would cover 14.5 million persons at an annual cost of about $1 billion.

The task force proposal would go considerably further than the bill sponsored by Kennedy in the Senate last year. But Dr. Cohen declared it did not represent a step toward "socialized medicine."

Kennedy said the space report, which will be made public on Wednesday, was a "highly informative working paper covering many aspects of this critically important field." He said it would be useful to him and Johnson in shaping their space program.

Former Pentagon Employe Indicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Arthur R. Roddey, 38 - year - old former Pentagon statistician was indicted under the federal espionage laws Friday on charges of stealing some 200 secret Defense Department documents dealing with missile warfare.

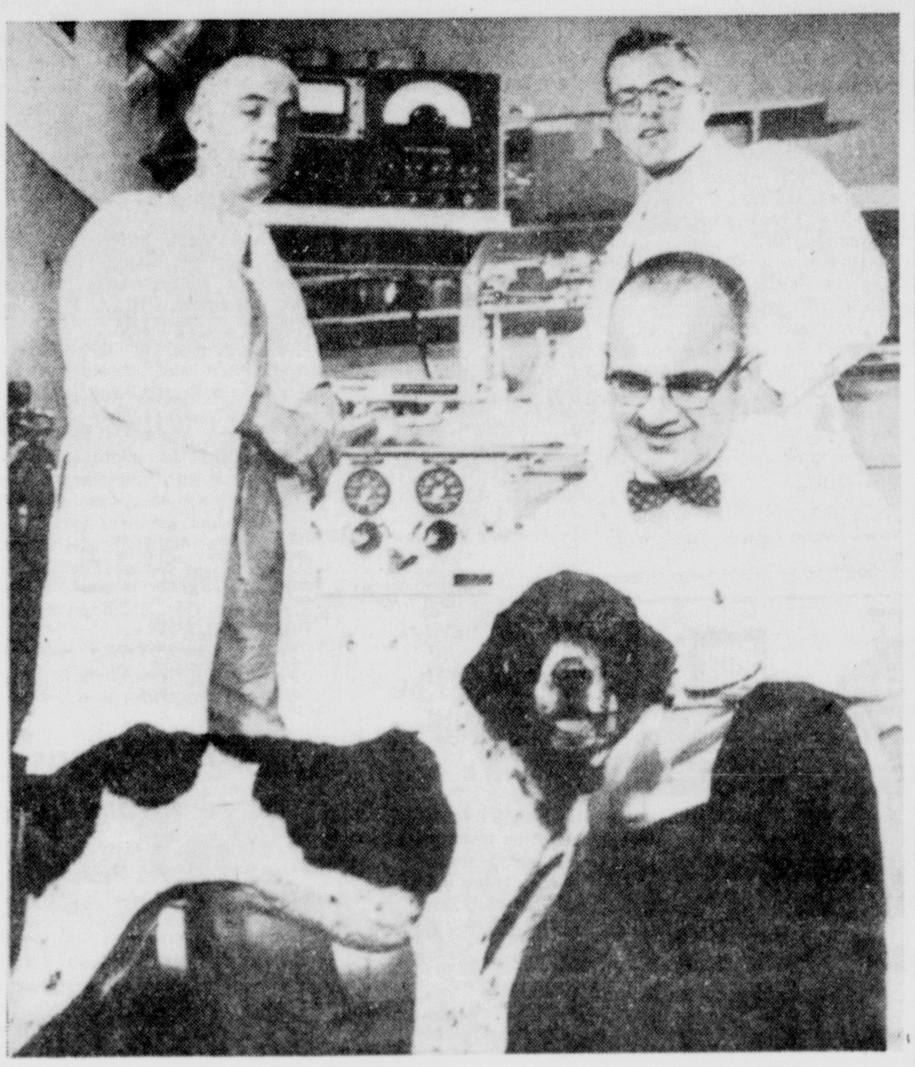

A federal grand jury at nearby Alexandria Va., handed down a 12 - count indictment charging Roddey with illegal possession of documents which "could be used to the advantage of a foreign nation."

However, Roddey was not charged with spying or turning over the documents to a foreign power.

Roddey was discharged from his job at the Defense Department last August. FBI agents discovered the missing papers, which bore security classifications ranging from top secret to confidential, in his Falls Church, Va., home last September.

Haiti Closes Catholic Paper, Ousts Prelate

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The Haitian government, renewing its conflict with the Roman Catholic Church, Tuesday closed a church newspaper, deported the nation's highest ranking church authority, and ordered four other priests expelled.

Police put the Most Rev. Remy Augustin aboard an Argentina-bound plane after holding him under house arrest 14 hours.

Bishop Augustin, the second prelate to be expelled, had been arrested in bed and was not even allowed to take along a dental plate.

The government later issued a decree for expulsion of four priests rounded up earlier in the day. They are Fathers Paul Bellec, vicar general of the archbishopric; Francois le Nir, its general secretary; Jean Baptiste Bettebourg, rector of Saint Martial, Port au Prince's largest Catholic high school; and Emile Callec.

Bishop Augustin, Haitian-born, had been running church affairs in this French-speaking Negro republic since President Francois Duvalier expelled a French-born primate, Archbishop Francois Poirier.

Deportation of the archbishop seven weeks ago drew a sharp official protest from the Vatican and almost certainly exposed the Haitians involved to excommunication. Excommunication means denial of the church sacraments and loss of fellowship with other Catholics.

Duvalier is a Catholic. So are most other Haitians.

The government is still trying to crush a university student strike movement begun last fall in protest at the jailing of a student leader suspected of being a Communist. This strike was a factor in the action against both the church leaders.

Hemingway Clinic Patient Since Nov. 30

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Author Ernest Hemingway has been a patient at the Mayo Clinic here since Nov. 30, clinic spokesmen said in answer to a query Tuesday.

The spokesman said Hemingway would not permit the nature of his illness to be disclosed. He is expected to be released in 10 days to two weeks.

The bearded writer traveled here under an assumed name, it was learned.

Cops Will Gun For "Loiterers"

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Police have warned that they will go gunning for loiterers at the public square in downtown Hagerstown, starting at dusk Thursday.

Motorists traveling busy U. S. 40 through town will get a closeup view of the posse in action.

Police and the city engineering department decided on a course of action after local citizens petitioned the mayor and City Council about the problem.

Police will fire blanks from shotguns into the air in an attempt to chase thousands of starlings from buildings and overhead wires.

Sleuth Fiction Writer Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Dashiell Hammett, 66, who deserted the ranks of private eyes to found the hard-boiled, wise-cracking school of American detective fiction, died Tuesday of a lung ailment.

He had been ill for four years and in a hospital for the last two months. He did little writing in recent years.

Hammett's best known works were "The Maltese Falcon" and "The Thin Man," in the early 1930s. Both were adapted to the movies, the latter in a memorable series that starred Myrna Loy and William Powell.

About 10 years ago, Hammett fell afoul of anti-Communist investigators. He was sent to prison for six months in 1951 for contempt, growing out of his refusal to tell where the Communist party got bail money for a quartet of fugitive party leaders.

Hammett at the time was chairman of the bail fund of the Civil Rights Congress—an outfit labeled Communist and subversive by the attorney general's office.

Kennedy And Nixon Pay Tribute To Eisenhower

NEW YORK (AP) — John F. Kennedy, the man who won, and Richard M. Nixon, the man who lost, paid tribute Tuesday to the man whom they both wanted to succeed, President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

President-elect Kennedy paid tribute to "the grace and the courtesy with which power has been moved from the Eisenhower administration to the new Democratic administration."

Nixon, retiring Republican vice president, spoke of "the opportunity to be in the presence of and to work with and under a truly great man."

The occasion was a special NBC-TV program, "Tribute to a Patriot," a series of filmed tributes to the outgoing President.

Nixon originally had declined to take part in the program, on grounds he was previously committed at the time he was due to tape his tribute. He also contended that in deference to Kennedy he wanted to stay off television for the time being. He changed his mind, however, and told a New York audience on the program:

"I have seen President Eisenhower make many hard decisions—decisions that could have meant the difference, for example between war and peace for America—and they have been right.

"But the hardest decisions that any leader in a free country has to make are those in which he must decide between doing what is right, but possibly unpopular, and doing something that might be more popular from a personal standpoint."

Eisenhower's Final Budget 'Non-Political'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's final federal budget, which goes to Congress on Monday, will be a balanced, non-political one, Republican congressional leaders said Tuesday.

But they added that some of the spending recommendations made to President-elect John F. Kennedy by his various "task forces" could throw the new budget into the red, if adopted.

The GOP leaders, speaking to newsmen after their final weekly meeting with Eisenhower, said also that the government will end up in the black during the current fiscal year—which the administration has been predicting all along.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the Senate and House GOP leaders, said the meeting of more than two hours with Eisenhower was devoted largely to the budget.

The budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1 is the one Eisenhower will send to Congress four days before he turns over the reins of government to Kennedy.

"It is a balanced budget. It is a constructive budget. This budget would be the same if Dwight Eisenhower were to continue in office," Dirksen said.

"It is not an expedient budget, not an opportunist budget, not a political budget. It is a forward-looking constructive governmental operation."

Dirksen said Eisenhower will again stress the necessity for living within revenues. The GOP leaders said the budget provides for projects that are necessary for the national well-being yet will "keep our fiscal house in order by living within our revenues."

State Takes Case To High Court, Loses

Negroes Register After Judge Bars Closing Of School

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A Negro boy and girl became students at the University of Georgia Tuesday, crumbling a segregation wall that had been impregnable since founding of the school in 1785.

Charlayne A. Hunter, 18, and Hamilton E. Holmes, 19, paid their tuition fees to the university treasurer, J. D. Bolton, at Athens, Ga., and will enter classes Wednesday morning under protection of federal court orders.

They completed their registration three hours after Federal Dist. Judge William A. Bootle granted a temporary injunction at Macon, Ga., restraining Gov. Ernest Vandiver from cutting off funds under a state law and closing the school where the governor obtained his law degree.

The state received another telling blow late Tuesday afternoon when the U. S. Supreme Court unanimously refused to delay the admittance of the Negroes.

At Athens, Miss Hunter was assigned a room in Center Myers Hall under a university rule requiring freshman women to live on campus.

White Girls In Tears

A number of white girls left the dormitory in tears and walked around the building, weeping. One packed her suitcase and set it out on the sidewalk and another was seen carrying armloads of clothing from the dormitory.

There was no fanfare as the Negroes officially became students. Some 500 of the nearly 7,500 white boys and girls in attendance at Georgia stood quietly outside the treasurer's office as the fees were paid.

Bootle, 58, who precipitated near pandemonium in state political circles last Friday by ordering desegregation, enjoined both the governor and State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. from interfering with operation of the university.

Vandiver, 42, lashed back in a stinging telegram to Bootle protesting his order but saying "my respect for lawful processes and my oath as governor preclude any act of defiance on my part."

Miss Hunter and Holmes slipped into the administration building through a rear door to complete admission procedures. She will study journalism. He will continue premedical courses and plans to transfer later to the university Medical School at Augusta, Ga.

Bootle scheduled a hearing for Thursday at Macon on making the injunction permanent. Capitol sources speculated such an action would void the present state appropriations law which says tax funds can't be used to operate an integrated school.

Vandiver's Hands Tied

Vandiver's announcement Monday night that the university would be closed if the Negroes enrolled sent attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on their hurried mission to Macon, 100 miles south of Atlanta.

The governor's plan was to rush through the legislature a repeal of the appropriations law clause about cutting off funds. He emphasized he would not consider closing the school for more than a few days.

Miss Hunter and Holmes completed Monday all details of registration except payment of tuition fees, but didn't appear on the campus Tuesday morning. Classes proceeded and Vandiver withheld signing an order cutting off funds.

"I haven't signed the paper yet but I will as soon as they enter the classrooms," the governor said.

But that was before Bootle issued his restraining order shortly after noon. That brought Vandiver within the realm of legal contempt of a federal court if he lifted a hand.

Brother Confirms Dooley Has Cancer

NEW YORK (AP)—Cancer discovered in Dr. Thomas Dooley's chest wall in 1959 has recurred, his brother, Malcolm, said Tuesday.

Dr. Dooley, jungle physician in Laos, has been undergoing analytical examinations at Memorial Hospital for the last 15 days. He was operated upon at the hospital originally.

SS Health Care Backed By Conference On Aging

WASHINGTON (AP)—Backers of medical care for the aged tied to the Social Security program won out by a slim margin Tuesday in preliminary voting at the White House conference on aging.

Seven discussion groups, considering the problem of financing health programs for the aged, voted 96-77 in favor of making use of the Social Security system. Each group voted separately.

Although the margin was narrow, the vote was considered particularly significant because of charges before the conference that it had been stacked by delegates opposed to the Social Security approach to medical care.

It appeared from the vote, too, that this majority view would be included as one of the policy statements that will come out of the four-day conference.

A final vote by the section charged with considering the problem of financing medical care is due Wednesday.

The action of the seven work groups was summed up by section chairman Charles I. Schottland of Brandeis University. He said:

1. Various approaches also were suggested for improving medical health services for the aged, including promotion of voluntary methods, private insurance and group insurance.

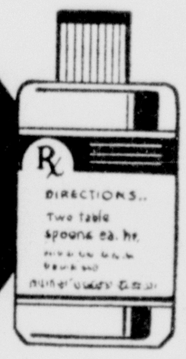

2. Extension of public assistance was advocated to help with health care for the needy.

3. There was general agreement on a need for more adequate provision of medical care for the aged. This requires a variety of approaches, including the promotion of various methods—savings, private insurance, group health programs.

Paris-Algeria Peace Parley Expected Soon

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Peace negotiations between France and the Algerian rebel government are expected soon, high French officials said Tuesday.

These officials said secret contacts between envoys of the French government and the rebels may begin in a matter of weeks to be followed by full negotiations.

The move would follow the Sunday referendum that approved President Charles de Gaulle's handling of the thorny Algerian problem.

But there was no outward sign of a move by either camp.

De Gaulle went ahead in Paris with his plans for giving Algeria virtual self-government at home.

Rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas consulted his Cabinet in exile at Tunis. His spokesman said the referendum result was not on the agenda "because it does not really concern us."

But, behind the apparent indifference on both sides, there was a general feeling that things would soon be moving.

The French government apparently hopes that the rebels will agree to a compromise to end the six-year-old rebellion.

De Gaulle's plan is to establish an Algerian executive some time this spring as an intermediate step before a final vote on self-determination.

Baltimore Papers Plan $6 Million Plant

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore News-Post and Sunday American Tuesday announced completion of plans for a $6 million plant to house the newspapers.

J. D. Gortatowsky, chairman of the board of the Hearst Consolidated Corp., said the new plant "will utilize our present real property and additional land we have acquired since the announcement of our plans in 1958."

The construction is scheduled to start soon, with the new building to be completed in the spring of 1962.

State's Dignity At Stake So "Hot Dog" Must Go

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The question of what to do about the nickname of Lloyd Simpkins, the new secretary of state, was before the Maryland House of Delegates Tuesday.

Simpkins, who will be sworn into office Friday, has been known as "Hot Dog" to all and sundry even while serving as executive secretary to Gov. Tawes.

Simpkins picked up the nickname as a boy, when he sold hot dogs to baseball fans at games in Somerset County.

Del. Jerome Robinson, D-Balto 4th, thought a Salisbury Times editorial aptly described the situation and he read it to the House.

"It was not too incongruous to address a member of Maryland's House of Delegates as Hot Dog," read the editorial. "Everyone else did."

"And when, under his friend and neighbor Millard Tawes, he became administrative assistant to the governor, or as his fellow Somerset countians would say, assistant governor, the nickname was only slightly inappropriate and he was addressed 'Hot Dog' as frequently as he was 'Lloyd.'

"Now, at the age of 38 the nickname must be outgrown. It was not too inappropriate for a schoolboy, a graduate of the University of Maryland School of Agriculture, or the University's School of Law, a practicing attorney, astute politician, member of the House or even top aide to the governor of Maryland.

"But come Friday when he takes the oath of office, as far as we are concerned, it will be the Hon. Lloyd L. Simpkins, secretary of state of the Free State of Maryland.

"It's going to be hard for friends, Marylanders by the thousands, to start mistering Mr. Simpkins. And no doubt he will be a bit selfconscious about it.

"But he is a capable young man who has achieved high office in a remarkably few years and we say, congratulations, Mr. Simpkins, and we do mean you, 'Hot Dog'."

Prisoners' Pleas Have Informality

BALTIMORE (AP) — How informal can a prisoner's appeal get?

That was a likely question for U.S. District Court Clerk Wilfred W. Butschky to ask himself Tuesday, when his office received a couple of remarkable specimens.

One was scrawled on the back of an envelope, the other on the white side of an opened cigaret package.

The appeals were from two Washington Negroes each sentenced to six months imprisonment, Phillip D. Davis, 23, and Kiser Harris Jr., 24. When tried by U.S. Commissioner Samuel W. H. Meloy Jan. 4 in Upper Marlboro, they pleaded guilty to unlawfully entering Ft. Meade Dec 23 for purposes of larceny.

Butschky said the notes did not meet all requirements but would be considered valid, anyway, and set for hearings before a federal judge.

Soldier Ordered Held For Car Theft

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Municipal Judge Forrest B. Wall Tuesday ordered Pvt. Robert G. McNeer, 18, a soldier stationed at Ft. Eustis, held for grand jury action on an auto theft charge.

McNeer was arrested by city police Monday shortly after his release by authorities in Maryland and his return to Ft. Eustis. He and another Ft. Eustis soldier, Pvt. Court D. Tennyson, were arrested by Maryland police Jan. 1 after a high speed chase on the Baltimore - Washington Expressway during which police said they fired 17 shots at the car occupied by the pair.

Tennyson is held by federal authorities in Maryland on a charge of transporting a stolen vehicle across state lines.

The car was stolen here Jan. 1.

Alleged Spies Jailed In Cuba

HAVANA (UPI) — The Cuban government Tuesday sentenced three Americans to 10-year jail terms on charges of espionage and ordered a fourth departed.

The men convicted and sentenced were Edmund K. Taranske of New York City; Daniel L. Carswell, 42, East Chester, N.Y., and Eustice Dan Brunet, 34, of Baltimore. The fourth man, Mario Nordio, an Italian-born American from New York who was formerly a dance instructor at the Havana Riviera Hotel, was deported.

The group was arrested last Sept. 15 along with a U.S. Embassy secretary, Marjorie Lennox of San Francisco, and accused of "spying" on the activities of the Communist New China news agency, Hsinhua.

Intruder Knocks Out Mechanic, Rapes Wife

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 56-year-old mechanic and his wife awoke in their downtown Baltimore apartment early Tuesday to see a tall Negro standing at the foot of their bed.

As the mechanic got up from the bed, he was beaten unconscious with a frying pan. The intruder then raped the mechanic's 51-year-old wife and fell asleep on the bed.

He was still sleeping when police arrested him. The 29-year-old resident of suburban Glen Burnie was held without charge for questioning.

Police said the wife was so terrified she lay motionless for an hour after the attack until her husband regained consciousness. The husband was taken to City Hospitals with a possible skull fracture.

Controversial Fuel Study Bill Reintroduced

WASHINGTON (AP)—The controversial proposal for creation of a congressional Fuels Study Committee has been reintroduced in Congress.

Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd, West Virginia Democrats, along with 25 other senators, have introduced a resolution in the Senate calling for establishment of a Senate-House committee on a national fuels study.

Randolph told the Senate in submitting the proposal Monday that the resolution does not seek to legislate for or against any fuel or any segment of the economy. It would simply enable Congress to obtain information he said. Recommendations and findings would be submitted to congressional committees.

"It would be my hope," Randolph said, "that out of this data a national fuels policy might appropriately be formulated and considered for congressional enactment."

The proposed joint committee would report its findings not later than Jan. 1, 1963, then go out of existence.

Legislation to create a national Fuels Study Committee last year reached the House Rules Committee, where it failed to obtain clearance for House action by a tie vote of the committee.

Opponents contended it was sponsored primarily by coal interests and that it would be an opening move to obtain a policy under which consumers would be told what type of fuel they could use.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mrs. Arthur G. Thompkins has been named director of nursing at Union Memorial Hospital here.

Mrs. Thompson was chairman of the Department of Diploma and Associate Degree Programs of the Maryland League for Nursing from 1958-60, and formerly educational director of the hospital's School of Nursing.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A University Hospital spokesman Tuesday said the condition of Sen. Joseph A. Bertorelli, who suffered a stroke Saturday, is "improving, but still considered serious."

Bertorelli, 49, D-Balto 1st, was stricken after attending a luncheon with former mayor Thomas D'Alesandro Jr. and other Democratic leaders at a downtown Baltimore hotel.

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Hunting violations have cost 11 sportsmen $541.50 in forfeited collateral in Magistrate's Court here.

The charges involved shooting over bait, exceeding the bag limit, improper licenses and the shooting of canvasback ducks in closed season.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — A Baltimore County Republican group is urging that members of the County Council be elected by district instead of on a countywide basis.

Income-Boosting Bills Are Reviewed

A number of bills in the Senate and House at the General Assembly were discussed yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The commissioners will recommend passage of Senate Bill 72 which would provide that personal property taxes which are paid by utilities in the county where their home office is located will be paid within the county where the personal property is located.

This would affect the C&P Telephone Company, which pays personal property taxes in Baltimore City, and the Potomac Edison Company, which pays these taxes in Frederick County. Commissioner John T. Mason said that personal property of the two utilities in Allegany County is taxed in the two home office areas of Frederick and Baltimore City.

No mention was made as to the amount which would be realized by Allegany County if the measure is passed in the Legislature.

Another proposed piece of legislation would limit the amount a county could expend for public welfare to 10 cents per $100 of assessed property. Commissioner Mason said this would save the county approximately $40,000 annually.

Another Senate measure would eliminate the various counties from payment of the $180 annual fee for each inmate of a state training school. The commissioners, of course, are in favor of this measure.

Commissioner Mason said another bill which would provide for a survey by the State Department of Taxation and Assessment every two years, starting in 1962, to determine the relationship between assessed value of property and true market value in each of the counties has been proposed. This is also favored by the commissioners.

Snow Removal Work Praised By Firemen

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners received a letter of commendation yesterday from the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association for the snow removal work during the past month by the Allegany County Roads Department.

Cromwell C. Zembower, secretary of the association, said the snow removal by the county road crews assisted the various fire companies in maneuvering trucks in answering fire alarms.

Conference Is Planned

Gov. J. Millard Tawes yesterday informed John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, that he will meet with the county commissioners Thursday at 3:30 p. m. to discuss the Pinto bridge.

Rowan had written the governor recently asking for a meeting at which a proposed new bridge across the Potomac River at Pinto could be discussed.

Commissioner John T. Masson said he understands that the federal government would pay the bulk of any cost of a new bridge under the provision of providing access roads into a defense industry.

Bid For Two Trucks Accepted By Board

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday accepted the Light and Decker Company bid of $12,200 to provide two heavy duty trucks for the Roads Department.

Action was taken after Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, and Melvin Robinette, master mechanic, recommended the firm's International trucks be purchased. Skelly said the firm met all specifications and that the vehicles provided quick attachment of snow plows.

Only two bids were received for providing electric lighting in a room in the Court House basement which will be used by the County Planning Commission and County Sanitary Commission for meetings.

The bids will be checked for specifications by Commissioner John T. Mason, who is in charge of the county buildings. The bids were made by Sterling Electric Company and Queen City Electric Company.

Three Persons, Hurt In Crash, Improving

WESTERNPORT—Mrs. Marlene (DeVore) Jose, of 318 Maryland Avenue, yesterday was reported to be in "fair" condition at Miners Hospital where she and her two young daughters were admitted Saturday with injuries sustained in a one-car accident on the outskirts of Lonaconing on U. S. Route 36.

Her children, Nancy, aged four, was discharged Monday, and Denise Ann, aged six, is reported in "good" condition at the hospital.

The accident, which occurred at 12:25 p. m. Saturday, reportedly was caused when one of the girls distracted Mrs. Jose, who was driving the vehicle. The auto crashed into a utility pole.

Many Asiatics believe the horn of the Indian rhinoceros has wonderous powers for solving almost any problem, mental or physical.

Unusual Auto Case Heard By Judge Harris

A car that ran away driverless down a hill, around a curve and hit a parked auto figured in a court suit heard yesterday by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in his chambers in the Court House.

The case was a civil appeal entitled Charles Hout vs. Robert Sperry and Charles Winters. All the principals are from Frostburg.

Testimony showed that Winters moved Sperry's car to a parking place on Chestnut Street in Frostburg.

After standing still for two and one-half hours, the driverless car suddenly started drifting downhill, went around a curve and on to Linden Street.

There the Sperry vehicle crashed into the parked car owned by Hout.

The judge ruled that both defendants were liable and ordered them to pay $268 for repairing the car plus another $80 to compensate Hout for the loss of the vehicle during the time it was being repaired.

FCC Seeks Control Of Cable Systems

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communications Commission disclosed Monday it intends to ask congress for authority to exercise some degree of control over community TV antenna systems.

Chairman Frederick W. Ford made the announcement before an Eastern Regional Conference of the National Community Television Association, and expressed hope that those involved will study the plan earnestly.

Members of the association are the operators of tall receiving towers, located mostly in small or remote communities, which pick up programs from distant television stations and distribute them locally over closed wires.

Since the system does not use radio frequencies in the operation, the FCC repeatedly has ruled it has no jurisdiction over them.

However, Ford noted that in some of the 900 community antenna locations, disputes have arisen with local TV stations from the competive standpoint.

In many areas, differences have been resolved by including local station programs on the CATV distribution and by agreements not to bring in outside programs which duplicate what is available on the local stations.

The FCC chairman, who will be replaced by a democratic chairman, Newton N. Minow, said "it seems unnecessary" to empower the commission to license all community antenna systems, as has been proposed in Congress.

He said the FCC had approved proposed legislation which will be sent to Congress authorizing the commission to step in as an arbiter in those cases where a local station and a community antenna system are unable to work out arrangements for existing side by side.

Largest Mortgage

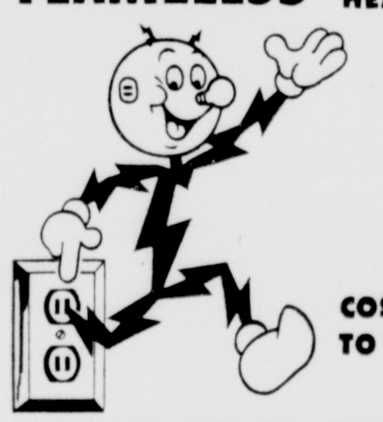

LONDON (UPI) — The largest mortgage ever granted on a single property, $70 million, was announced Tuesday for the $98 million Pan American Building in New York.

The building is being constructed by an Anglo-American Company. It is 59 stories high and is scheduled for completion the end of 1962.

Elementary Principals Have Dinner Meeting

The Elementary Principals' Association of Allegany County held a dinner meeting Monday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club. Among the guests who attended were Superintendent and Mrs. Ralph R. Webster; Morris W. Reynolds, newly appointed state supervisor of transportation; Mrs. Grace Dorsey, state supervisor of elementary education; Miss Mildred Willison, Miss Margaret Doak and Miss Elizabeth Flake, supervisors of elementary education in Allegany County.

Mrs. Dorsey spoke to the group on "Modern Issues in Elementary Education." Her four main points were the importance of elementary education due to the age of the children and the fact that all Americans attend grade school where attitudes and feelings are acquired that form a basis for life; schools are in a stage of transition; more people are taking a greater interest in schools of today, and newer methods of teaching. She discussed briefly departmentalization, ungraded primary school, team teaching and core teaching in the elementary school.

The committee in charge of the program consisted of Miss Sara Wright, chairman, Miss Kathryn Laughlin, Mrs. Elsie Roland, Miss Nellie Powell, Joseph Pellerzi and Miss Mary Longridge.

Mrs. Gertrude Collins, principal of Virginia Avenue School, conducted the business meeting which followed. The main discussion centered on recommendations for eliminating fund raising projects in the schools.

UNITED CHURCH WOMEN—Officers and committee chairmen were elected and installed at the annual luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Council of United Church Women held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Shown here left to right are Mrs. Luther Hutter, First Presbyterian, historian; Mrs. Harold McClay, Emmanuel Methodist, second vice president; Mrs. John S. Cook Sr., First Evangelical United Brethren, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. E. Miller, First EUB, past president; Mrs. Robert W. Young, state president, Grace Methodist, installing officer; Mrs. George Alexander, St. John's Lutheran, president; Mrs. Ross O. Decker, First Presbyterian, recording secretary, and Mrs. Albert H. Macy, First Presbyterian, first vice president.

St. Mary's Church Boy Scout Troop 8 Elects Officers

Boy Scout Troop 8 of St. Mary's Church elected officers at its recent meeting at the church.

Robert King was elected senior patrol leader. Tommy Mullan, assistant senior patrol leader and Robert Wempe, scribe. Terry Lawrence, Donald Humbertson and Donald Smith were named patrol leaders.

Cresap Chapter To Meet

Cresap Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, will meet today at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. William R. Welsh, LaVale. Mrs. Marshall Miller will be cohostess and Miss Ruth Clauson will preside.

A program "National Defense," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Leslie Randall. A tea will conclude the afternoon.

Bethel WSCS Plans Festivals

The WSCS of Bethel Methodist Church met recently at the church with Mrs. Kenneth Jewell presiding. Mrs. Robert Shoemaker read the secretary's report. Nineteen members answered roll call.

Renovation of the church sanctuary was discussed and the society pledged its support to the project. The next meeting will be held in February at the church or a member's home, depending on the progress of repair work.

It was announced that the study course, "Basic Christian Beliefs," will begin February 1 at 7:30 p. m. at the Centreville church. The course will be for an hour each night on six consecutive Wednesdays. Mrs. Charles Shinholt will be the teacher and all members of the circuit are urged to attend. Study books may be ordered now.

An invitation was extended to the society to participate in the World Day of Prayer services with Zion and Centenary churches. Fifteen sick calls were reported made by members.

Dates were set for the annual festivals. The first will be held June 17 and the second July 29.

Mrs. John S. Park conducted the devotional period. Mrs. Carl Howsare, pianist, accompanied singing of "Break Thou the Bread of Life," "Faith of our Fathers," and "Take My Life and Let it Be." Mrs. Shoemaker read the Scripture and Mrs. Carroll Anderson led the opening prayer. Mrs. Parks spoke on the theme, "Recalling Our Heritage—Expanding Our Horizons." Mrs. DeWayne Hite closed the meeting with a prayer.

Others attending were Mrs. William Jewell, Mrs. Denver Kimble, Mrs. Charles Zembower, Mrs. Lola Hite, Mrs. Walter Deffinbaugh, Mrs. Harold Welch, Mrs. Luther Hite, Mrs. Kenneth Zembower, Miss Ella Carlheim, Mrs. George Carlheim, Mrs. Howard Dickerhoof, Mrs. John Rose and a visitor, Mrs. Edward Koontz.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Luther Hite, Mrs. DeWayne Hite and Mrs. Shoemaker.

Don't Let Your Voice Give A Wrong Impression

Voice and ways of speaking can be very misleading. A young girl sounds boisterous when she's really covering up shyness. A business woman booms like a tyrant—only because she's always so hurried. A busy mother develops nagging, complaining tones that never quite leave her voice, even on social occasions. A rather positive person's voice is thin and anything but impressive.

No one even knows exactly what he sounds like — he can't hear his own voice as others hear it.

But that doesn't mean you can't find out quite a bit about your voice (send 10c in coin and self-addressed, stamped envelope for my booklet "Your Most Attractive Voice"). Meanwhile, try asking yourself these questions:

1. Do others always seem set to resist when you make a request? This negative response is a reaction to brusqueness, too positive tones, or nagging.

2. Is it difficult for you to gain the attention of a group? Perhaps you need to turn up your volume, not too loud, but enough to round out thin tones.

3. Do people sometimes say to you "Will you repeat that, more slowly?" "Not so loud", or I don't hear you"? These are plain-up warnings.

4. Have you ever been accused of sounding bossy, bored, or tired when you didn't feel that way?

Start right away (with the aid of "Your Most Attractive Voice") to correct these faults . . . and present a voice that impresses those around you with its, and your, charms.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago I started to date a pretty woman who was the bookkeeper where I worked. She told me her husband was nice, but not very lively. She also said he was not able to produce children and that she wanted a fling before they adopted a few.

In January of last year she became pregnant and confessed everything to her husband. I thought he'd come looking for me with a gun but instead he was happy as a clam. He thanked me. He said he could forgive his wife because every woman has a natural urge for motherhood.

A nine-pound boy was born in September and he handed out cigars. The girl has stopped seeing me and I'm just an outsider now. When I ask her if I can visit my son she tells me to leave her alone and to stay out of her life.

After all, I'm the baby's father and I ought to have some rights. Isn't there a law for people like me? Please print your answer.

—IGNORED DAD

DEAR IGNORED DAD: Of course there's a law for people like you—and it goes like this: When a married woman has a child her husband is the legal father.

Since you seem to be such a lover of children why not find a nice single girl and start over? The biggest favor you can do for that child is to drop out of sight—for good.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Whoever invented the line of baloney "work in a downtown office and get a husband" ought to be shot at sunrise.

I'm 30, attractive, a smart-dresser, good conversationalist and I've been trapped in this dreary office for nine years. There are plenty of men around but they're too young, too old or they have wives and families. The married gals here wouldn't think of introducing us single ones to anyone they know.

I don't bother to dress up for work any more. No one would notice if I wore a bikini. The pay here is good but I'm bored stiff with the work and all the people around me. What's the answer?

—RUTSVILLE

DEAR RUTSVILLE: Anyone who is "bored stiff" can't be doing a very good job. You're wasting your time and probably short-changing your employer. The only difference between Rutsville and Gravesville is the dimensions. Find another job.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband goes over to his sister's house two or three times a week. All they do is drink and argue. I used to go along but I just couldn't stand the fighting so now I stay home and he goes alone.

I know he gets mouthy when he drinks and some of the private things he has told his sister just burn me up. She throws them up to me later in subtle ways and I have to stand there and take it.

Why can't my husband stop going over there. The only break I get is when they have a serious fight and are mad at each other for a few weeks. Please help me. —GRIPED

DEAR GRIPED: Your husband and his sister are a couple of sick cookies who are still operating at the adolescent level. They fight now just as they did when they were kids. Tell him to get outside help or you might give him to his sister for good.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Mayor Keech Told Legal Procedure Holds Up Industry

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday he was informed only legal procedures are holding up the location here of a ladies apparel industry which is to locate in the old State Armory, South Centre Street.

Mayor Keech said he inquired about the status of the industry which advertised for experienced sewing machine operators, as the result of questions asked of his office.

The Mayor and Council several weeks ago granted a tax exemption on the portion of the old Armory to be used and the Mayor added he was also interested from that point of view.

When interviews were conducted here at the Department of Employment Security, several hundred women applied for jobs with the new firm. It has not been announced how many will be employed.

Council Gets Painting Bids

Four firms submitted bids to the Mayor and Council Monday fo. the proposed painting of the City Hall and Court Room in the Public Safety Building.

Submitting bids were the Builders Paint and Supply Company, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, G. A. Largent Construction Company and Sweene Paint and Supply Company.

The bids were referred to Street Commissioner John J. Long and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum for study and recommendation.

In other similar action, four persons submitted bids for nine lots on Brown Avenue. Nuzum explained that there are approximately $800 in liens against the properties.

Bids were submitted by James Scarpelli, $450; Thomas Burton, secretary of the Sunset View Real Estate and Development Company, $1,050; Milton Sarver, $1,330, and John E. Powers, $675. Burton's bid was accompanied by the stipulation that the amount left after the liens were satisfied would be the purchase price.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—My young friend Robert Wagner wasn't happy with some of his roles at 20th Century Fox and when he obtained his freedom I had a hunch he would operate in the open market. But before I could get my "hunch" in print, Bob up and signs with Sam Briskin for three pictures at Columbia, the first being "Sail a Crooked Ship."

In addition to being Bob's first movie on the lot, "Crooked Ship" is the initial Columbia production of Philip Barry who will also make "House of Many Rooms" and "The Widower."

Bob Wagner tells me, "Believe it or not, the title 'Crooked Ship' actually has a bearing on the story. It's about a young millionaire shanghaied aboard a boat which a gang of crooks intend to use in a bank robbery. It's a comedy—just what I've been looking for."

That very popular girl, Juliet Prowese, is busy rehearsing her dances for the inauguration gala—but not so busy she didn't get the call from producer-director George Sherman that he has set her for the femme lead in "The Jungle," James Michener's new book. In fact, Juliet is the first star set for the picture, that's how much Sherman liked her performance in his recently completed "Fiercest Heart."

In the Michener tale, Juliet plays a Polynesian girl who causes plenty of romantic trouble between an officer who returns to Guadalcanal after the war and his Bostonian wife who accompanies him. The location shots will be made in Acapulco, a wonderful place to be in February.

After that long drawn-out bitter fight to get free of his Warner contract and the popular "Maverick" series, I'm surprised that Jim Garner's first job is another TV show—and in just one chapter at that. Jim has signed to play himself in one of the "Angel" series titled "The French Lesson," that is, he plays a movie star who brushes up on his French taking lessons from Annie Farge, star of the series. It starts filming January 18th.

A job is a job I guess. But Garner's decision must seem strange to his former bosses at Warners who hoisted him to fame in what was TV's hottest series, "Maverick."

The L. A. Examiner's Vince Flaherty goes back to his native Washington to cover the Kennedy inauguration. How well I remember the first Eisenhower inauguration. I covered it with Vince.

I am the punctual type and Vince was in no hurry to get going from our hotel to the inaugural ceremony. I was sure we were going to miss it, but we finally got there and I needn't have worried about getting seats. Every policeman in Washington knew Flaherty and we were put ahead of all the crowds and had front seats. I didn't see Vince write a line—I worked like a slave. When the paper came out his story was right there and much, much better than any other. How he did it, I don't know.

The love scenes that Brett Halsey and Luciana Paluzzi are playing together in "Return to Peyton Place" have had an effect on them, and they confess they are trying to reconcile. They want to lead up to their return to marriage in the right way, so they have consulted with a marriage counselor, with the result that they appear to be more attached now than when they first met.

During the first two days of shooting, in which they play man and wife, Luciana and Brett didn't even speak except for their dialogue. Little by little they are now having lunch together every day.

If you find Jane Withers rummaging through a costume department looking for the clothes she wore as "Vashti," the oil rich matron in "Giant"—it's not just for sentimental reasons.

Jane has picked off a similar part in Joan Fontaine's GE Theatre TV show, "A Possibility of Oil" which Ida Lupino directs. "And Ida agrees with me that my part could be as lucky for me in TV as Vashti was for movies," Jane says. "I'd like very much to keep such a character going through a whole series," she went on. Are you listenin', producer Stanley Rubin?

The underlead of an ace at a suit contract is recognized as a bit of advanced strategy but, when a defender twice underplays an ace in a suit contract, it ranks as bridge news. It was done by Barbara Kachmar in the hand shown today, culled from the Women's Team of Four championship during the recently held Winter Nationals.

Returning to the bridge wars after a span of a great many years, Mrs. Kachmar first came into prominence when she was listed by Shepard Barclay among the top 10 for the year 1937. At that time she was operating under the caption of Barbara Cooke. Her partner was Roberta Erde in this year's Women's team, and together with Mrs. Howard Schenken and Sally Johnson they captured the event.

South opened with one spade and North appeared to be quite cautious in her response of one no trump, for a direct raise to two spades would have been quite acceptable, particularly with the doubleton in hearts. South, holding a singleton diamond, quite properly chose to take the one no trump out to two hearts. North returned to two spades and the bidding subsided.

Mrs. Kachmar, seated West, opened the seven of diamonds and the trick was taken in dummy with the ace. Declarer led the small spade, finessed the queen, and lost to West's king. The queen of diamonds was then led and ruffed by declarer, who played the king of hearts, won by Mrs. Kachmar with the ace.

She promptly shifted to the four of clubs. Declarer played low from dummy and the trick was won by East with the jack. A heart was returned, won by declarer who played a club and Mrs. Kachmar ducked. The eight was played from dummy, in the hope that it would drive out the ace, but it succeeded only in bringing forth the queen. East returned a club to West's ace and the defense took in all three clubs, a heart and two spades to register a one trick set.

Jaguar Attacks Man

SALTA, Argentina (UPI)—Lumber worker Sixto Ruiz defeated a jaguar who attacked him in bed, but he needed the help of his dog and a stout pickaxe.

Ruiz was asleep in his hut when the jaguar entered. He whistled for his dog, who worried the animal from behind while Ruiz struck at its head with the pick. The jaguar gave up after inflicting claw wounds so severe Ruiz had to be hospitalized.

DEATHS AND FUNERAL NOTICES

JOHN HINEGARDNER

MATHIAS, W. Va.—Services for John Samuel Hinegardner, 85, of here, who died Sunday in Rockingham Memorial Hospital, were conducted yesterday at the Mathias Church of the Brethren.

Rev. Robert Phillips officiated and interment was in St. Paul's Cemetery near Weyers Cave, Va.

Mr. Hinegardner, former postmaster at Weyers Cave, served there as justice of the peace and held the office of clerk of the Augusta County Board of Education.

He was a son of the late Rev. Benjamin D. and Amanda (Bowman) Hinegardner. His wife, Nannie C. (Shaver) Hinegardner, preceded him in death. He is survived by his second wife, Mrs. Sadie (Mathias) Hinegardner.

WALTER W. BRANDT

KEYSER — Walter William Brandt, who had resided recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Harber, South Main Street, died Monday at Baker VA Center, Martinsburg.

A native of Pennsylvania, he was a son of William and Elizabeth (Nagle) Brandt. He was a member of Portage, Pa., Moose Lodge, and the Hautzdale, Pa., American Legion.

The body is at the Grenader Funeral Home, Coalport, Pa.

A requiem mass will be celebrated at St. Basil's Catholic Church, Coalport, Thursday at 9 a. m. and interment will be in the church cemetery.

MRS. MARY E. KITZMILLER

HANCOCK—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Kitzmiller, a native of Hancock, died Monday at the home of her son, Dr. K. V. Kitzmiller in Cincinnati.

She was a daughter of the late Jacob and Huldah Richards and formerly resided in Kitzmiller, Md. Her husband, George Kitzmiller, preceded her in death.

She was a member of the Methodist Church of Kitzmiller.

Besides her son, she is survived by four grandchildren.

The body will arrive at the Grove Funeral Home here at 9 p. m. on Thursday. Services will be conducted at the funeral home on Friday at 2 p. m. by Rev. C. Gordon Clews. Interment will be in the Episcopal Cemetery here.

The family requests that flowers be omitted.

FRANCIS FAZENBAKER

WESTERNPORT — Francis Fazenbaker, 69, of Poplar Street, was found dead yesterday afternoon by a neighbor who summoned a physician. He had been living alone and had been in ill health.

A native of here, he was a son of the late Augustus and Ida M. (Dawson) Fazenbaker, and a brother, Howard Fazenbaker of Dover, Ohio.

Mr. Fazenbaker, who was a retired street employe here, was a member of St. James Episcopal Church.

His body is at Boal's Funeral Home where friends will be received from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. today and tomorrow. A service will be held at the funeral home on Friday at 10:30 a. m.

Rev. Robert Flottemesch, rector of St. James Church, will officiate and interment will be in Philos Cemetery.

MRS. BLANCHE A. YONKER

Mrs. Blanche Arbutus (Chaney) Yonker, RD 2, Flintstone, died Monday evening at Sacred Heart Hospital where she had been a patient several days.

Born near Flintstone she was a daughter of the late Leroy and Nancy Alberta (Christie) Chaney and was the last surviving member of her immediate family. Her husband preceded her in death.

The body will be at Hafer's Funeral Home from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. today and will be taken to the residence by 10 a. m. tomorrow for a funeral service at 2 p. m.

Rev. Paul G. O'Brien will officiate and interment will be in the Pleasant Grove Cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Joseph M. Nichols, J. Nelson Willison, Homer V. Willison, W. Lee Frazee, Kenneth Buhrma and Harvey Flake.

61 FORD
...the only car
in its field
beautifully built to go...
miles between lubrications

30,000 is the most famous number of the year. It's every '61 Ford owner's license to save. How can Ford do it? Conventional chassis lubrication fittings have been replaced with metal plugs that help protect each lubrication point against abrasive mud, dirt and dust. And then, for only about $4 and about 20 minutes your Ford is ready for another 30,000! This is just one of the many ways the '61 Ford is built to take care of itself. Your Ford Dealer can show you more.

HERE'S HOW THE '61 FORD TAKES CARE OF ITSELF

Lubricates itself—You'll normally go 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications (which cost only about $4.00 and take about 20 minutes) because Ford has replaced conventional grease fittings with a sealed-in lubrication system.

Cleans its own oil—You'll go 4,000 miles between oil changes because Ford's Full-Flow oil filter gives you filtration through fibers . . . trapping more dirt than any other type of filter made.

Adjusts its own brakes—New Truck-Size brakes adjust themselves—automatically.

Guards its own muffler—Ford mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.

Protects its own body—All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing the body panels beneath the doors.

Takes care of its own finish—Just wash and clean Ford's new Diamond Lustre Finish and it continues to glisten like new. It never needs waxing.

Only FORD is beautifully built to take care of itself

Conservation Program Opens In County Area

The 1961 Agricultural Conservation Program is now open, according to Bradye H. Dolly, chairman of the Allegany ASC County Committee, who said that farmers' requests for assistance will be accepted in the county office, 37 Washington Street.

In order to be eligible for the full extent of assistance, he urges farmers to stop by the local office before February 1.

Yesterday about 758 newsletters were being mailed to farmers of the county who are being asked to study over the available practices before coming to the office so they will know what practices fit their conservation needs.

Miss Elizabeth Hoover, manager of the office here, said the practices for the 1961 ACP in the county are as follows:

Seeding of grass and legumes for permanent cover in orchards and vineyards; seeding of permanent legumes and grass on land not now in suitable vegetative cover; application of liming material; contour stripcropping; planting of trees; improvement of established vegetative cover on permanent pasture.

Subsoiling; developing springs or seeps for livestock water; improvement of a stand of forest trees on farmland; constructing sod waterways; establishment of permanent vegetation to prevent erosion on open drainage ditches, gullies and diversion ditches.

Planting orchards on the contour; establishing diversion terraces; construction detention dams to prevent or heal gullies or to reduce or retard runoff; construction of installations to dispose of excess water; construction of open drainage ditches; tile drainage ditches and cover crop for winter protection.

Meter Installation Plan Progresses

The City Water Department yesterday reported progress is being made toward all-metered service.

James F. Twigg, chief clerk, said less than 50 of the some 10,000 customers are still on the flat rate payment plan and that some of them have made arrangements for securing meters.

January 1 was the deadline set for the conversion to metered water service in an ordinance adopted last July.

City Firemen Got 428 Calls In Past Year

During 1960 there were 428 fire calls answered by the Cumberland Fire Department—an average of 35 calls each month — according to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, who said there were no deaths caused by fires in the city during the calendar year.

In his annual report to the committee of statistics and origin of losses of the National Board of Fire Underwriters in New York, Chief Parker gave a breakdown of the various calls.

He said 105 fires were in residential areas including dwellings, apartments etc.; 41 in mercantile areas including restaurants, bars, repair shops, filling stations etc.; 24 in non-residential sections including office buildings, theaters, churches and schools.

The chief said there were 72 brush and grass fires; 74 false alarms; 73 other type fires including auto, lumber yards and outdoor machinery; 15 smoke scares; 22 first aid and emergency calls; one miscellaneous call and one call outside the city limits.

He pointed out that the annual report is one of a number of reports sent in each year. The largest number of calls in any one month was in April last year when 51 were answered and the lowest number was in July when 22 calls were checked.

Police Officials To Attend Meeting

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming and Chief B. Frank Gaffney will represent the Cumberland Police Department at a conference planned today at 1:45 p. m. in Pikesville under the auspices of the Maryland State Police.

Officials of police units, trial magistrates and the Department of Motor Vehicles have been invited to attend the meeting called to discuss the adoption of a uniform traffic ticket.

groups of bills for his clients.

William F. Strong, head of the Maryland - District of Columbia AFL-CIO, said his group considers the legislation vital to Maryland workers.

Among bills scheduled for introduction in both houses Wednesday is a measure to outlaw pinball machines in Prince Georges County. Del. Carlton R. Sickles, D-Prince Georges is the sponsor.

Two Women's Groups Dressed Dolls Here

The United Lutheran Church Women of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and the Mapleside Homemakers Club together dressed 100 of the 300 dolls which were distributed in the Salvation Army's Christmas cheer program, according to Captain Fred Overton, commanding officer.

The Lutheran women dressed 75 dolls and the homemakers were responsible for 25 dolls. Captain Overton explained that the YMCA Ladies Auxiliary originally had planned to dress some of the dolls but the work could not be scheduled. The other 200 dolls were dressed by individual women volunteers.

Protestant Appeal Begins January 17

Mrs. Robert M. Young, this city, is a vice president of the Maryland Council of Churches which will support the annual United Protestant Appeal from January 17 to February 21.

The annual appeal is for $80,000 to supplement the budget and carry on the services of the Maryland Council of Churches. Nearly 2,000 Protestant and Orthodox churches of 23 denominations are served by the Maryland Council of Churches through its educational and service departments.

Pike Firemen, Ladies To Install Officers

Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company and its auxiliary will hold a joint installation of officers at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, January 28, at the hall of the Church of the Seven Dolors at Bean's Cove.

The installation originally was scheduled for the Moose Home but was moved to Bean's Cove because of a conflict in schedules.

Women of the church will serve ham and beef dinners. Reservations may be made before January 21 by calling Leo Ruppert, PA 4-1479, or James Michael, PA 2-4237.

Firemen To Meet

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the fire hall to act upon by-law changes for 1961.

The Gold Problem And Our Reserves

One of the intriguing facets of international finance is the manner in which a country settles its debts. There is no international currency, but several monetary systems have gained the world's confidence and are accepted as freely as domestic moneys in most banking circles. The U. S. dollar and the British pound sterling are the most widely accepted currencies.

Dollars used in domestic trading cannot be redeemed for gold in the U. S., but Washington maintains gold reserves for a fraction of the issued currency. The U. S. dollar is refundable in gold, however, when held by a foreign creditor. Balance of payment deficits suffered by the United States in each of the last several years have reduced reserves to less than the nation's international debts, making the U. S. vulnerable to possible panic among foreign dollar holders.

But there is little likelihood of a run on Uncle Sam's treasury if for no other reason than that there is no other currency which could provide a substitute for the dollar in volume or in area of circulation. But the demands for gold in 1960 reached an estimated $4.3 billion record by creditors who hold several times that figure in dollars. At this rate, there is no more than four years' reserve of gold in U. S. vaults.

A study of gold reserves in the United States discloses that while government gold stocks are diminishing, the gold itself is not leaving these shores. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York now has almost as much gold in its vaults as the Treasury has in storage at Fort Knox.

In fact, the vaults of this one bank now contain more than half the gold reserves of the free world, although almost none of it belongs to the United States.

This fact in itself is reassuring to Americans concerned over the decline in gold stocks because it points up the confidence of the free nations in the ability of the U. S. government to remain not only financially stable but politically free.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

How To Save Money

The export of dollars is still a problem with us. A professor who teaches in a university wrote to me that I was all wet about how dollars are exported. He wrote that dollars are not actually sent abroad in a package or a suit-case or a black bag but that one goes to a bank in this country and makes the transfer. No dollars really change hands only bookkeeping credits.

A lot this naive professor knows. Imagine a dope importer going to a bank to get a letter of credit or to send a draft or some other commercial document! The FBI, the Secret Service, the Narcotics Bureau would have him in prison in no time. The import of heroin, cocaine, opium and marijuana is big business, involving hundreds of millions of dollars annually. The center of this business is in Naples. Lucky Luciano denies that he has anything to do with it, but it has increased since he has been exported to Italy. To legitimatize this kind of money, it is physically sent abroad, as is all tax evasion and tax avoidance money. One would not expect a professor to know about such ugly and miserable mundane doings.

If a real effort were made to go after those who have used tax havens, considerable American dollars could be brought home. Tax havens exist all over the world but Switzerland is the principal tax haven in the world. Many Americans have money there in numbered accounts. Swiss banks act like fences in this respect. The Swiss refuse to give our government any information on the subject. Their profit on this dirty money is so large that Switzerland protects these tax evaders who are actually thieves.

Perhaps the new Administration will pump up enough courage to go after these fellows. Again, the professor is wrong. In these cases, actual dollars are transported abroad because a bank transaction could involve the thief in a felony—even if he put his money in a Swiss bank in New York whose books could be seized for inspection by various agencies.

Another way to keep dollars from going out of the country is to eliminate, as far as is possible, the use of so-called civilian experts abroad by the Army. Men in the army ought to be found who in civilian life can do the work of these experts. Say that an interpreter is needed. Surely, out of our vast military force, interpreters in any language can be found.

As a soldier writes me:

"Those of us making a career of the military service expected to make sacrifices and we make plenty of them. We have acquired certain basic fighting skills, and we don't mind devoting a part of our time to maintaining these skills. But we have some intelligence, and we're making a professional career for ourselves. This means that we also are technicians and that we cannot spend all of our time (when there is no actual armed conflict) engaged in field exercises with a rifle in our hands . . .

"When our skills are not utilized as they should be, when highly paid civilians take our jobs away from us, and when public opinion holds that we are fit only for making senseless sacrifices, is it any wonder that we protest? We have intelligence enough to know that all of this is not in the true interest of national defense."

The civilians attached to the Army ought to be hired only if no one in uniform can do their work as well. If we are to have an efficient army in which officers and men re-enlist and make it a life career, there must be no competition between soldier and civilian within the Army. The unnecessary civilians ought to be brought back to the United States.

American tourists do not generally create too much good-will, anyhow. But that is not the point. They export dollars unnecessarily. In the case of tourists, of course, the professor is right. They buy letters of credit or get travellers' checks and they generally do not carry too many dollars with them. But in the settlement for these letters of credit and travellers' checks, the balance could go against us and the actual settlement might have to be made in gold—probably earmarked gold. Until the dollar is restored to sound value, it is not necessary to stimulate tourist activities.

McNamara Seeks Time For Defense Study

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The next Secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara, is anxiously mulling over the gruesome complexities of the defense budget, while Laos, Cuba, and the Congo all bubble away like so many witches' cauldrons. For these reasons, this is a good moment to recall a recent, key episode in the untold story of the Eisenhower administration.

The time was last July, shortly before the Republican National Convention, and not long before Nikita S. Khrushchev's frenzied, menacing visit to the United Nations. Khrushchev's behavior, plus the general tenor of Kremlin policy all over the world, had already caused the Soviet experts of the State Department and the C. I. A. to reach some highly unpalatable conclusions.

These conclusions, when presented to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, in turn caused Herter to request an audience with President Eisenhower. The audience was granted, and Herter and his chief Kremlinologist, Charles E. Bohlen, at once flew to Newport, where the President was enjoying a long golfing vacation.

In view of the irascibility and known prejudices of the President, what followed was an interesting proof of the cool courage which Secretary Herter conceals under his mild exterior.

In brief, Herter and Bohlen warned the President that Khrushchev was showing every sign that he no longer took the United States seriously. They further warned that if Khrushchev no longer regarded the United States as a serious opponent, it was necessary to expect all sorts of arrogant and aggressive Soviet moves in the near future, on the pattern of the arrogant, current intervention in Laos.

Herter then asked the President to announce a massive increase in the defense budget, as the only way of proving that the United States government still meant business in its role as leader of the cause of freedom. No request was less likely to please Eisenhower. Yet the President approved Herter's recommendation, albeit with some reluctance. This great decision was very nearly announced, without further ado, before Herter flew back to Washington. At the last minute, however, the announcement was put off, in order to permit the proposed defense increase to be planned in detail. And this was highly unfortunate, for the end of that week brought the President the sharp shock of the famous Fifth Avenue compact between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

At Newport, Herter had quite naturally been careful to say that he had no doubt Pentagon spending was sufficient for practical defense purposes, and only insufficient for the political purpose of impressing the Soviets. But now, on Fifth Avenue, the Vice President and the man the President likes least in the Republican party, Gov. Rockefeller, had publicly agreed that the Eisenhower defense programs were sadly inadequate from every point of view.

The fit of rage which this produced at Newport is already a matter of semi-public record. What is not on the record, however, is the more significant fact that the angry President thereupon reversed the decision he had taken in response to Herter's bold request.

Perhaps Eisenhower's anger simply reinforced his natural reluctance to make the defense increase that Herter had pressed for. Perhaps he now refused to take this action, under seeming pressure from Nixon and Rockefeller, which he had previously decided to take of his own free will. In any case, there was no further question of the massive defense increase intended to ward off the Soviets, which had been so nearly announced to the country and the world only a few days earlier.

The question remains, whether the critical situations in Laos and elsewhere are directly attributable to this self-reversal by the President. This question cannot, of course, be answered with finality without access to the Kremlin archives. But one can at least say that the President's official advisors gave a warning and offered a remedy. And one can also say that after the remedy was not adopted, the warning was all too ample and quickly substantiated.

This is why the story of the President's self-reversal is now worth recalling. The point is that Secretary - designate McNamara has asked President-elect Kennedy for time—quite a lot of time in the range of several months—to assess the competing claims of the jungle of defense projects for which he will soon be responsible.

The energy, courage, and intelligence of McNamara's initial attack on his gigantic task have greatly impressed everyone within range. His request for time, before he recommends increases (and decreases) of effort, is entirely understandable. But the need to show Khrushchev and the Kremlin that the U. S. now means business and is in deadly earnest, is even more pressing than it was last summer. Hence President-elect Kennedy is now studying ways and means to meet this primary need, while also meeting McNamara's need for time.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NO MORE DRUDGERY — The poultry farm of W. T. Frye near Peoria, Ill., is an example of modern "push button" farming. With the aid of an agricultural engineer from the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station at Urbana, H. B. Puckett, Farmer Frye has taken the drudgery out of raising chickens which used to make it almost impossible for a poultry raiser to get even a day off from his demanding flocks.

Conveyors like those in factories take the food from eight bulk storage bins, mix the four basic rations, and deliver 1,200 pounds of feed per hour a distance of 390 feet to maintain a 24-hour-a-day automatic service to the 14,000 turkeys and 29,000 broilers that Frye raises and processes annually.

Such a system makes it less important than ever to "keep 'em down on the farm," in so far as large numbers of agricultural workers are concerned, because Farmer Frye and one part-time worker can do it all. Frye reports that turning the dials and punching the buttons gets wearisome at times, however.

Take "slopping the pigs," which used to be a chore that would drive almost anyone from the farm. Recently a large delegation of farmers gathered at the place of Richard Ware, one mile south of Lindon, Ind., to see his modern "automated" hog enterprise of about 1,600 pigs per year, with its new central farrowing house and conveyor-sped feeding troughs.

The prize may go to William and Erland Rothenberger, whose 326-acre farm northwest of Frankfort, Ind., is a showplace with a brand new push-button setup for taking feed from the silos with huge corkscrews and conveyors. Gone is the backbreaking work of feeding and fattening 250 steers so that the Rothenbergers also can raise 1,500 hogs much the same way "in their spare time."

The completely mechanized feed processing system on the farm includes corn picker-sheller, heated air for drying, converted ear corn storage on a farm grinding and mixing setup.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture is devoting its current handbook to "automated farming," and predicts tomorrow's farmer will be a highly trained specialist who will sit up late planning his new stratagems and sleeping late while the machinery does the work!

The only trouble? You probably gussed it: as with industry, they now wonder if things will get too monotonous to keep 'em down on the farm.

Some Extrauterine Babies Can Survive

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A New Guinea woman gave birth to a baby and, a week later, showed signs that a twin may have been left behind. Two days later she arrived at the Goroka Native hospital where examination confirmed the suspicion. The twin was not in the uterus but in the abdominal cavity and operation was required to deliver this second infant.

Ectopic pregnancies, with the fetus in the abdomen, are unusual as 95 per cent of extrauterine pregnancies are located in a tube. The vast majority of ova die or must be removed within a few weeks. But abdominal pregnancies may be commoner than we have believed, using the experience of obstetricians at the University College hospital in Jamaica as a criterion.

In more than 9,000 deliveries done in their obstetrical ward during the last six years, there were 10 abdominal pregnancies. This might not be unusual except for the fact that all of these women had been pregnant for at least 20 weeks.

The fertilized ovum is not at home in this area and, as a result, usually creates enough trouble to warrant an emergenccy operation earlier than 20 weeks. But only two of the women in this group had noted slight pain and one mentioned uterine bleeding.

The physicians were able to detect a live baby in five of the mothers. Surgery was postponed so long as the mother's condition remained good and the child showed no signs of distress. In time, all five women were delivered of live babies via surgery.

Jamaica appears to be the mecca for extrauterine pregnancies. The obstetricians at the hospital in question had been trained in other parts of the world and never had encountered this problem before. They learned the hard way how to handle these cases.

TOMORROW: Multiple origins of colds.

DEEP SLEEP

Mrs. F. writes: My son and I are very heavy sleepers. Recently we slept through a fire in our house but fortunately were not burned. Do you have any suggestions?

A motorcycle cop stopped a car and pulled out his summons book. "I clocked you at 65, Mister," he said. The lady in the back seat cackled gleefully, "Just you give him a ticket, Officer. Serves him right. I've told him for years he's a reckless, terrible driver."

"Your wife?" inquired the cop. The driver nodded glumly. The cop snapped his summons book shut and murmured sympathetically, "Drive on, brother."

"Free University Of Cuba" Proposed With Refugees Working In Florida

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The USA now finds itself, relations severed with a nation it liberated, to which it gave highly favored sugar treatment and with whose people it enjoyed the friendliest relations.

In this unfortunate vacuum the most important thing for the American people to remember is that you can't win something by doing nothing, and we are not going to win back Cuba or the friendship of Latin America unless we act vigorously and with imagination to fill the vacuum.

Fortunately, the instrument is at hand with thousands of Cuban refugees in Florida to fill the vacuum. But unfortunately we are doing almost nothing about them. At first we let them scrounge out a living or half starve. Hospitable Floridians and Florida municipalities did their best, but the load was heavy.

Quite recently, and belatedly, President Eisenhower has advanced $1,000,000 to feed the refugees and has put Tracy Voorhees, who did a fine job handling Hungarian refugees, in charge. Voorhees has jumped in with characteristic dedication, but the job is a big one and he has little staff and diminishing money. He needs a lot of help. It's not his problem alone, it's our problem.

"Free University" In Florida

Here is one idea which might help the United States fill the tragic vacuum with Cuba:

Establish a "Free University of Cuba" on American soil, preferably in Florida, as a mecca of free democratic learning for students from all Latin America, plus North American students who want to know more about Latin America.

To operate the university, use the faculty from the University of Havana who have escaped from the dictatorial restriction of free teaching by Fidel Castro. These professors, some of the most respected in Latin America, are now acting as bellhops and waiters in Miami, glad to get any kind of work.

Let's put them to work in the field for which they are trained, to teach freedom, democracy, and friendship. And let's invite doubting students from other Latin countries to attend this proposed mecca of tolerance and understanding.

Most North Americans don't realize it, but the universities of Latin America have a sovereignty seldom violated by Latin governments. They are institutions of free thought, free research, whose students go out to challenge the government but the government never invades their territory. Such was the University of Havana when Castro was a student, but not under Fidel Castro as ruler of Cuba. He has stationed secret police inside the university in a manner little realized in the rest of Latin America, that is why many university professors have fled to Florida.

This gives the United States a golden opportunity to use these same professors in a new University of Cuba, completely free.

Distinguished Waiters

Here is the roll call of university professors, Cuban doctors, and jurists now doing their best to make a living in Florida:

Dr. Rogerio de la Torre, professor of law, University of Havana, now a bellboy at the Hotel Americana.

Dr. Jose Miro-Torra, professor of law, University of Havana—now a welder with the Superior Electric Company, Hollywood, Fla.

Justice Mario Dolz, noted Cuban jurist, now assistant bricklayer, Brickell Avenue and 14th Street, SW, Miami.

Justice Angel A. Fernandez-Marti, now a waiter at Fidesteak Ranch, 901 East Ft. Lauderdale Street, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Justice Michel Olivella Gonzales, waiter at Hialeah Ranch, 54th and 39th Streets, Hialeah.

Justice Jorge Ramos, now a distributor of phone directories, Miami.

Dr. Hector Rocamora, perhaps the most outstanding gynecologist in Cuba, now a clean-up man in the operating room of Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami.

Dr. Ramiro de la Riva, doing similar clean-up work in Jackson Hospital.

This is only a small fraction of the roll call.

Sometimes out of adversity come great achievements. The United States has suffered adversity in Cuba, some of our own fault, much of it not. But we can turn partial defeat into a great achievement if we use the Cuban patriots and men of ability who have sought our shores instead of wasting them as busboys, bellhops, and janitors.

For years the United States has neglected the Spanish language, Latin-American culture, the exchange of students and teachers with Latin America. Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas has been a voice in the wilderness demanding student exchange. He has made some progress, but not nearly enough.

Establishment of a "Free University of Cuba" with faculty both from Cuba and from other Latin American countries and North America, could show our critics that we are not what Fidel Castro says we are, and simultaneously serve as a great monument of friendship.

We can't fill the current vacuum with Cuba merely by sitting on the western side of the Gulf Stream moaning about the past. We have to move vigorously to build for the future.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The most dangerous part of flying is the first 180 seconds on takeoff, and the final 180 seconds on landing. If the machine is going to fail, it will usually do it on takeoff: if a man is going to fail, it customarily happens as he comes in for a landing. The jet and the Constellation that collided at Staten Island were within 19 miles of their respective airports; a few minutes away.

Both had been in holding patterns. A holding pattern is an imaginary race track near an airport. It is about six miles long, and at the turns, two miles wide. It can be high in the sky, or low. The weather can be foul, so bad that the pilot cannot see beyond his windshield, but he will remain in the holding pattern with the aid of radio bearings coming up to him from radio beacons below.

Airplanes are ordered into holding patterns when traffic is too heavy for an airport. In the New York area, there are five big airports within 20 miles of Bowery Bay: La Guardia, Idlewild, Newark, Floyd Bennett and Teterboro. Each of these needs lots of sky space for holding patterns when the weather is bad.

On the day of the big accident, the sky was leaden and snow flurries were carried on a wind approaching 50 miles per hour out of the southwest. All the big airports had planes in holding patterns. From my home at Sea Bright, N. J. I have seen planes stacked over Ambrose Lightship every few thousand feet.

They fly slowly to conserve fuel, and they move up and down their racetracks, waiting for the word to come in. Ground control usually calls the lowest plane in first, then orders each of the other planes to some down 2,000 feet. It's like pulling the bottom dish out of a stack of dinner plates.

Sam Stoia drew two pencilled racetracks on the New York chart as he and George Tamalis and Lewis Dymond and I discussed the crash. One was between Arthur Hill, Linden, N. J. and Rahway. Here, the big Constellation held at 5,000 feet. It was seven miles south of Newark Airport, although its terminal was La-Guardia. It was 096 degrees from a radio called Solberg, and 066 from another one called Yardley.

The pilot appeared to hold his pattern well. From time to time, he heard LaGuardia and they would be ready to take him in within a few minutes. Unknown to him, a DC-8 jet was in a holding pattern 14 miles southeast, almost ready to run an imaginary race track called Preston. The jet had been asked by Ground Control to drop from 14,000 feet to 5,000 enroute between Robbinsville, N. J. and Preston. The pilot agreed.

Preston lies between Cliffwood Beach and Englishtown. The pilot set a course of 050 out of Robbinsville. As he ran northeast, Ground Control turned him over to Idlewild Approach. So far as is known, Idlewild and the jet did not contact each other.

The jet moved slowly, about 180 knots with some flaps. The pilot wasn't worried. All he had to do was stay on Robbinsville's 050 until he intercepted Colt's Neck Radio on a bearing of 346 degrees. When he had them lined up, he would begin his racecourse. Even if he was slightly off his pattern, he knew there was a buffer area of safety around it, roughly 19 miles by 8 miles.

He moved straight on past the Colt's Neck beam, still on 050, as the Constellation received orders from LaGuardia to come out of the Linden pattern and head southeast until it intercepted Robbinsville radio. Then it was to turn left on 050 and head into LaGuardia.

The jet was also on 050, but it was supposed to be making ovals over New Jersey. The jet and the Connie were both at 5,000 feet. The jet pilot had one radio out of business, but this would not hurt him. He had more than enough other sets to handle any situation. Also, if Idlewild wanted to identify him, all they had to do was ask the jet to turn on its transponder, which will give any plane a double blip on a ground radar set momentarily. No one at Idlewild asked.

The DC-8 went on past the Colt's Neck bearing as though it had not received the proper heading signal, and moved across Raritan Bay to a point between Great Kills and Miller Field, Staten Island. There, out of the snow came the broadside vision of a Constellation making a left turn onto the same heading at the same altitude.

The four of us at lunch agreed that the DC-8 pilot tried to turn out of the way at the last second, lost one engine in the belly of the Connie, which fell in two big parts, and then the jet, as though all on the flight deck were dead, continued straight on 050 for eleven more miles, past Fort Wadsworth, across the Narrows, and deep into Flatbush, in Brooklyn, before it crashed.

That gave everyone aboard exactly three and a half minutes to say a final prayer . . .

Gov. Barron Asks Sales Tax Hike In W. Va.

Fund Would Aid State's Jobless

By CARLO J. SALZANO
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov.-elect W. W. Barron asked the West Virginia Legislature Tuesday night, on the eve of the opening of its 55th session, to enact immediately a temporary increase in the state consumer sales tax.

The money would go into a "crash" program of public works projects to put more of the state's jobless to work. The consumer sales tax rate would be hiked from 2 per cent to 3 per cent on all purchases over $1. Barron asked that it be made effective Sunday, the day before he takes office as the state's 26th governor, with an "absolute" expiration date of Aug. 31.

Barron made his announcement in a brief radio - television address in which he also stated his "strong opposition" to pay increases at this time for elected state officials.

He indicated the new presiding officers of the Legislature, House Speaker Julius Singleton and Senate President Howard Carson — who will be formally installed Wednesday — are in agreement with him on the need for immediate aid to the unemployed. They were with him at the time of the speech.

Barron said he will have later proposals for long - range remedies to the state's economic conditions, but that the situation is so acute that it cannot wait for action on this program or aid programs promised by President-elect John F. Kennedy.

As for the salary hikes which Barron had indicated he favored previously, he said:

"In view of the intense difficulties of the day, with many thousands of our people out of work...it is my considered opinion that pay raises now for top officials of our government would be unwise."

The legislature convenes at noon Wednesday and Singleton and Carson will be formally elected shortly thereafter as new presiding officers as one of the first items of business.

The two chambers will meet in joint session at about 1:15 p.m. to hear the final state-of-the-state message of outgoing Gov. Cecil H. Underwood.

New Church Being Built Near Grantsville

Pictured above is the new Maranatha Assembly of God Church, at Grantsville where Rev. William Ferguson is the pastor. The new church is being built along Route 417. The structure is 40 by 72 feet with a concrete block basement and brick veneer. The basement, when completed will have 14 classrooms and two assembly rooms. The main floor will be 40 by 50 feet seating 275 with a nursery, vestible cloak room and pastors study. The church has been holding meetings in a store room in Grantsville. All volunteer help is being done by Midlothian, Lonaconing, Central Assembly of Cumberland, Oakland and Grantsville members.

Lawyers Outnumber Others In W. Va. Legislature Which Convenes Its Fifty-Fifth Session Today

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Legislature, which convenes in its 55th session Wednesday, has 119 native West Virginians among its 132 members in the Senate and House of Delegates.

Nine delegates and four senators were born in other states, all but one of them from adjoining states. The exception is Del. Mino D'Aurora, D-Brooke, who is a native of Italy.

Facts and figures on the membership of the two chambers, compiled by House Parliamentarian Oschel C. Parsons, also show the average age of senators is 50 while among the delegates, it is 45.

The youngest senator is Arch W. Riley, D-Ohio, who at 30 will be judiciary chairman. The oldest is Dallas Wolfe, R-Preston, who is 65. Senate President Howard Carson, D-Fayette, is 50, hitting the average.

In the House, Del. Kenneth Auvil, D-Barbour, at 25 is the youngest member and Del. T. E. Holderby, R-Cabell, at 81 is the oldest. House Speaker Julius Singleton, D-Monongalia, at 39 is six years under the average age of delegates.

Twenty-nine of the 32 senators are married. There's only one bachelor—Sen. Charles A. Millar, D-Mineral — and two widowers.

In the House, there are six single members, 91 who are married, one a widow and three widowers. Of the four lady members, Del. Callie Tsapis, D-Hancock, is not married. The bachelors are Dels. John A. Amick, D-Kanawha; John L. Bailey, D-Lewis; Earl B. Hager, D-Logan; Robert F. McCarthy, D-Marshall and William McCoy Jr., D-Pendleton.

Sen. Ward Wylie, D-Wyoming, ranks first in the length of legislative service in the Senate with 20 years. Sen. Jackie McKowen, D-Wayne, is second with 18 years and Sens. Ted Bowers, R-Wetzel, and Glenn Taylor, D-Mingo, are tied for third with 15 years each.

In the House, Del. Nell Walker, D-Fayette, ranks first having been elected last November to her 12th two-year term. Dels. Herbert Schupbach, D-Wetzel, and Spencer K. Creel, R-Wood, are tied for second, each serving his 11th term.

Fifty - seven House members have had prior service in the House of Delegates, 48 of them in the 54th legislature. There are 43 with no prior service.

The Senate has four members with no prior legislative service —Sens. Paul Kaufman, D-Kanawha; R. E. Barnett, D-Mercer; William R. Sharpe, D-Lewis, and Millar.

Lawyers outnumber all other professions in the legislature. There are 12 in the Senate and 28 in the House. Teaching and school administration is second with four in the Senate and 10 in the House.

Methodists have a wide lead in church affiliations with 14 members in the Senate and 34 in the House. Baptists are second with 24 in the House and 2 in the Senate.

Homemakers Plan Industrial Tour

ECKHART—Plans will be made for a trip to a local industrial plant at the meeting of the Eckhart Homemakers Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Eckhart Methodist Church. A magazine exchanging program will also be instituted and any member desiring to participate is asked to bring a magazine to trade.

An attendance award for the year will be discussed at this meeting. To be eligible for the award attendance at this meeting will be necessary. Each person has been asked to bring a prospective member to the club.

New Year books will be available. Miss Mary Wise, county home demonstration agent will attend the meeting.

Ellerslie WSCS To Aid Mission

ELLERSLIE—Womans Society of World Service met Friday evening in the Evangelical United Brethren church basement. Mrs. Amy Miller and Mrs. Tenney were in charge of devotions. A playlet "A Changing World" was presented by Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Tenney.

Class sisters were revealed and new ones given for the coming year. Members were urged to save pennies for the Kentucky Mountain Mission dinner to be held in February. Fourteen members were present. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Tenney and Mrs. Elsie Whitford.

Goes To Kansas

KEYSER — Mrs. M. E. Minnich has been called to Wichita, Kansas, due to the sudden death of her sister, Mrs. Mayme Miller. She was accompanied by another sister, Miss Irene Collins, of Weston.

Hudson Again Heads Bank

PIEDMONT—Raymond C. Hudson, was reelected president of the First National Bank, yesterday morning by the directors of the institution.

Other officers re-elected are Dr. Robert W. Bess Sr., vice president; John B. Determan, vice president and cashier; Tracy W. Whitworth, assistant cashier and Lewis E. Biggs, assistant cashier.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders preceding the board of directors session, the following directors were re-elected: Dr. Bess, Dr. Lewis F. Engle, W. Harold Fredlock, Mr. Hudson, J. Guthrie Luke, 2nd and J. Milton McIntyre.

On December 15, 1960, the bank paid a $2 dividend for each share of stock outstanding. This is an increase of 75c per share over the previous year. This marked the 100th dividend paid by the bank.

Barton WSCS Plans Benefit

BARTON — The Woman's Society of Christian Service met a recent evening in the church social room with Mrs. Hazel Houdersheldt, president, in charge.

Mrs. Elsie Clark, chairman of Spiritual Life, had charge of the devotional program.

"Christ Jesus, Himself, Our Heritage" was the topic of discussion. Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Gertrude Broadwater presented a sketch in the form of a television panel. Mrs. Carrie Kessecker read the scripture. Rev. Byron Keesecker offered prayer.

A soup and pie sale will be held in the church kitchen Thursday, January 26. Mrs. Ruth Dye, chairman of church activities, will be in charge.

School Worker Injured In Fall

FROSTBURG — Paul Hager, RD 3, a temporary employe at Beall High School, suffered a possible leg fracture Monday in a fall down outside steps leading to the school's boiler room.

The accident occurred about 1:30 a.m. but Hager was not found until 6 a.m.

Thomas Rank, head custodian, and William Kroll discovered him in the boiler room when they reported for work. Hager was taken to Miners Hospital.

Trial Date Set For Supt. Fair

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Kanawha County Intermediate Court Judge William Thompson Monday set Jan. 30 as the trial date for State Police Supt. Hazen Fair.

Fair pleaded innocent previously to charges of giving false testimony last fall during a grand jury investigation into fund shortages in the motor vehicles inspection division of the Department of Public Safety.

A civilian employe allegedly embezzled money from the department, and there was conflicting testimony on the question of whether Fair had promised immunity from prosecution if she would return the funds.

Fair's trial will come about two weeks after he leaves state employment. He will be succeeded Jan. 16 by former superintendent W. E. Burchett of Huntington, Gov.-elect W. W. Barron's choice for the post.

Returns To School

FROSTBURG — Miss Patricia Anne Minnick has returned to Frederick after spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Minnick, 124 South Water Street. She is a junior at the Frederick Memorial School of Nursing.

Scouts Go Bowling

AAUW Antique Group To Meet

FROSTBURG — Miss Ruth B Engle announces a meeting of the Frostburg-Georges Creek Antique Study Group, AAUW to be held next Monday at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the social room of Lowndes Hall, Frostburg State Teachers College.

The topic for the evening will be "Antiques Glassware." Miss Rosann Langhans will introduce the speaker, Mrs. Charles L. Kopp. Members are asked to bring a piece of glass ware for display purposes or for identification.

Hostesses are Miss Catherine Wilson, chairman, Mrs. Sarah Franklin, Miss Jane Grindle, Mrs. Rachel Dunn, Miss Margaret Price, Miss Mabel Myers and Miss Virginia Neff.

Keyser PTA Meets Tomorrow

KEYSER—The regular meeting of the Keyser Parent-Teachers Association will be held Thursday evening, at 7:30 in the Keyser High School cafeteria. Should a large group be in attendance the meeting will be held in the auditorium.

Various committee reports will be given and the membership tables will be set up in the hall for parents who have not yet registered.

E. M. Welshonce, assistant superintendent of Mineral County Schools, will present a program based on Mineral County Schools and the recent Baldwin - Allen building survey. Slides will also be shown on this survey.

Liquor Study Report In W. Va. Is Incomplete

State Revenues Being Analyzed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A legislative committee set up three months ago to report on financial aspects of legalizing liquor by the drink in West Virginia reported Tuesday it did not have time to make an adequate study.

The group, a subcommittee of the legislative interim committees, had been directed to study liquor revenues legalized under West Virginia's present state monopoly system, plus the effects legalized over-the-bar sales might have.

The 10 - member committee was headed by outgoing Sen. Herbert Traubert, D-Brooke, who introduced the resolution under which it was created at last October's special session.

At its first meeting Oct. 31 it directed legislative auditor C. H. Koontz to compile figures, including reports from other states, especially those that changed from state monopoly to liquor-by-the-drink.

At the committee's last meeting Dec. 10, Koontz reported that his findings to that point were inconclusive.

Reporting for the subcommittee Monday, Koontz told the interim committee that the subcommittee, after going into the matter in detail, felt it had not had sufficient time to consider the material "and make an intelligent report" to the Legislature.

4-H Girls Get Sewing Awards

FROSTBURG — Miss Susan James Mt. Pleasant Street, was hostess to the Junior 4-H Club at their monthly meeting held Monday evening.

Eight girls received sewing seals and certificates. They include Kay Francis Morgan, Dana Harden, Marlene Stevens, Phyllis Shope, Jane Babcock, Susan James, Mary Catherine Michael and Karen Skidmore. Dana Harden displayed the pattern of an outfit of clothing she is planning to make. Phyllis Shope displayed the work completed on a skirt and blouse she was making and Marporie Layman showed a pin cushion she made.

Mrs. Ethel Hager presented each girl with a calendar upon which to keep a daily record of their activities.

Mrs. Alberta Miller explained to the girls what equipment they would need in sewing.

Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held at the home of Karen Skidmore, Braddock Road.

Sorority Plans Benefit Sale

KEYSER—Iota Pi and Alpha Alpha of Tau Phi Lambda Sorority will hold their regular monthly business meeting at the home of Mrs. Alice Dixon, Center Street, Keyser, tonight at 7:30. All those attending are asked to bring a white elephant gift which will be auctioned off following the meeting.

Ellerslie WSCS Plans Activities

ELLERSLIE—Woman's Society of Christian Service met Thursday evening in the Methodist Church hall. Mrs. Hazel Griffey was in charge of devotions. Topic was Christ Jesus Himself Our Redeemer." Miss Lillian Cook read "Break Thou The Bread of Life" and Mrs. Griffey gave a reading and read a prayer.

Mrs. Erma Burkett presided at the business meeting. Plans were made to have the Dime Card Dinner, January 26. Circle No. 1 turned in $41.50 cents. Thirty one sick calls were made in December. Eighteen members were present.

Each officer read their pledge of the coming year. Plans were made to have a study course on "Heritage and Horizons." World Prayer service will be held in February. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Anna Mae Cook, Mrs. Ruby Harrison and Mrs. Agnes DeVore.

Frostburg OES Will Install Officers

FROSTBURG—Mountain Chapter 15, Order of Eastern Star, will install officers tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Edgar Bennett, secretary; Mary Everline, treasurer; Ruth Berkenbaugh, conductress; Anita Hartig, associate conductress; Ruby Boettner, chaplain; Grace Thomas, marshal; Veanetta Powell, organist; Margaret Phillips, Adam; Doris Finzel, Ruth; Martha McNeil, Esther; Lena Johnson, Martha; Eleanor Howsare, Electa; Ruth Cook, Warder and William Kroll, sentinel.

Following the ceremony, refreshments will be served by Mary Evans, chairman, Margaret Bachman, Catherine Wilson, Rachel Dun, Althea Yenshaw, Joseph Evans, Margaret Layman, Elvira Nelson and Anna Crowe.

Mixed Choir Rehearses Today

FROSTBURG — St. Michael's Senior Mixed Choir will rehearse today at 7:30 p. m.

Father Guy, O.F.M. Cap. of St. Conrad's Friary, Annapolis, is assisting in parish work at St. Michael's while Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, pastor is on vacation.

The annual offering for orphans of the Baltimore Archdiocese will be taken up at all masses Sunday at St. Michael's Church.

Commissioners Hope To Hold Taxes In Line

Garrett Board Preparing Levy

OAKLAND — Garrett County Commissioners are busy at work on the 1961 levy which must be completed by next Sunday, at which time it will be known whether the tax rate is the same as last year — $2.35.

Carl Schell, president of the group, has reported there is no indication of any increase in the rate.

There has been a hike of about one million dollars in the assessable basis, bringing it close to $40 million dollars. The assessable basis last year was $38,045,952.

The increase comes from new properties placed on the tax books within the past year and from discovering various properties that had escaped taxation in past years. There has also been action on the part of the supervisors of assessments to make the tax structure more equitable for all persons.

Last year the Commissioners tacked a 35-cent increase on the rate. It was the first time since 1946 that the levy had been other than $2. The rate was set at $2.30 on each $100 with a special levy for fire departments of five cents on each $100. The latter was to raise some $20,000 which had to be paid to fire departments as the result of a special law passed at the 1959 session of the Legislature.

Many departments were asking for some increases in their budgets, but the increase in taxable basis was expected to take care of most of any increases granted.

NCAA Hands Out One-Year Penalties To Three Colleges

Tarheels Are Barred From Tournaments

Loyola Of South And Arizona Also Put On Probation

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The powerful National Collegiate Athletic Association Council handed out one-year penalties to three institutions Tuesday for violations of rules in connection with recruiting and paying athletes.

The University of North Carolina and Loyola University of New Orleans were put on probation for one year and their basketball teams were barred from competing in the national collegiate championships or any of the other tournaments that co-operate with the NCAA enforcement program.

The University of Arizona was placed on probation but no additional sanctions were imposed—a lighter penalty given in recognition of the co-operation of the Arizona administration in the investigation and its elimination of certain illegal practices even before they were reported to the NCAA.

Given Verbal Slap

North Carolina also received a strong verbal slap for slipshod accounting methods that made it impossible to determine whether more serious rules violations had taken place.

These three penalties, coming just after Oklahoma, Southern California and Tulsa had been removed from probation, brought to 58 the number of cases in which the NCAA has imposed penalties since its enforcement program began in 1952.

The committee on infractions, which makes the preliminary investigation of reported rules violations, has looked into a total of 268 cases and has dropped 151 of them.

North Carolina was found guilty of providing excessive entertainment for prospective basketball players. In particular, the council ruled that Coach Frank McGuire and a semi-official talent scout in New York, Harry Gotkin, has picked up entertainment bills that appeared too big and had failed to account in detail for the expenditures.

Boosters Paid Players

Unbeaten Martinsburg At Allegany Tonight

Bulldogs Stopped South High Rebels, Boast 5-0 Record

Martinsburg High School's undefeated Bulldogs, who cracked South Hagerstown's nine-game victory streak last Friday, are scheduled to come here tonight to engage Allegany High School's Campers in the opener of a home-and-home series at 8 o'clock.

This game was scheduled twice last month but on both occasions was postponed by Martinsburg because of icy highways which made travel hazardous.

Coach George Whitacre's Bulldogs have won five games in a row and head the Cumberland Valley Athletic League race with a 2-0 record. Monday night Martinsburg defeated Mel Henry's North Hagerstown quint, 46-42, after having previously beaten Waynesboro 64-59, Fort Hill 66-51, Shepherdstown, 75-37, and last but not least the South High Rebels, 45-41.

Martinsburg won the C.V.A.L. title last season with an 8-2 record and split even with the Campers who lost at Martinsburg, 61-60, and won here by the score of 62-59.

Prior to last night's game with Beall, the Campers owned a 5-1 record and the only loss came at the hands of South Hagerstown in a 70-64 overtime battle here December 28. Coach Chet Payne's quint had scored wins over Piedmont, the Alumni, Keyser, Altoona Catholic and Mt. Savage.

Tonight's game might prove as interesting as the South High-Allegany battle.

Fort Ashby plays at Keyser in a P. V. C. engagement tonight while Franklin's Panthers tackle Harman High School at the latter place.

Cards Sign Pair

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday signed right-handed pitcher Al Cicotte and outfielder Don Landrum, both of whom were outstanding last season in the International League.

Cicotte had a sparking 1.79 earned run average and 16-7 won-lost record at Toronto. Landrum, 24, a left-handed hitter, came to the Cards late in the season for five players and showed good promise. For Buffalo, he batted .292 with 18 home runs, 75 runs batted in and 35 doubles.

Frostburg State Will Raise Funds For Hall Of Fame

FROSTBURG—To raise money for the James Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, members of the Physical Education Club of Frostburg State Teachers College will play the game in its original form during half time of the regular game scheduled for this evening.

Wearing uniforms as were worn when basketball made its debut on the American scene and playing according to the original rules, the teams will endeavor to make the contrast of the game, then and now, as pronounced as possible.

Anyone who would like to donate a sum or make a pledge toward the fund raising project may do so by calling Dr. Harold J. Cordts at the college. Joseph Loveless, a member of the physical education club, is in charge of collecting pledges.

Schoeppner Agrees To Fight Johnson

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Paul Sullivan, chairman of the National Boxing Association's World Championships Committee, said Tuesday night that Erich Schoeppner and Harold Johnson have agreed to fight for the world light-heavyweight championship.

Sullivan, a member of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, said he received telegrams from Andy Niederreiter, New York, American representative for Schoeppner, and Pat Olivieri, Philadelphia, Johnson's manager, and both agreed to the bout.

Both fighters had been given until Jan. 10 by Sullivan's six-man NBA committee to reach a decision.

Sherman Named Giants' Coach

NEW YORK (UPI)—Allie Sherman, once such a skinny runt he was told to "get lost" when he tried out for his high school football team in Brooklyn, Tuesday was named head coach of the New York Giants.

Sherman, Giants' backfield coach for five seasons under Steve Owen and for the past two years under Jim Lee Howell, signed a three-year contract at an estimated $25,000 salary. Howell retired as head coach at the close of the past season to take a job as director of player personnel in the New York organization.

Hary Case May Parallel That Of Jim Thorpe

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—An Olympic official said Tuesday Armin Hary, German Olympic sprint champion suspended for padding his expense account, would be barred from future games and might be forced to give up the gold medals he won at Rome.

Not so said Kurt Buelow, chairman of the German committee that found Hary guilty of the charges last Saturday and suspended him from amateur athletics for a year.

In the hearing against him in Germany, Hary admitted that he received $54.26 above expenses in two pre-Olympic meets last spring.

He was suspended for one year.

Should he be forced to give up his two gold medals, Hary's case would parallel that of Jim Thorpe, the United States winner of the 1912 decathlon at the Stockholm games. Thorpe won the 10-event crown that year and was hailed by the Swedish king as the greatest athlete of his time. Later he was forced to return the trophies when it was discovered he played briefly in a professional baseball league the previous summer.

Philadelphia Seeks AFL Berth, Loop May Expand To 10 Teams

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harry Wismer, chairman of the expansion committee of the American Football League, announced Tuesday that a group from Philadelphia is seeking a league franchise for the 1962 season.

Wismer said the Philadelphia group "has plenty of money and plenty of know-how."

Wismer, also president of the New York Titans of the AFL, said he will present the facts he has learned on the Philadelphia franchise bid to the meeting of the American Football League which opens in Houston, Tex., on Thursday.

At that time, Wismer said he will recommend that the AFL be expanded to 10 teams for 1962 with the admission of Philadelphia to the Eastern Division and Chicago to the Western Division. Later, he predicted that the league will expand to 12 teams for the 1963 season.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Jack Curtice of Stanford Tuesday was elected president of the American Football Coaches Association. He succeeds Charles (Rip) Engle of Penn State.

Coppin College Plays Bobcats At Frostburg

Coppin State Teachers College of Baltimore will make its first appearance in a basketball game at Frostburg tonight against Frostburg State Teachers College and the home team will be seeking revenge for an earlier 54-51 defeat suffered in the first game of the campaign in the Monumental City.

This will be the ninth game of the season for Coach Ron Van Ryswyk's Bobcats who have won three and lost five.

Frostburg State has split even in six games at home and has dropped two decisions on the road.

The Bobcats will play their eighth home game Saturday night when they meet the Rams of Shepherd College.

To Broadcast Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Broadcasting Company said Tuesday it would carry the radio version of the March 13 bout between Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Ingemar Johansson. ABC also broadcast the first two meetings between the two.

Colonials Host West Virginia

Mountaineers Seek 10th Win Thursday

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia University's sophomore-laden basketball team, riding the crest of a seven game winning streak, meets George Washington in Washington Thursday night and may need every offensive weapon it can muster.

The Mountaineers dropped a 97-93 decision to the Colonials in Uline Arena last year as little Jon Feldman hit for 42 points.

The Colonials have been having troubles this year while losing five games against three wins. But Feldman is back and the Colonials are always tough on their home court.

1961 MERCURY MONTEREY 2-DOOR HARDTOP

TRADITIONAL MERCURY COMFORT Only Mercury has Cushion-Link Ride (standard on Monterey and Meteor 800)—a unique suspension system that absorbs jolts and jars that come through to you in other cars. It "gives" backward and forward as well as up and down. And Mercury has a longer wheelbase (120 inches) and greater weight (up to 241 pounds heavier) than other cars in its price range. Result: you enjoy a smooth, solid, steady big-car ride you'd expect to pay much more for. There's plenty of stretch-out room in Mercury, too—even more rear seat hip, shoulder and head room than in last year's spacious Mercury. Wider doors and more trunk space, too.

TRADITIONAL MERCURY VALUE There's extra value in Mercury's engine choice—all the way from the Super-Economy "6" (Mercury's first "6") to the powerful Marauder V-8's. And even the top-performing V-8's deliver up to 15% better gas mileage. There's extra value in Mercury's seven self-servicing features. From self-lubricating chassis to self-adjusting brakes, they save you money every mile you drive. Everywhere you look, the 1961 Mercury offers you traditional Mercury values. Now, for the price most people pay for a new car, you can own a Mercury. Take your pick of Mercury's three great series and drive it today!

B.F. GOODRICH PUTS A GUARANTEE BETWEEN YOU AND ROAD HAZARDS!

New B. F. Goodrich guarantee gives full allowance for all unused tread on damaged tires—for as long as 3 years on some tires! Here's how the guarantee works: B.F.Goodrich, of course, stands behind the materials and workmanship of all its tires for the entire life of the tread. But there are normal driving hazards on the road that can damage any tire . . . no matter how well it's made. ■ Suddenly, your car runs over a broken bottle, piece of sharp steel or rock. This could mean a cut, a rip or a break in the fabric that could damage your BFG tire beyond repair. ■ Now you don't have to take a loss on that tire. Take it to any B.F.Goodrich dealer with your warranty certificate, issued at time of sale. He'll check the tire's tread wear and apply the value of the remaining tread against the cost of a replacement—at current retail list prices. You pay only for the tread already used. ■ To get all the facts in this nationwide, written guarantee now on all new BFG tires, see your B.F.Goodrich dealer. Depending on the type of tire purchased, the protection of this guarantee lasts from 12 to 36 months.

NNP-2-C

You can now get B.F.Goodrich quality tires at BFG dealers and stores coast to coast. They start as low as . . . . $11.95 plus tax and the old tire on your car.

Bulldogs' 7-Game Win Streak Ends On Home Court

WMI STANDINGS

By TED TROXELL

Fort Hill's Sentinels, on the rebound from the dismal 1959-60 season when they won only one game in varsity competition, upset previously unbeaten Bruce last night, 61-54, to remain tied for the lead of the WMI League with the Allegany Campers, who scored an uphill 52-48 triumph over Beall.

In the other league encounter last night, Mt. Savage used a red-hot final period surge to defeat Valley's hapless Black Knights, 63-44.

The Sentinels stopped Bruce High's winning streak at seven games, catching the Bulldogs at the close of the second quarter after trailing throughout the first two periods by as much as eight points.

Glen Shipway knotted the score for the first time at 32-all with a field goal and after Bill Wiltison put Bruce in front once more with a pair of fouls, George Twigg knotted the count at 34-34 as the half ended.

Win third Straight

Jim Rice scored two quick goals as the third quarter started to give Fort Hill a 38-34 edge and the visiting Sentinels, coached by Jimmy Eckard, were never again headed. The Hilltoppers built the lead to 49-40 at the close of the third stanza and hung on to register their third straight victory.

Shipway paced the Fort Hill attack with 18 points, Rice collected 17, and Twigg chipped in with 14. Bruce's best bets were Earl Riggleman with 19 tallies and Wiltison with 16.

Wiltison fouled out with 32 seconds to play in the game and Fort Hill's Ronnie Manges exited two seconds later on personals.

Allegany kept intact its amazing record of not having lost to Beall at home in 32 years, although the Mountaineers looked as if they might turn the trick last night.

Beall Hangs In

Wayne Shook's field goal gave the Campers a permanent lead at 4-3 early in the opening period, but the Frostburg quint stayed in contention throughout.

With 2:12 remaining in the contest, Jim Evans connected on a jumper to pull Beall within four points, 48-44, but fielders by Jerry Pentoney and Mervin Pope all but put the game out of the Mounties' reach with 1:06 left.

The first half ended with Allegany driving in front, 22-14, as the Campers scored most of their points by driving through Beall's vulnerable two-three-one for layups.

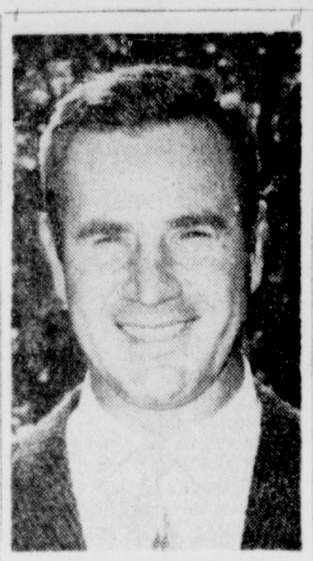

Pope, who fouled out with 59 seconds left, finished with 15 points to take scoring honors for the winners, while Bob Gaffney was right behind with 14. Evans and Andy Dunn, with 18 and 12 tallies, respectively, paced Beall. Allegany's overall shooting mark was .355—22 field goals in 62 attempts, while the visitors hit on 18 of 56 for a .321 percentage.

Indians Score First

Mt. Savage High's Indians captured their initial WMI victory at Lonaconing, marking the first time since the Indians entered the circuit that they have been able to win on the Valley boards.

The Indians jumped off to a quick lead and held it until the third quarter when Valley rallied to pull ahead 33-32. The lead seesawed back and forth until Bobby Robertson put Mt. Savage in front once again at 40-39 with a field goal, and the Indians steadily increased the margin the rest of the game.

EDWARD J. SCHWARZ

Will Get Special Achievement Award

The Dapper Dan Club will honor Allegany High School's football coach, Edward J. Schwarz at its annual sports celebrity dinner January 29 for the benefit of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Schwarz will receive the organization's special achievement award for the showing his Alco eleven made this past fall, winning 10 straight games for the team's best record in the history of the West Side School.

A native of Erie, Pa., Schwarz has been Allegany's grid coach for three seasons during which his teams have compiled a 25-5-0 record. In 1958 the Campers had a 7-3 mark, and in 1959 the Allegany eleven made it 8-2 for the season. The team has a 12-game winning streak going since late in 1959.

The hard-working Camper coach will become the sixth person to win the achievement award since it was inaugurated by the Dapper Dan Club in 1952. Last year's winners were Allegany High's retired basketball coach, Walter L. "Bill" Bowers, and Johnny Meyers, Valley High cage mentor at Lonaconing.

Schwarz, who also serves as Allegany track coach, came here from Dover, Del. He played football at the University of Maryland for four years. He is the father of two daughters and is married to the former Miss Jeanne Schaffer, a graduate of Terra Alta, W. Va., High School.

The annual dinner will be held at St. Mary's Church Hall.

Molinas Was Fired To Preserve Public Confidence In Game

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Maurice Podoloff of the National Basketball Association testified Tuesday that he had "had to fire" player Jack Molinas for betting on games in order to preserve public confidence in the integrity of professional basketball.

Testimony wound up Tuesday in the trial of Molinas' suit against Podoloff and the NBA, in which the former Fort Wayne Pistons player is seeking reinstatement plus $3 million in damages.

Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who is hearing the case in federal court without a jury, announced at the end of Tuesday's session that he will render his decision Wednesday. Earlier in the day, Kaufman denied a defense motion to dismiss the case on the grounds that Molinas had failed to prove his case.

Celtics Win, 118-98

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The Boston Celtics, paced by Tom Heinsohn's 25 points, rolled easily past the Detroit Pistons, 118-98, in the first game of a National Basketball Association double-header at Kiel Auditorium Tuesday night.

LaSalle Raps Hyndman By 84-45 Score

Explorers Notch 8th Straight Win

All five LaSalle starters hit in double figures last night as the Explorers rolled to their eighth straight win, a convincing 84-45 triumph over Hyndman at SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium.

The victory was the ninth of the campaign for the Explorers, whose only loss came in their second game against Central Catholic High of Pittsburgh.

A free throw by Gary Blake put LaSalle in front for good at 5-4. The Irish led by only six points, 17-11, at the end of the first period, but they exploded for 26 points in the second quarter while holding the Pennsylvanians to a mere seven.

Phil Barbe led the Explorers' balanced scoring attack with 17 points, while Mike Long added 14. Blake and John Sloan hit for 13 apiece, and Carroll Wilt collected 10. Jim Arnold caged 16 and Vohn Lehman tallied 14 for the Hornets, who by losing dropped into the .500 class with a 4-4 record.

Coach George Geatz used 12 players in the rout, and all but three of them broke into the scoring column as LaSalle racked up 36 field goals and converted 12 of 19 tries at the free throw line.

Reject Proposal

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—A proposal to announce scoring after each round in the Gene Fullmer-Sugar Ray Robinson middleweight title fight scheduled for Las Vegas Feb. 25 was voted down Tuesday by the Nevada Athletic Commission.

Chairman Dr. Joseph Elia of Reno favored the proposal, which he said he had the backing of the National Boxing Association. Other members said it was too risky.

"I don't care about the NBA," John Gammick of Elko said. "I vote no unless we contact both camps and they agree with the rule."

Norwood Resigns As Coach At WVSD, Rubiano Successor

Malcolm Norwood, head basketball coach at the West Virginia School for the Deaf at Romney, for more than seven years, has resigned to accept a position in the Captioned Films for the Deaf Department of the United States Office of Education, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Norwood's resignation was effective December 19.

This season the West Virginia School had won two and lost two under Norwood making his record at the school 69 wins and 84 losses.

Al Rubiano, who came to the Romney school in 1959 and since then has served as junior high basketball coach and varsity track coach, is Norwood's successor, and made his debut as varsity cage mentor last night.

Rubiano is a graduate of the New York School for the Deaf, White Plains, and Gallaudet College, Washington, D. C.

Elk Garden Belts Franklin; Jackets, Ridgeley Winners

Petersburg High School, the only undefeated scholastic team in the tri-state area, extended its winning streak to nine games and made its Potomac Valley Conference record 7-0 by clobbering Mathias High School last night at Petersburg by the score of 106 to 46.

Coach Carroll Michael's Vikings scored a total of 44 field goals and 11 of the 12 players who saw action scored two or more points. Mathias was limited to 16 goals and suffered its sixth loss in seven conference starts.

Lewis Alt and Ernie Nelson led the Petersburg attack with 23 and 20 points, respectively. Harold Michael tossed in 15 points and Roby collected 14. Lowell Mathias was high for the losers with 13 tallies.

Elks Win 6th Straight

Coach Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garden High floormen stayed right on the heels of the leaders by posting their 7th win in eight P.V.C. outings as they turned back the Franklin Panthers at Franklin, 79-45. The victory was the sixth in a row for the Elks.

Bill Paugh and Don Shillingburg with 20 and 17 points, respectively, sparked the winners while Charles Moyers topped the Panthers with 18 tallies.

Elk Garden outscored Franklin 36 to 19 in field goals and held the long end of a 33-21 score at halftime.

Jackets Top Romney

Moorefield High School's Yellowjackets remained in contention in the P.V.C. race by registering its fifth win in six starts at the expense of the Romney Vikings in an 80-52 contest at Moorefield.

Doug Yankey's 24 points spark Coach LaMar Sager's quint in scoring while Johnny Blue, Romney center, collected 28 points on 10 field goals and 8-12 fouls.

Terry Mezzatesta of Romney, made a quick exit, fouling out in the first quarter after committing five personals and one technical foul. Yankey went out on fouls in the final period.

Ridgeley Trims Lions

At Ridgeley, Coach Tom O'Connor's Blackhawks handed the Piedmont High School Lions a 50-42 setback. A year ago on the same court Piedmont won by the score of 10-7.

Del Schoonover and Frank Lambert slammed in 16 points each to lead the Ridgeley assault as the Hawks notched their fourth P.V.C. win against five losses.

Dallas-Fort Worth Franchise Is Sold To Ray Johnston

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Owners of the Dallas-Fort Worth baseball franchise in the American Association, discouraged at failure to reach the major leagues, sold the club Tuesday to a man who thinks he may turn the trick.

The purchaser is Ray Johnston, 45, manager of the Indianapolis club in the American Association.

The sale was announced by the present owners, Amon Carter Jr., president of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, and J. W. Bateson, Dallas contractor.

Bateson refused to reveal the amount.

Johnston at the press conference announced his resignation as Indianapolis general manager.

The new owner said he does not represent a syndicate, although indicating that various understandings leave the situation "flexible."

He said he purchased the club because "we want to get into the major leagues as soon as possible and with the fewest obstacles," not identifying who he meant by "we."

Parsons Stops Southern 79-61

Highlanders Win Streak Is Snapped

OAKLAND—Parsons, W. Va., High's Panthers snapped a four-game winning streak for the Southern High Highlanders here last night as the Oakland cagers bowed, 79-61.

Parsons held a slim 17-16 lead at the close of the first quarter but hit for 25 points in the second stanza to lead 42-27 at halftime and were never in danger the remainder of the game.

Alkire and Oaster each scored 20 points for the visitors while Ronnie Colaw was high man for Southern with 15. Southern now is 4-3 for the season.

Southern High's Jayvees took the measure of the Parsons Junior Varsity, 55-23, in the preliminary game as Andy Loar showed the way for the winners with 19 points. The lineups:

Stocks Battle For Small Gain In Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks emerged the victors in a fierce battle Tuesday that threatened to turn into a losing proposition by the final bell.

The gain was a small one, however, centering heavily in the rail group and to a lesser extent among the steels, foods and drug shares.

Volume was heavy, rising to 4,840,000 shares from 4,210,000 the day before. The ticker ran late on several occasions, during the first hour when 1,040,000 shares were traded and at the close when profit-taking endangered many good gains.

A 2-for-1 stock split announced near the close by Procter & Gamble helped the Dow-Jones industrial average post a 1.30 gain to 625.72 as traders boosted the stock 4¼ points. Aided by Dupont, up 3½, this helped to counteract losses in Westinghouse, General Electric and Eastman Kodak.

The rail average, meanwhile, turned in another sterling performance, rising 1.37 to 138.78. C&O gained 1⅜ following news that a big Swiss bank has again recommended that B&O shareholders accept Chessie's exchange offer. Atlantic Coast Line rose 2 points and Southern Railway 1⅜.

The utilities picked up 0.34 to 101.74 with Peoples Gas and Houston Light & Power the strong spots.

The market was very broad with 1,281 issues crossing the tape. There were 677 gainers and 393 losers. New lows ran to 5 on Tuesday against none Monday while 66 issues touched new highs.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear daughter, sister, wife and mother, Wanda Lee Zembower, who died 3 years ago Jan. 11, 1958.

In our home she is fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to her name,
Those who loved her in life sincerely
Still love her in death just the same.

Jack Meyer Signs

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Right-hander Jack Meyer, who "horse played" himself into a 15-day salary fine which brought on his threat to quit baseball last May, signed his 1961 contract with the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday.

Meyer, 28, had a 3-1 record when he injured his back in a hotel room scuffle with a teammate in Pittsburgh which he described as "horse play."

France's longest dwelling is an apartment house stretching 1,837 feet in a Paris suburb. The serpentine building has some 1,500 occupants. Its curved form leaves lawn space for children to play.

Gray Appeal Argued Before High Court

Two Previous Cases Reversed

For the third time in as many years the Maryland Court of Appeals yesterday heard argument seeking reversal of the armed robbery conviction of Raymond John Anthony Gray, who was a former Cumberlander living in Baltimore at the time of his arrest in 1958.

At the third trial last April 1, an Allegany County Circuit Court jury deliberated about 30 minutes and then found Gray guilty of the armed robbery of William J. Cover, 1404 Virginia Avenue, on Shades Lane on September 11, 1958. After that verdict, Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris immediately imposed a maximum 10-year sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary upon Gray.

Twice before Judge Harris had sentenced Gray to 10 years in the Maryland Penitentary and each time the Court of Appeals reversed the conviction and ordered a new trial.

The first was a non-jury affair before Judge Harris on October 17, 1958. The second was a jury trial on May 13, 1959. Gray was back in Allegany County Circuit Court again on March 8, 1960, but he collapsed before the trial because of a weakened condition brought on by a recent gall bladder operation. The next day he was back in court and his attorneys, Harold M. Naughton and Earl E. Manges, pleaded him guilty to receiving stolen goods.

A short time later, Judge Harris called the attorneys back into court. He informed them then that he could not accept a plea of guilty to receiving stolen goods because the May 1959 jury had found Gray guilty of that count in the criminal information.

In the argument before the Court of Appeals yesterday, Gray's attorneys contended the Circuit Court here had acted improperly denied his request that the case be sent to another court for trial and alleged there was no testimony linking him with the scene of the crime except the uncorroborated testimony of a self-confessed accomplice.

The state moved for dismissal of Gray's appeal on the grounds it did not include all of the material necessary to a consideration of the question.

Teacher Pay Plan Outlined

Mrs. Fred L. Bull of Baltimore County, center, legislation chairman of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, chats with Mrs. Benjamin R. Lewis, president of the Allegany County Council of PTA and Harry Hendrickson, Baltimore, a representative of the Maryland State Teachers Association, before a meeting of the county council last night at Beall Elementary School in Frostburg. Mrs. Bull and Mr. Hendrickson attended the meeting to explain provisions of a proposal for teachers' salaries and other aids to education sponsored jointly by their two groups.

Plan To Tax Savings, Loan Units Proposed

Funds Would Go To Subdivisions

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Another taxing proposal recognizing the growing financial plight of local subdivisions was thrown into the Maryland Legislature Tuesday.

Del. Alexander Stark, D-Balto 5th, called for taxation of savings and loan companies with deposits of more than $1 million.

Stark said he sought the new tax both as a means of raising revenue for Baltimore City and other metropolitan areas as well as to end what he thinks is discrimination.

Gov. Tawes, in his opening message to the legislature last Wednesday, said the increasing needs of Maryland's subdivisions for money posed one of the most pressing problems of the times.

He subsequently endorsed a uniform state tax of six cents on a pack of cigarettes with half of the income being given to the subdivisions.

No Strings Attached

The counties will be able to use their share as they choose.

The governor still plans to propose further taxation to provide the counties and Baltimore City with more money for public schools and welfare.

Stark's bill would impose a tax of 10 cents per $100 on the average annual deposits of more than $1 million in savings and loan companies.

He figures Baltimore City alone would pick up $1 million.

The tax on savings and loans would be the same as paid now by mutual savings banks. Stark said he feels the savings and loan companies are in competition with the banks and so should be taxed the same.

"Particularly when the city and counties need the money," he added.

A commission which has recommended the first regulation by the state of savings and loan companies also proposed a tax. It would be one cent per $100 on all deposits.

Tawes Endorses

Tawes has endorsed the commission report in general although the specific legislation has not yet been drawn.

It was a slow day for action in the legislature beyond the introduction of bills.

The House and Senate judiciary committees agreed to hold a joint hearing Feb. 2 on the touchy subject of prohibiting hotels and restaurants from refusing to serve Negroes.

The House Judiciary Committee also named a subcommittee to work on a bill that would disqualify prisoners in State institutions from collecting workmen's compensation for injuries.

In the Senate, the judiciary committee approved a bill to pave the way for setting up eye banks and similar medical resources in Maryland.

The measure would enable a person desiring to leave his body or any of its organs to such a facility after death to do so by filling out a notarizing form.

The form, if left with a doctor, would be sufficient authority for him to remove an eye cornea or other organ and preserve it for transplanting to a living person.

Hearings Set

Dr. Russell V. Fisher, State medical examiner, said present law makes it difficult to carry out such procedures because of possible objections from next of kin.

Even though permission from the next of kin might be obtained, he added, this sometimes takes longer than the desirable time lapse for removal and transplanting of tissue.

The Senate and House judiciary committees announced joint hearings will be held Jan. 24-25 on legislation to increase unemployment compensation benefits but tighten the requirements for applicants.

22 County Musicians Named To All-State Units

Twenty-two Allegany County vocal and instrumental musicians will participate in a concert Friday night at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington as one of the features of the four-day eastern conference of the Music Educators National Conference.

Sixteen of the students, representing five of the eight senior high schools in Allegany County, will participate with the All-Maryland High School Chorus. The chorus will be under the direction of Miss Margaret Hillis. Students were selected by the audition method with Charles Sager of Frostburg State Teachers College and L. J. Hahn, supervisor of music education in the county public schools, adjudicating.

The singers, who will leave by B&O train this afternoon for Washington, include Ruth Alexander, Patricia Linaburg, Charles Mooney, Mary Susan Smith and Sheila Umberger, all Allegany; Lynn Horner and Jeanine Richardson, both Beall; Patrick McCarty, Kathryn Riley and Nancy Whitworth, all Bruce; Charles Brown, Henry Fehlman, Dave Norris and Cynthia Siehler, all Fort Hill, and Richard Duckworth and Robert Mitchell, both Valley.

Four instrumental musicians will perform with the All-Maryland Band and two others with the All-State orchestra. The band members are Linda Gipe, flute, and Judy Friedman, clarinet, both Allegany, and Patrick Shannon, tenor saxophone, and Ronald Burkey, bass, both Fort Hill. Representing Allegany High School in the All-State Orchestra will be Harley Winer, violin, and Elmer Beachley, clarinet.

Allegany County music educators who will attend the convention include Mr. Hahn, Miss Dorothy Willison, Allegany; Miss Annetta Yates and Harold Hanson, both Fort Hill; Miss Carol Miller, Mt. Savage, and Mrs. Doris Peyton, Valley, all vocal music teachers; Miss Dolores Rowley, Cresaptown; Mrs. Sally Wheeler, Oldtown, and Monroe Harris, Flintstone, instrumental and vocal teachers, and Miss Anita Dickens, elementary resource music teacher.

On Saturday evening, the conference delegates will spend the evening at the National Gallery of Art to hear music by the University of Maryland Madrigal Singers and the Bucknell (Pa.) University Brass Choir.

The following evening the Washington and Cathedral choral societies will present Haydn's "The Seasons" at the National Cathedral.

Concluding the convention Monday evening, there will be a concert by the All-Eastern Band, Orchestra and Chorus, sponsored by the National Interscholastic Music Activities Commission.

Eckhart School Teacher Retires On January 31

Mrs. Ina Watson, 155 Ormond Street, Frostburg, who has taught at Eckhart School for 21 of her 29 years as a teacher, informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday that she is retiring effective January 31.

Mrs. Watson wrote the commissioners for a form which she might use in applying for the $40 supplemental pension which the county provides.

The retiring teacher, who holds a bachelor of science degree in elementary education from Frostburg State Teachers College, began her teaching career in West Annapolis in 1917. After that one year in Anne Arundel County, she returned here and taught two years at Maryland Avenue School and one year at Union Street before stopping her teaching career in 1922 for 14 years.

She reseumed teaching in the 1936-37 school year at Swain, then was on the faculty at Eckhart for the first time from 1937 until 1946. After three years at Beall Elementary School, Mrs. Watson returned to Eckhart School in the fall of 1949 and remained there ever since.

New Polaris Scores Again With ABL Help

Second-Stage Motor Made At Local Plant

An Allegany Ballistics Laboratory rocket motor yesterday helped the Navy achieve its third successful firing of the advanced, longer-range Polaris missile at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The 31-foot missile hurled a heavily instrumented dummy warhead 1,600 miles over the Atlantic Ocean in about 15 minutes. The Navy said preliminary indications were that the firing was "a complete success."

United Press International said the orange-nosed missile, designed for launching from submarines rose from a land-based launching pad at 12:14 p.m., leaving a brilliant white contrail.

Less than a minute later, an abrupt break in the contrail marked the separation of the ABL second stage. The upper section, made of a glass filament-resin material to lessen weight, soared the remainder of the distance to the ocean target in less than 15 minutes.

John E. Mellin, project engineer of the Polaris Development Department at ABL, was at Cape Canaveral to help install the second-stage motor.

ABL, the Navy-owned rocket research laboratory near Pinto which is operated by Hercules Powder Company, has contributed a second-stage motor for all three advanced design Polaris missiles fired since November 10. All three firings have been successful.

The motor uses a new, more powerful type of solid propellant cased in Spiralloy—a combination of glass filaments and resin which has the highest strength-to-weight ratio of all known materials. The rocket case is manufactured at the Hercules plant in Rocky Hill, N. J.

Development work is being done to provide an even greater increase in the Polaris missile's range.

Fire Company Training Representatives Listed

Allegany and Garrett counties are included in a listing of training representatives serving Maryland volunteer fire departments which appears in the January issue of the bulletin of the Fire Service Extension at the University of Maryland.

A training representative serves as liaison between his fire company and the Extension. Information regarding developments in firemen's training activities and information of value to Maryland firemen is channeled directly to the representative.

It is his responsibility to see that this information is made available to all members of his fire company. The representative is also responsible for coordinating requests for firemen's training classes.

Allegany County representatives include: Harry M. DeHaven, Baltimore Pike; James Lamberson, Barton; Fred D. Purnell, Bedford Road; Calvin R. Ayers, Bowling Green; Leo C. Emerick, Bowman's Addition; J. Francis Fatkins, Clarysville.

Harry W. Martz, Corriganville; Assistant Chief Robert C. Long, Cumberland; Joseph Wenrich, Cresaptown; Lawrence F. Kyle, Flintstone; William R. Vogtman, Frostburg; Ralph Delligattie, LaVale; Kenneth E. Wilcox, Luke.

R. Homer Ambrose, McCoole; Harry Devlin, Midland; Raymond P. Kamauf, Shaft, William Mayles, Westernport; and Theodore Combs, Piedmont.

Garrett County representatives include: Chief Orlando W. Hetrick, Accident; Charles Pattison, Bloomington; Carl W. Thrasher, Deer Park; Clyde A. Vansickle, Friendsville; Delmer Martin, Kitzmiller and Chief Harold L. Schell, Oakland.

Frostburg Collects 100 Pints Of Blood

Three Are Named To 4-Gallon Club

Three persons became members of the Four-Gallon Club. They are John Leo Dean, 107 Maple Street; Aaron W. Bean, RFD 1, Box 9, Frostburg; and Donald Lloyd, 89 Hill Street.

Three others joined the Three-Gallon Club as each gave the 24th pint of blood. They include Thomas Hutchison, 131 West College Avenue; Mrs. Viola Buckalew, 4 Standish Street; and Harry K. Elliott, 195 West Main Street.

Four joined the Two-Gallon Club, including Richard E. Farrell, RFD 2, Box 1-A, Frostburg; George W. Buckalew, 33 Hill Street; Mrs. Beulah Wolford, RFD 2, Box 297, Frostburg; and Alexander Ganyu, 5 Blair Street.

The Gallon Club added Joe E. Coakley, 14 West Main Street, Hohn W. Logue, 147 Bowery Street, and Henry L. Ranck, 132 McCulloh Street, to its roster.

There were 129 scheduled to give blood at Frostburg yesterday, but only 81 kept their appointments. A total of 24 volunteer walk-ins were registered. Twenty gave blood as replacements and seven canceled their visits. Six persons were rejected for disabilities and two gave blood for the first time.

Physicians on duty yesterday included Dr. Frank T. Harrat, Dr. W. O. McLane, Dr. John B. Davis, Dr. H. C. Diehl, and Dr. Martin M. Rothstein.

The next visit of the bloodmobile to Frostburg is planned in April.

Juvenile Charge Filed By Trooper

An 18-year-old Romney youth held for the theft of money from a business establishment in that Hampshire County community was arrested on a charge filed by Sgt. Charles S. Burke, head of the Romney detachment of West Virginia State Police.

The Cumberland News in last Friday's edition incorrectly stated that the charge was filed by Mr. and Mrs. John S. Williams of Romney.

Demolition Plan Adopted For Dwellings

Plans to condemn and order the demolition of five dwellings located at 510-516 Hill Street were made yesterday in City Hall as representatives of city and county officials met with the owner of the property.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech, head of the City Health Board, presided at the session, when reports on the condition of the properties were presented.

After hearing reports that the properties are not repairable and are a menace to the safety and health of the community, Mayor Keech recommended against a time extension after the five-day notice period expires.

Carl E. Wilson, 236 Miller Street, Turtle Creek, Pa., owner of the properties, attended with Charles O. Cook, this city.

Mr. Wilson said he purchased the properties nearly four years ago and questioned why they had not been torn down if they were condemned in 1947.

He admitted the condition of the properties but said the people are "not mine but Cumberland's," saying, "I inherited this mess and want it understood it does not reflect on my character."

He apparently referred to a statement by J. Byron Dowling, Health Department sanitarian, that new housing regulations here make the property owner responsible not only for the upkeep of dwellings but also the actions of tenants.

Mayor Keech said he had heard promises from the property owner in 1958 that repairs would be made. He suggested that efforts be made to find quarters for tenants after reporting he favored immediate demolition of the properties.

Mr. Cook said that if the health board would allow it, he and Mr. Wilson would repair one unit which could be inspected to indicate what could be done.

Fire Chief Virgil Parker reported the properties have been a source of trouble for 15 years and the Fire Department inspector, John E. Trost, said that if the buildings are allowed to stand the Fire Department cannot be responsible.

There are 10 apartments in the five dwellings which provide quarters for 48 persons, including 31 children.

Beall Proposes Monument To Washington

Sen. J. Glenn Beall yesterday introduced a bill in the Senate calling for erection of a monument to George Washington on the site of old Fort Cumberland.

The bill is identical to one introduced by Sen. Beall in the 86th Congress. That one died in committee, but Sen. Beall hopes the 87th Congress will pass the new measure.

Noting that the history of Fort Cumberland is interwoven with the life history of the first President, the Senator said:

"It was while Washington was stationed at Fort Cumberland that he ran for his first elective office, member of the Virginia House of Burgesses.

"It had been requested that Fort Cumberland be reconstructed as a historical park. Instead, I think that a suitable statue of Washington on this site would serve the same purpose and would be less expensive.

"It is my understanding that Allegany County, which owns the land, would provide a suitable base for the statue."

Course Urged For Sanitary Commissioners

A special course of instruction for the men who will serve on sanitary commissions in Maryland is being suggested by Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Mr. Clark has set forth his views in a letter he sent yesterday to Louis Schmidt, who is attorney to the State Department of Health.

The county attorney pointed out that a number of other counties like Allegany are just getting sanitary commissions activated. He believes a one-day course of instruction would be helpful to all of the commissioners.

He listed four main subjects to be considered in such a one-day course. They are:

1. Organization of commission and procedures; 2. jurisdiction of commission and its work; 3. financing methods and 4. legal problems involved in the establishment and conduct of the commission.

Mr. Clark thinks the course should be conducted by the State Department of Health at the earliest opportunity.

Condemnation Seeks Tract For College

A condemnation suit has been filed by the State Board of Education in Allegany County Circuit Court over four lots on Park Avenue in Frostburg which are needed for the expansion of Frostburg State Teachers College.

This property is improved by two gasoline pumps and a small one-story frame building used in connection with a gasoline station business. This business was operated jointly by Emerson E. Thomas and Ralph W. Thomas, until the latter died in January 1943.

As a consequence of Ralph Thomas' death without leaving a will, this condemnation suit is brought against the known heirs of Ralph, the known heirs of his father, John Morgan Thomas and any unknown heirs of the latter.

The State Board of Education contends that it is unable to make any agreement to purchase their respective rights in the property because the demands made by the defendants are considered excessive and unreasonable by the board.

A legal notice will be published warning non-resident defendants and any unknown defendants to appear in court here on or before March 17 to show cause why their property should not be condemned.

Swimming Course For Youngsters Scheduled At 'Y'

A swimming class for youngsters from five to eight years of age will begin on Monday, January 23 at 4 p. m. at Central YMCA.

The course will be taught every Monday and Tuesday from 4 to 5 p. m. January 23 through February 14, a total of eight one-hour classes.

The class is limited to 20 enrollees and all fees are payable in advance. Two instructors will conduct each class and parents are invited to watch from the pool bleachers.

Robert M. Williams, general secretary at the Y, will assist with the new classes.

Judge Cobey Reverses Case

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey yesterday reversed a decision of Frostburg Trial Magistrate Frank R. Kelly and awarded Alva Lewis, 315 East Main Street, Frostburg, a $34.20 verdict in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Lewis had filed the suit for $38 last August 1 against Thomas Newman, Mt. Savage. Mr. Newman had obtained automobile insurance from another company and did not notify Mr. Lewis that he was not accepting the policy from him.

John C. Sullivan, Mr. Lewis' attorney, argued that Mr. Newman had a duty to notify Mr. Lewis of the non-acceptance of the policy. The $34.20 represented a six-month premium on the policy. Magistrate Kelly had found for Mr. Newman and Mr. Lewis appealed the decision of September 10.

Van Horn Paroled

BALTIMORE (AP) — Robert Jett Van Horn, sentenced to 10 years imprisonment in the slaying of his wife in 1957, has been paroled from the Maryland Penitentiary.

The Department of Parole and Probation announced Tuesday the 57-year-old former lumber company president was among 67 persons paroled from state prisons last month.

Van Horn left the penitentiary Dec. 5 after serving a third of his sentence. He will be on parole until the sentence ends in 1967. Van Horn is formerly of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Mrs. Bernice W. F. Van Horn, Baltimore County society matron, was found beaten to death June 1, 1957. Van Horn was convicted of manslaughter in December of that year.

A dispute involving Mrs. Van Horn's $800,000 estate was settled out of court in 1959 and Van Horn got none of the money.
